PARISH CHURCH AT UGBOROUGH, DEVONSHIRE, ENGLAND.

NOTE TO FRONTISPICE.

In the parish church at Ugborough, Devonshire, England, William Kinge and Agnes Elwill were married October 16, 1642, and in it their son, James King, the founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut, was baptized November 7, 1647.

In the north Transept of the church is a mural monument in memory of two ancestors of the family who are entombed in the vault under it.

In the church yard Agnes Elwill Kinge, the mother of James King, was buried April 7, 1662, and other ancestors are buried there.

The church is very ancient. See page 44.

INTRODUCTION.

"Honor and shame from no condition rise Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

POPE.

Whatever may be one's responsibility to his descendants for their moral or physical characters, it is certain that no person is entitled either to credit or blame for the virtues or vices, the greatness or lowliness of his ancestors; yet a knowledge of who they were, whence they came and what pursuits they followed is usually of interest to most men; and if among them is found here and there some one who was eminent or distinguished in the times in which he lived, his descendants may be pardoned for feeling that natural pride of one kinsman in the achievements of another. Even between two friends the success of one is a source of gratification to the other. Influenced by some such feeling I venture to hope that the following remarks on the origin of family names in general and of the surname King in particular, the short sketch of the King family in Great Britain, and especially the genealogical and historical record of one branch of the King family which has now been established in America for nearly two and a half centuries—eleven generations of which have lived upon her soil and many members of which have fought to establish and perpetuate the Great Republic under which we live and to preserve the liberty we enjoy—may not prove uninteresting to those who are connected by blood with that family.

Many years ago my father, George Eliphalet King, Esq., exhibited to me an old manuscript which gave some account of my great-grandfather, Lieutenant Eliphalet King, his service as an officer in the Continental Army, his presence at the Battle of Bunker Hill and his participation in many other engagements during the struggle of the American colonies for independence. After my father's death in 1897 I discovered that this old manuscript had been accidentally destroyed and I resolved to supply its loss by collecting from authentic sources such data concerning the lives of my American ancestors as could be conveniently obtained. My intention at first was to write merely a concise history of my own immediate ancestors beginning with William Kinge who was the first of our family to come to America. Before I had proceeded far with my self-appointed task I was urged to extend the scope of my investigations so as to include some research concerning our English ancestry and also to embrace, as far as possible, the various branches of the family in America, which are scattered over many states of the Union. In an unguarded moment, without fully realizing the vast amount of labor it involved, I rashly consented and began the compilation of this Genealogy.

Eight years have elapsed since then and during that period I have devoted all the time which I could spare from professional duties to this work. It has necessitated the investigation of parish registers in England and of many church and town records in New England; the searching of probate, court and land records; the examination of numerous ancient and modern deeds, wills and documents relating to members of the King family; the carrying on of a very extensive correspondence as a means of obtaining more accurate information; and the collection generally of the material which is herein presented to the reader. Members of the same family sometimes differ as to dates. A few records will be found incomplete, but generally this is due to the failure of persons to make reply to repeated letters of inquiry. And though I have exercised the greatest possible care to avoid errors, undoubtedly some will be discovered in the book. Notwithstanding these imperfections I am content with the work. I have done the best I could do and I sincerely hope that my kinsmen who read these pages may also be satisfied with my effort.

ORIGIN OF FAMILY NAMES.

Family names were in use among the Romans and the great antiquity of the early Roman patrician gentes is indisputable, yet toward the close of the republic there were not more than fifty patrician families. (Dionys. I. 85.) Even in these, owing to the frequency of the practice of adoption, while the historical identity of the family was certain, yet it was no guarantee of the personal genealogy of the individual. The plebeians also began to preserve the busts and names of those of their family who attained to curule office. The many and great social changes, however, which marked the closing centuries of the Western Empire militated with great strength against the maintenance of an aristocracy by birth and as a consequence family names fell into disuse.

In modern Europe prior to the middle of the eleventh century surnames were entirely unknown and the documents speak merely of Fredericus, Ernestus and the like, with at most only the addition of the title. This absence of family names presents an insuperable barrier to genealogizing back beyond that time.

About the year 1050 the custom of using family or surnames (that is a descriptive name added to the christian name) began; but it made way so very slowly that even at the close of the twelfth century it had not diffused itself very much beyond the ranks of the higher nobility and throughout the thirteenth century the old habit of self-designation by the christian name merely was still exemplified in a vast number of instances. (Encyc. Brit. "Genealogy.")

Even William, the Conqueror, had no family name, but assumed a surname as is shown by his proclamation as follows: "I, William, surnamed the Bastard."

Gatterer in his "Abriss der Genealogie" (sec. 41, A. D., 1788) says that there is only one class of cases in which it is possible to trace a pedigree beyond the eleventh century—those cases, namely, where a family happens to have established a fund for the deliverance of the souls of certain ancestors (christian names specified) from purgatory.

Mr. Edward A. Freeman, the distinguished English historian, has proved most conclusively that very few families in England could trace a descent from scions of the fourteenth century and he mentions only some five or six families whose history could be proved as belonging to the time of William, the Conqueror. The Domesday book alone (1080-1086) proves the absence of surnames.

Camden says ("Britannia" A. D. 1586) that the first use of surnames in England was in the Great Domesday book and that this was the beginning of family names in Great Britain.

The Great Domesday book of England was a survey of the counties of England begun by order of William, the Conqueror, and completed about the year 1086. It was an enumeration not only of the lands in the Kingdom but also of the names of the landholders and tenants, the size and description of their holdings, the number of their villeins and slaves and the number and kinds of their live stock. The surnames found in it, if they can be called such, either merely indicate the owners place of residence, as Robertus de Albemarle (i. e. of or residing at Albemarle), or his relationship, as Robertus, filius Geroldi (Robert, son of Gerald), Aldrit frater Odonis, (Aldrid, brother of Odo), or his office, profession or vocation, as Gulielmus Camerarius (William, the Chamberlain), Radulphus Venator (Rudolph, the hunter) Gislebertus Cocus (the cook). They were, of course, certainly surnames in the sense that they were descriptive of the persons whose christian names they followed, just as Tom, of San Francisco, Dick, the son of Richard and Harry, the cook, would represent the surnames of Tom, Dick and Harry. It is true that many of the descriptive names used in Domesday book did descend from father to son and thereby became true family names, but in a large number of other cases they did not become hereditary.

Even in the Domesday book descriptive names were for the most part only applied to the larger landholders. Each county or shire is treated separately. There is a numbered list of the landholders and tenants in each. The King (always Rex, possessive Regis, for the book is written in Latin) comes first in order. Following him come the great church and lay tenants and these in turn are followed by the smaller proprietors and sub-tenants. In most cases these small proprietors are described by their christian names alone and without any attempt at further descriptive or surnames.

About A. D. 1350, "to speak generally, the surnames of the middling and lower ranks began to descend from father to son but even at the beginning of the fifteenth century there was much confusion in names" (Lower's "English Surnames," p. 20). The middle class had become important politically in the latter half of the thirteenth century. Between 1258 and 1350 burgesses had been summoned to parliament, city representation in parliament was established, taxes could not be imposed without the consent of this middle class and wages for workmen had risen enormously on account of the Great Plague and scarcity of laborers. Surnames then became general during the fourteenth century among the middle and working classes, who were more prosperous and independent than they had ever been before. In the rising of the English peasantry in 1381 Wat Tyler was the leader; Wat being an abbreviation of the christian name Walter and Tyler being a surname meaning the trade or occupation of a tiler, one who tiles roofs of houses. This name was evidently inherited from his father since Wat Tyler himself was a blacksmith. But among the people of England generally it is undoubtedly true, as Mr. M. A. Lower observes ("English Surnames," p. 22), that "surnames can scarcely be said to have been permanently settled before the era of the Reformation (Archaeologia Vol. XVIII p. 108). The keeping of Parish Registers, begun A. D. 1538, was probably more instrumental than anything else in settling them, for it is not likely that a person baptized by one surname would be married under another and buried under a third."

Of course some few of the middle class families, perhaps those connected or intimate with the nobility or higher classes, followed the example of the latter and adopted surnames even before the thirteenth century. From an examination of ancient documents, while pursuing some investigations as to the origin of the name

"King" I discovered abundant evidence that the family or surname "King" was well established as early as the twelfth century and probably long before that. The following are some of these records: "Grant by Peter, the Prior and the Convent of the Holy Trinity to Alan King" in the time of Richard I, A. D. 1190, "Descriptive Catalogue of Ancient Deeds," published by the Government of Great Britain, p. 198, A. D. 1695. Mention is also made of Roger Kynge in Middlesex A. D. 1199. See also Domesday Book of St. Pauls for the year 1222 in which is mentioned "Hugh King" as a tenant at Thorp (p. 40), "Robert King," tenant at Ardleigh (p. 26), "William King" tenant at Novestoke (p. 85), "William King" son of Roger de Tia (p. 84). So also in "Calendarium Genealogicum, Inquisitions Post Mortem" (Records of Chancery Proceedings—De Morte Rodulphi de la Greve) p. 7 we find an order made in the 28th year of Henry III (A. D. 1244) relating to "Willielmus Kyng, alias King;" and another order relating to "Robertus, dictus (called) King" (in the year 1247). In the "Calendar of the Close Rolls" (pp. 12-13) we find that on March 4, 1308 an order is made to the sheriff of the County Devon for the release of Richard le Kyng" and "Harlewyn King" (without the "le"). A great many deeds made during the 12th and 13th centuries wherein persons having the surname King are mentioned either as grantors or grantees, can be found in the "Catalogue of Ancient Deeds" mentioned above.

All names, without exception, were originally significant, although in the course of ages the meanings of many of them have lapsed from the memory of mankind. If the names of common objects were not dictated by mere caprice, and philology has shown clearly that they were not, certainly the names of persons had no such vague beginning. A glance at the Bible-names shows that they all had a meaning, as for instance Abraham, which meant "the father of many nations" (Gen. CXVII, v. 5), his wife Sarah meaning "princess," Israel, meaning "a prince of God" (Gen. CXXXII v. 28), Melchizedek, "King of Righteousness." Nearly all Hindoo names are epithets and the same is true as to Anglo-Saxon, old French and English names of the middle ages. We see the same thing exemplified in Indian names.

English surnames originally designated place of residence, estate, occupation or some particular thing or event that related to the person. Many names of today at once show their relation to or connection with familiar objects, such for instance as Wood, Church and Hall; other names again are evidently epithets, such as Wise, Good, Long and Little; others are descriptive of personal appearance, as Brown, Black and White. The son of William, the Conqueror, was surnamed Rufus (red) from the color of his hair. Some names clearly indicate the occupation followed by an ancestor, as Smith, Carpenter, and Miller; while others again indicate localities as Forest, Heath and Hill.

The use of surnames began, as we have seen, among those of highest rank. The heir of the estate or office naturally adopted the same name on the death of his ancestor and so a true family name arose. The younger sons would take the names of the several manors that might be given to them as their share of the estate. Pride of birth and a desire to show their connection with some powerful or distinguished person made the name common to all the children of the same father. Charters in the eleventh and twelfth centuries often describe the same individual under different surnames; sometimes because he had lost his original manor or because he had come into possession of a more valuable one, but as a rule there was handed down to the children the name of the oldest or richest estate they possessed. The Crusades gave rise to many surnames taken from the devices on the shields of the Knights, such for instance as Griffin, Rose and the like. But I have said enough to emphasize the fact that each name had originally a meaning and was descriptive of the identity of the individual or family.

ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY NAME, KING.

It may now be asked, "How is the name King descriptive of our family?" "Are we descended from Royalty?" "Are we connected with some king of ancient times?" It would be quite absurd to suppose so. In order to bear the name of King it does not at all follow that we are descendants of or in any way related by blood to any person who held the office or title of king. Even if it did the honor would not be so great, if we consider the persons and their stations to whom the title of King has been applied.

While the word king ordinarily means the ruler or sovereign of a kingdom, yet it has far oftener and from time immemorial been also applied to the chiefs of tribes or clans. Such were the kings which Joshua is said to have slain by thirties at a time on the banks of the river Jordan (Joshua, ch. XII, v. 9-24), mere chiefs or sheiks of Arab tribes. The kings of Sparta were hereditary yet they were only subordinate chiefs of a severe republic. In its primary sense the word King (Sax. Cyng, Cynig or Cyning; Ger. Koenig; D. Koning; Sw. Konung, Kung; Dan. Kong; Welsh, Cun) meant merely a cunning, knowing, or able man, a guide, a leader, a head, a chief. The designation or title king was applied to the head men of clans or tribes. Five so-called kings were seen in Ireland when Henry II conquered that country in 1172. Scottish and British chiefs assumed the title of king. So that in reality, king meant little else than a head man, or a leader of a group or tribe.

But even in England, where the king was sovereign and ruler of the whole kingdom, there were those who were attached to the king's service or person as his knights, squires, foresters, soldiers, guards and servants of various kinds who were called the king's men or the king's. It frequently happened that their very occupation such as knight, squire or forester, originated their surnames. It also so happened that as they were the king's men, John, a king's guard, became familiarly called "John, the king's," and in course of time merely "John King." In the same way, too, estates were held and owned by the king which were rented to tenants and they were called tenants of the king, while other persons might be tenants of a Bishop or some other titled person. Even towns have taken the name of king from the fact that they were part of the king's estate. Thus Kings-ton on Thames, County Surrey, England, derived its name from the fact that at an early period it was a royal demesne.

In the Domesday book the smaller proprietors, whose christian names alone were given, were grouped in classes as "servientes Regis," "Taini Regis" or "Elesmosynarii Regis," that is the king's serjeants, the king's Thanes, the king's Almsmen, etc. Each tenant of the king being described by his christian name and the land he held. So it could happen that the tenant of a royal estate would, when spoken of as a tenant, be called, for instance, "Roger, the king's," and in time the surname or descriptive name would become merely "King"—Roger King, from the fact that he was a tenant of the king.

There is indeed an ancient and persistent tradition, several centuries old, that our King family derived its surname and sprang from a line of West Saxon kings; but however agreeable or flattering such a derivation of name and race might be to us, we are in possession of no facts tending to support it. It has also been suggested that perhaps the name was given to some illegitimate issue of a king, but this is fully as preposterous as to assert that the bearers of the name are legitimate descendants and besides, as Mr. M. A. Lower remarks ("English Surnames"), there is no evidence or reason to sustain it. Any reasons given therefor must apply with equal force to the surnames Prince, Duke, Count, Bishop and a host of other names and makes the suggestion absurd.

A much more plausible theory has been advanced which ascribes the origin of the surname King to the very ancient miracle plays. It is said that in these old miracle plays, acted in public upon the streets, greatly favored by the church and in which the people generally took part and represented the characters therein, the individual who played the king or who in the mediaeval pageantries and mock ceremonies was monarch of the feast would be habitually spoken of as the king or as king until the appellation so fastened itself upon him as to originate a lasting and hereditary surname. Even at present in Germany where the miracle and passion plays are still presented, persons are for years thereafter spoken of by the name of the character they represented. In Cornwall and Devonshire these miracle plays were especially popular and in A. D. 1302 we find in Devonshire (Calendar of the Close Rolls, pp. 12-13) the surname "le Kyng" (the king) and in Calendarium Genealogicum,—Inquisitions Post Mortem—"Robertus dictus King" (Robert called King) which would tend to strengthen this theory.

Hon. Marquis F. King of Portland, Me. (recently deceased), a genealogist of note, in an historical and genealogical address delivered at Taunton, July 20, 1899, says:

"Genealogists have generally accepted the theory that King as a surname originated in those popular mediaeval pastimes in which 'Kings of the Bean,' 'of May,' 'of Cockneys,' 'of Misrule' and others held temporary sway; and sometimes the title was given for some special accomplishment or leadership; for instance, Adenes, le Roy of the minstrels, Robin Hood, King of the Greenwood. I do not think the supposition entirely improbable, but conclude it more likely that as so many surnames came from occupation, that in those countries where state and king were synonymous terms, 'de King,' or 'du Roy' would naturally become an affix to any servitor's name in the absence of official titles. I have noted that even as late as 1445 Nicholas de King and others were witnesses to the conveyance of one virgate of land in his manor of Wattume, for the health of his soul and the souls of his two wives, Juliana and Lucy, and his father and mother and all his ancestors and successors by Robert de Berkhai, to God and the Church of St. Mary of Kingeswode. The location of the church suggests the probability that Nicholas was the forester."

It is needless to attempt to enumerate the ways in which the name could first have arisen. Many may occur to one who reflects upon the way in which William of the forest, or Richard, the brown skinned, or Peter, the long-legged, became respectively William Forest, Richard Brown and Peter Long, transmitting to their posterity the surnames Forest, Brown and Long. In a way similar to the origin of the name King arose such other surnames as Prince, Duke, Earle, Baron, Knight, Noble, Marshall, etc.

The word or name King was in olden times spelled in various ways. In Domesday book (of course the monarch or sovereign is always written Rex) the Saxon word is spelled in two ways, viz: "Cinge" and "Chinge," but this is because of the disuse of the letter k in the Latin language in which Domesday is written, and because c and ch in Latin have the hard sound of k in English. In the Exon Domesday, however, also written in Latin, but several years later, the word is occasionally spelled "Kinge" though in some places it is "Cinge" and in others "Chinge." In St. Paul's Domesday it is "King." In some ancient documents it is "Kynge" and "Kyng" and in one it is "Kyng alias King." ("Inquisitions Post Mortem"—Chancery* Proceedings—p. 7.) We have records, as will appear hereafter, where our name was anciently, in 1389-1548, spelled Kynge; a century later, 1643, spelled Kinge, though the name of the same person was twenty years subsequently, 1662, spelled King.

The surname King could have originated in so many different ways, as we have seen, that it is probable the name was applied independently to persons in widely separated localities and of no relationship to or even acquaintance with each other, though probably to avoid confusion it would be applied as a surname to but one family in any one particular neighborhood or county. In this way the frequency with which the family name King is met with in different parts of Great Britain would be easily accounted for and it is not surprising that there are only thirty-five names that occur more frequently or are more common than King in England, while the number of individuals claiming that name there is over forty-five thousand. Of the old established families of that name in Great Britain, Burke in his General Armory blazons no less than thirty-eight King and fifteen Kinge coats of arms. Many of these, however, are related to each other.

DEVONSHIRE, ENGLAND, THE BIRTHPLACE OF OUR FAMILY.

Our own family name, King, may or may not have originated in some such way as has been above described. Certain it is, that the King family was well established in Devonshire several centuries ago, but the source of our family name there is, of course, merely speculative and is completely lost in antiquity. "The Calendar of the Close Rolls" (published by authority of the British Government) at pages 12 and 13 shows an order of release to the sheriff of Devonshire for Richard le Kyng and his relative Herlewyn Kyng, made March 4, A. D., 1308, and the Chancery Records, known as "Inquisitions post Mortem" for the 28th year of Henry III (A. D. 1244) mention "Willielmus Kyng alias King" (see Calendarium Genealogicum of Great Britain p. 7), showing the transition also of the name Kyng to King, also frequently therein spelled Kinge.

The most interesting of these records is an ancient charter made in the year 1389 at Dodebrook (eight miles from Ugborough), Devonshire, England, by Rogerus Kynge, which is now preserved in the family and is in the possession of Harvey J. King, Esq., of Troy, N. Y. Of this ancient document we will speak more fully hereafter when we come to consider the subject of our English ancestry.

Devonshire is the third largest county in England. The British tribes which inhabited this part of the west of England were called Dumnonii by Ptolemy; and Dumnonia or Damnonia, the Latinized name of a kingdom, which long remained independent after the arrival and early conquests of the West Saxons, seems to be identical with the Cymric "Dyfnaint" which survives in the present "Devon." The Saxon settlers as they advanced into the country called themselves "Defenas," that is, men of Devon or Dyfnaint, thus adopting the British name. For some time after the landing of William, the Conqueror, and the battle of Hastings, Devon remained undisturbed. In the spring of the year 1068 Exeter in Devonshire was besieged and taken by the Conqueror who built a castle there which was again besieged in 1137 by Stephen for three months. There are many ancient ruins in the county of great interest.

Nearly the whole area of Devonshire is uneven and hilly. It contains the highest land in England south of the Yorkshire Ingleborough. The scenery, much varied, is in parts of the county very striking and picturesque. The coast has grand cliff and rock scenery not excelled by any in England or Wales. The country immediately inland is of great beauty. There are many rivers, most of which run south and empty into the English Channel. In the central portion of the county, Dartmoor has existed as a royal forest from a period before the conquest.

Devonshire is an agricultural country and is called the "Garden of England." Its fisheries also have been of importance. No county in England, save Middlesex, has given birth to so many eminent men as Devonshire. Among these are: Sir Walter Raleigh, Drake, Hawkins, Marlborough, Monk, Coleridge, Hooker, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Jno. Davis, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, Wolcott, Kingsley, John Ford, Sir Richard Grenville, Bishop Jewell, Gay, St. Boniface, Newcomin, Lord Peter King, Lord Chancellor of England and a host of others. It was from Plymouth, Devonshire, that the Pilgrim Fathers in the Mayflower took their final leave of old England and it was after that Devonshire town that they named their first settlement in New England—Plymouth.

Devonshire was the scene of much disturbance and fighting during the civil war of the commonwealth. Both Exeter and Plymouth in Devonshire were besieged for many months. Plymouth was one of the cities which successfully resisted the Royalist forces. At that time (1642-1658) the residence of William Kinge, the first of our ancestors who came to America, was at Ugborough, Devonshire, about fourteen miles from Plymouth and about thirty miles from Exeter. He was thus situated in the very midst of the scene of conflict and could scarcely have escaped being an actor in it. It was during this time also that his two children, William Jr. (1643) and James (1647), afterwards of Suffield, Connecticut, and the founder of our family in America, were born.

ENGLISH AND IRISH RELATIONSHIPS.

Such is the country from which the ancestors of our own King family came. Branches of the King family, however, undoubtedly extended outside of Devonshire. They were to be found in London, and also in the counties of Northampton, Dorset, Sussex, Cornwall, Suffolk, Essex and elsewhere. The English records are too meager and disconnected to enable one to establish and present a complete chain of relationship between many of the King families of Great Britain which are by tradition and in all probability thus connected. It must be remembered that there were no parish registers of baptisms, marriages and burials kept in England until the year 1538, and a number of those kept since that date are quite imperfect, while some have been lost or destroyed through negligence or in times of great political disturbance or revolution.

Wills probated in England furnish some clues but anything like a thorough search of them involves great labor and expense. Besides, estates and especially the small holdings of the middle class descended in most instances according to the law of inheritance and not by will. The records of these intestates often give valuable information. Land could not be devised by will in England until about A. D. 1540 when a statute of Henry VIII made it possible. It was only wills of personal or mixed personal and real property that were required to be probated and no probate of a will of merely real property was necessary until about 1857. Title to real estate by will might be shown by production of the will as a document of title in the same manner as a deed. Furthermore there were no adequate laws for the registration of the transfers of title to land and hence few records were made until in quite recent times. From all these circumstances it will be readily understood that the searches of a genealogist are made under great disadvantages and difficulties. During the past few years, however, the English court and other records are being extensively investigated, copied and published to the great aid of genealogical research in general.

There are occasional features, also, tending to show a connection between many individual families bearing the name King (Kinge and Kynge) who now reside in widely separated localities in Great Britain. Such, for instance, are similarity of coats armor and crests, which we will consider more fully hereafter. References in wills, writings or records to the names of common ancestors, or localities from which the family originally came, parish registers, entries in family Bibles or other family records, inscriptions on tombstones and even occasionally tradition, when it appears probable and without motive, are all evidences that should be given their due weight and consideration.

King is originally and essentially an English name. It is not Irish, and was a family name in England when there were few surnames to be found in Ireland. Indeed it is a curious fact that so backward were the Irish people generally in adopting surnames that as late as the year 1465 it was deemed necessary to pass a statute (5 Edward IV chap. 3) by which it was enacted "that every Irishman that dwells betwixt or among Englishmen in the County Dublin, Myeth, Uriel and Kildare * * * shall take to him an English surname of one towne, as Sutton, Chester, Trym, Skyrne, Corke, Kinsale; or color as White, Black, Brown; or art or science, as Smith, Carpenter; or office, as Cook, Butler," etc.

There are Irish families of the name, King, but on careful examination they will be found to have originated in England. Many instances of this can be traced. Thus one branch of the Kings seems to have been settled in Huntingdonshire as early as the fourteenth century and a part of the family still resided there during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and even up to the present time; but some branches of the same family removed to Ireland, thus planting the name in that country and, indeed, before them it had been carried there by less conspicuous members of the family. Sir John King of Huntingdonshire was given by Queen Elizabeth in 1559, as a reward for his military services, a lease of the Abbey Boyle, County Roscommon, Ireland, and from James I he also obtained numerous grants. He died in 1636 and from him is descended one extensive Irish branch of the King family, now represented by Henry Edwyn King (9th), Earl of Kingston, Viscount Lorton, Baron Kingston, etc., Lieutenant 3d Battalion, Leicestershire Regiment, born Sept. 19, 1874.

Of another very extensive Irish branch of the English King family is Sir Gilbert King, Baronet of Charleston, County Roscommon. He is descended from Rev. Edward King, born in 1575, at Stukeley, Huntingdonshire, Doctor of Divinity at Dublin in 1595; Bishop of Elphin, Ireland, in 1617; died in 1638. He had fifteen children, which seems not an unusual number in the King family (see King family in America, especially Ebenezer (No. 72) and Lieut. Eliphalet (No. 33). It is unnecessary in the above reference to the Irish King families to give the intermediate ancestors between Sir John King and Henry Edwyn King, Earl of Kingston, or between Bishop Edward King and Sir Gilbert King, Baronet. They can be found in Burke's Peerage and Burke's "Landed Gentry." We have only mentioned these families as showing the transference of the name to Ireland. Within the last century there has been quite a large immigration of Kings from Ireland, but prior to this those of the name in America were almost entirely of English origin.

THE KING COAT OF ARMS.

The arms displayed on the signet used during his life-time by James King of Suffield, Connecticut, the immigrant ancestor and founder of our family in America, and which thereafter from the time of his death in 1722 have been continuously and customarily used by his descendants for nearly two centuries and down to the present time, are blazoned as follows: "Sable, on a chevron or, between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first." Surmounting the shield on this signet is an esquire's helmet with wreath and a mantling flowing gracefully down in scroll work on either side and tastefully enveloping the arms in a simple but ornate design. (See cut facing this page.)

Miss Margaret E.⁸ King (Robert Newton,⁷ Maria Persis,⁶ who married Lyman King, John Bowker,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James² of Suffield, Conn., William¹ from Ugborough, County Devon, England) residing at No. 133 West Second street, Dayton, Ohio (see Maria Persis King No. 309), had in her possession more than one hundred ancient documents, consisting of deeds, bonds, receipts, inventories of estates, copies of wills, decrees of distribution, etc., executed by or relating to the affairs of the earliest ancestors of the family in America. They are the only papers of which we have knowledge, made by the very early members of the King family of Suffield, except some original public and official reports made by Capt. Joseph King, to be found among the town records of Suffield and except also the last wills and testaments of certain members of the family still preserved on file in Probate offices.

All these ancient documents were bequeathed to Miss Margaret E. King by her grandmother, Maria Persis⁶ King, above named, who was born at Suffield Oct. 13, 1816, and died at the residence of her son, Mr. Robert Newton King, in Dayton, Ohio, March 20, 1901. These ancient legal documents and certain wills on file in the Probate office at Hartford, Conn., disclose the very early use in America of the King Coat of Arms.

All the documents which are hereinbelow named and referred to in connection with the King arms were in this collection of Miss Margaret E. King, except the wills, the originals of which remain on file in the Probate office at Hartford, Conn., except that of James King of Suffield, which is on file at Northampton, Mass. At the time of the decease of James King in 1722, Suffield was and had been from the time of its first settlement, under the jurisdiction and claimed to be within the boundaries of Massachusetts, it having been originally settled under a grant from that colony. But for more than fifty years the boundary lines between the colonies of Massachusetts and Connecticut had been unsettled and a matter of controversy between the two colonies. Finally in 1749 the dispute was ended and Suffield passed from the jurisdiction of Massachusetts to that of Connecticut and became a part of Hartford County. Until that time all deeds of land in Suffield were recorded and all wills probated at Northampton in the County of Hampshire, Mass.

So far as known there are only three (3) documents in existence which bear the signature of James King, Senior, the First of Suffield, Conn., who was baptized at Ugborough, County Devon, England, Nov. 7, 1647, came to America about 1662 and settled finally at Suffield, Conn., in 1678, where he died May 22, 1722.

The first of these documents is a deed made by "James King, Senior, the First of Suffield," and "Elizabeth King, the wife of me, the said James King" to "my third son Joseph King of Suffield." Consideration—"Parental love, Good will and Affection" granting "twelve acres of first grant land" in Suffield, etc. Dated the "tenth day of Aprill, annoque Domini one thousand seven hundred and eleven being the tenth year of the reign of Anne of Great Brittain, france and Ireland Queen &c." This deed is witnessed by John Austin, Samuel Halladay and Hannah Remington.

Acknowledged "10 April 1711" before Samuel Partridge, Justice of the Peace and recorded May 30, 1711, in the records of the county of Hampshire. Book No. B. page 230. John Pynchon, Reg't.

There has been a red wax seal after the signature of James King and also one after the signature of Elizabeth King, upon both of which the King Arms may at one time have been impressed but both seals have been broken into fragments and utterly destroyed—only pieces of some finely powdered red wax still remain clinging here and there to the instrument as evidence that it was once sealed. It is therefore impossible to tell whether or not any impression of arms of any kind was ever on either seal. This deed is quoted under the record of James² King (No. 3).

The second document is the last will and testament of James King, made the "tenth day of May Annoque Domini one thousand seven hundred and twenty two," now on file in the Court of Probate of Hampshire County at Northampton, Mass. The wax seal after the signature of James King is also broken and only small fragments thereof remain so that as to this document it is impossible now to tell whether any design or arms once appeared thereon. Mr. Hubbard M. Abbott, Register of the Court, made an examination of the seal thereon, at my request (Aug. 1904) and wrote to me as follows: "I have made a careful examination of the original will to find out about the seal. I think there was once a seal to his name as there are traces of sealing wax after his name, but there is not the least trace left of any design." This will is also quoted at length under James² King (No. 3).

Although the seals upon both the above described instruments have been so broken as to obliterate any designs or coat of arms which formerly may have appeared thereon, yet the size and general appearance of the powdered remains of the seals seem to indicate that some impression by a circular signet originally had been made.

The third document is a deed made by James King of Suffield to Joseph King, his son, and dated the "twenty-second day of Febry. in the eighth year of his Majesties Reign Annoque Dom. 1721-2," three months before his death. A photographic copy of this deed is given hereafter under the name of "James² King (William¹) No. 3." (This deed is now in the possession of Harvey J. King, Esq., of Troy, N. Y., having been given to him recently by Miss Margaret E. King.) Fortunately the seal to this instrument, while cracked and broken in places, is yet fairly well preserved and shows plainly the King Coat of Arms thereon. The shield, the chevron with three escallops thereon, and the lower cross-crosslet can be easily seen impressed upon the red wax. There are breaks in the wax in the places where the two upper crosses-crosslet belong and they can scarcely be distinguished. The helmet, however, resting upon the top of the shield and the mantling like scroll work, extending from the helmet down along both sides of the shield, are quite plain.

On the page facing this we give an enlarged photographic print of this seal. The arms were impressed upside down upon the wax seal so that the single cross-crosslet is on the upper portion and the helmet, head downwards, is on the lower portion of the seal. By turning this book so that the upper portion of the page having the photographic prints of the seal thereon, will be at the bottom, the coat of arms on the seal will be more easily recognized.

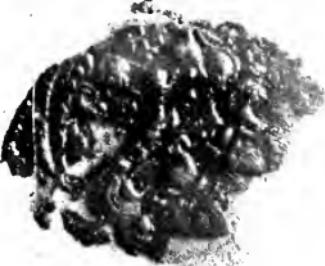

For the purpose of comparison another photographic print of the seal on a later instrument (Joseph King A. D., 1728) but made by the same signet, is placed also upside down beneath the photographic copy of the seal made by James King. It must be borne in mind that the photograph of the seal on the instrument executed by James King has been considerably enlarged so as to exhibit more plainly the lines and figures on the same. The seal on the instrument being all of one color, red sealing wax, and the signet having evidently been pressed very lightly upon the wax, and this wax also having been chafed, worn and broken in places during the one hundred and eighty-five years that have elapsed since the execution of the instrument, the photograph does not (and no photograph can) make the King arms appear as plainly as they really do on the original document.

This deed, executed by James King to his son Joseph, and the seal thereon, is clear and conclusive evidence of the use of the King Coat of Arms by James King, the founder of the King family of Suffield, Connecticut.

It should also be remembered that James King was an immigrant from England and that there were no known engravers of seals in America at that time. In this connection we might call attention to the fact that the Committee on Heraldry, of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, which had given great attention to the early use in America of armorial bearings by colonial families, in a report made to the Society June 1, 1864, say: "It will be readily understood that seals used by any of the first generations of colonists were of foreign origin and until such a subsequent time as seal engraving was practiced here must have been imported." The committee further decided, in effect, that all coats of arms used in New England before the year 1760 should be deemed authentic without other evidence. (New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 18, p. 268.)

James King died May 13, 1722, but the use of the signet and coat of arms was continued by his children. His son, Capt. Joseph King, very prominent in the public affairs of the town, was a wealthy man for his time and transacted a great deal of private business requiring his signature and seal upon legal documents. The papers relating to his private affairs are very numerous and on all of these which have been preserved, such as deeds, bonds, releases, etc., wherever he has signed his name as grantor or obligor he has affixed his seal bearing the King Coat of Arms. This he continued to do until his death on March 6, 1756. Among the last documents executed by Capt. Joseph King is a deed of gift to his "loving wife Hannah King," dated the "eighth day of September, in the twenty-ninth year of His Maj's Reign Anno Dom. 1755." The seal affixed to this document is a diamond shaped piece of white paper attached by a wafer to the instrument and upon this paper is plainly impressed the King Coat of Arms. The soft wafer beneath the paper seal yielded easily to the pressure of the signet and thus caused the paper seal to receive and retain the imprint of the King Arms.

(See cut on page facing this. This deed is given in the paragraph devoted to Capt. Joseph King No. 10.)

In the inventory of the Estate of Capt. Joseph King, on file in Probate office at Hartford, appears among other things the following item: "One silver seal, King Coat of Arms" and in the distribution of the Estate of Capt. Joseph King, made Dec. 23, 1762, this "silver seal" is set off to Joseph,⁴ the eldest son of Capt. Joseph³ King. After the death of Capt. Joseph King his descendants continued to use these King arms on their seals. A will made by his eldest son Joseph⁴ King is dated Feby. 27, 1813, and appears never to have been presented for probate for it is found among the old documents in possession of Miss Margaret E. King of Dayton, Ohio, and has no filing mark or note thereon. This will also bears, after the signature of Joseph, a seal having the King Coat of Arms thereon, very plainly impressed on a paper seal placed over a wafer attaching it to the instrument. (See cut on page facing this) This will is given in full in the paragraph relating to Joseph King No. 32

This Joseph King died March 19, 1814, as shown by a tombstone in the graveyard at Suffield, and his descendants also continued the use of the King Arms on their seals and otherwise, but I need not mention here any more documents, as the foregoing evidence is quite sufficient for my present purpose, and shows the continuous use of these arms by the Suffield King family from at least as early as 1722 down to the present time.

The "Silver Seal, King Coat of Arms" mentioned in the inventory of the estate of Capt. Joseph³ King, and in the distribution of his estate awarded to his oldest son Joseph⁴ King, has however, a history of its own. From Joseph⁴ King, son of Capt. Joseph³ King, this seal passed to his son John Bowker⁵ King (born at Suffield Dec. 9, 1779), who died at Suffield May 31, 1853, leaving it to his son Joseph Warren⁶ King, born at Suffield Aug. 30, 1814. Joseph Warren⁶ King moved to Xenia, Ohio, where he died, July 8, 1885, and upon his death the old "Silver Seal, King Coat of Arms" became the property of his daughter Miss Emma Cornelia King, who continues to reside at Xenia, and in whose possession it still remains. This seal is composed of a silver plate of circular form with a diameter of three quarters of an inch upon which are engraved the King Arms. The silver plate is mounted on a turned and polished ebony handle three and one-half inches long, all showing excellent workmanship. The seal is now much worn from long usage and some of its finer lines, such as those connecting the mantling with the helmet, are almost obliterated so that they scarcely show in the zincograph here presented.

In 1897 Miss Emma C. King was travelling in Europe, and, desiring to know the origin of the arms engraved upon her seal submitted it for examination to the College of Arms, London, England. The result of the investigation is explained in the following letters:

"The College of Arms,
London, E. C.

20th August, 1897.

Dear Madam:

Referring to your visit here and enquiry re arms on a seal produced, I have to inform you that I find there is a record here of a grant of these arms, viz: "Sable, on a chevron or, between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first" to King of London, the date of the grant being about 1611 and there being no pedigree recorded in connection therewith.

A copy of the entry with a painting of the arms can be made if you should desire it, on receipt of the fee, one guinea.

I am

Yours faithfully

"The College of Arms
London, E. C.

23rd Aug., 1897.

Madam:

The fee paid by you was for the search, the result of which has been duly communicated to you.

The arms are entered as I informed you, merely to "King of London," the date of the grant would from adjoining entries appear to be 1611 and the entry occurs in a book of Grants by William Camden, who was then Clarenceux King of Arms.

Yours faithfully
G. AMBROSE LEE,

Miss E. C. King.

Bluemantle."

Miss King being compelled to leave London very soon thereafter did not at that time order the painting of the arms, but at the request of the compiler of this genealogy did so in 1904 and a cut of the same with the certificate of G. Ambrose Lee, Bluemantle, is presented herein on the page facing this. In the painting furnished by Mr. G. Ambrose Lee the shield and shells are black and the crosses and chevron are gold. In the cut here given the gold color is represented by little black dots on the white ground.

The christian name of this "King of London" is not given nor was a pedigree filed, which is not unusual. It however renders the proof of a direct descent and the establishment of an unbroken connection with the original grantee, an extremely difficult if not impossible task. It will be observed however that this coat of arms is precisely the same as that used by James King of Suffield, except that it has the addition of a crest—an arm grasping a broken spear.

The King family of Suffield, Connecticut, came directly from Ugborough, Devonshire, England, and not from London, and it was to a resident, either temporary or permanent, of this latter city that in 1611 these arms were originally granted. It is supposed, however, that William and Margaret King were early ancestors of the Ugborough family, who, with some of their children left Ugborough and took up their residence at London about the year 1587, when the Spanish Armada was threatening the south coast of England, and this is very probable for there is no record of them in the parish registers of Ugborough after that time nor any record of their burial there.

In this way, if the "King of London," to whom these arms were granted, was one of these ancestors of the Ugborough family, then the Kings remaining at Ugborough, and among them the ancestors of the Suffield, Connecticut, Kings, would have been direct heirs of course and entitled to bear these arms.

That some such relationship existed seems evident from the very use itself of these arms by James King of the Ugborough family (born at Ugborough, 1647) but it may be impossible now to obtain definite information.

While Burke's General Armory blazons thirty-eight King and fifteen Kinge coats of arms it will be found upon examination that many of them are identically alike, others only differ in coloring of the field or charges and others again differ only as to their crests. Even where the distinction is much greater there still remains a striking similarity.

The King families of London; Ugborough, Devonshire; West Hall, Sherborne, Dorsetshire; Towcester, County Northampton; Loxwood, Sussex; Midhurst, Sussex and others bore the arms granted in 1611 by Camden, Clarenceux King of Arms to King of London—"Sable; on a chevron or, between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first" with some differencing as to colors and with different crests.

Another group of King families in Devonshire; Towcester, County Northampton; Umberslade, County Warwick; Hungrill, County York; Chadshund, County York; Preston Candover, County Hants and we might add those of Thame and Worminhall, Oxfordshire; Iver, Buckinghamshire; Stouton, Wiltshire; Bishop John King of London, Ralph King, Vintner of London, and others bore arms—"Sable, a lion rampant or, ducally crowned argent, between three crosses-crosslet or" with some differencing as to colors, crests, etc.

It will be observed that the crosses-crosslet are generally common to both these arms. If in the arms of this last group of King families we substitute "a chevron or charged with three escallops sable" for the "lion rampant or ducally crowned argent" the arms of both groups become identical in design.

It may be as some claim, that the arms blazoned with the lion rampant and belonging according to tradition to a very ancient Devonshire family are the oldest borne by any King family. A Devonshire King family appears to be one of the most ancient of the families bearing that name in England. During several centuries, however, many of its descendants must have at different times settled in other parts of England and branches of the Devonshire family have thus established themselves in many separate counties. Cornwall, Dorset, Somerset, Wilts, Hants, Sussex, Kent, Essex, Suffolk, Lincoln, York, Westmoreland, Warwick, Northampton, Huntingdon, Buckingham, Middlesex (London), Oxford and several other counties have families bearing the name of King which probably are related to each other and to the Devonshire family, although in many instances the link of relationship leading to a common ancestor is lost in antiquity. Thus the Kings of Thame and Worminhall, Oxfordshire, from whom descended Robert King, (Robertus Kynge), Bishop of Oxford (1542-1557), and later (1611) John King, the famous Bishop of London, begin their family chart of descent with John Kynge, yeoman and church-warden of Thame in 1469 yet claim a more distant ancestry in "the ancient King family of Devonshire" and they bear the Devonshire family arms as blazoned in Burke's General Armory.

All children from the oldest to the youngest are of right entitled to bear the arms of their father. With numerous members and branches of the same family all equally entitled to bear the family arms, it became necessary for the separate branches to introduce some sufficient change in color or design, or to make some slight addition to or substitution in the original armorial blazon in order to distinguish the bearings of one branch of the family from the others. Such changes, additions or substitutions were called in heraldry "differences."

It is true that the modern marks of cadency or differences—the label of three points for the eldest son, crescent for the second, mullet for the third, martlet for the fourth, etc.—had been introduced in the 16th century and even before that, some imperfect systems had appeared; but these for a long time were "more honored in the breach than in the observance," and ever since have been and even at this day are quite generally slighted. Their use, it is claimed by some, mars and disfigures the original coat of arms and it is also evident that where there are many successive generations their use becomes impracticable as they could scarcely continue to be accumulated, one on the other, without limit.

The changing of an ordinary, or of a charge, as a bend for a fess, or a crosslet for a martlet, or the substitution of one charge for another, was in earlier times a much more common method of differencing, while now the object is often accomplished by changing the crest.

If, as intimated by Burke's General Armory (but for which we can find no authority), the original arms of the Kings of Devonshire were "Sable, a lion rampant or, ducally crowned argent between three crosses-crosslet" etc., then the grant of arms to "King of London" by Camden in 1611 merely substituted the "chevron or charged with three escallops sable" for "the lion rampant" etc., and perhaps was intended as a "difference"—effected, however, by the aid of the College of Arms in a new grant.

This "difference" was possibly rendered necessary at that time by the fact that John King, then (1611-1623) Bishop of London, was bearing the lion rampant arms. The other "King of London" though a relative, may have found it convenient, if not necessary, to have a difference created by grant to distinguish his arms from those of the family of the famous Bishop.

But it may well be doubted that the lion rampant arms were more ancient than the chevron charged with three escallops. Oliver King (1430-1503) who was Bishop of Exeter, Devonshire, in 1493, bore for his arms: "Argent, on a chevron sable three escallops of the first," (Add. M. S., 12443.—Papworth's Ordinary of Armorials), and also Alexander Kinge of London was granted in 1592 arms "Sable, on a chevron erm. three escallops gu." King of Shelley, Suffolk County, in the latter part of the fourteenth (14th) century bore arms "Sable on a chevron arg. three escallops of the field. (Davy's MSS. p. 218, British Museum. See also N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Rec. Vol. 29 p. 220.) We do not know of any King bearing the lion rampant arms until long after the time of Oliver King, Bishop of Exeter.

The arms granted by Camden in 1611 to King of London "Sable on a chevron or between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first," are with slight differences borne by the King families of Loxwood House, County Sussex; of Midhurst, County Sussex; of Towcester, County Northampton; Kinge of West Hall, Sherborne, County Dorset; King of Gainsborough, County Lincoln; Kynge of County Suffolk; King of Wiltshire; King of Ashby Hall, Lincolnshire; King of Leicestershire and other Kings as well as the Ugborough, Devonshire, family, as is evidenced by its use by James King, born at Ugborough, from whom the Kings of Suffield, Connecticut, are descended.

The lion rampant arms are borne by the Kings of Umberslade County Warwick; of Hungill, County York; of Belle Vue, County Kent; of Bromley, County Kent; of Pyrland Hall, County

Somerset, combined, however, with the three escallops and also quartered with Meade; of Thame and Worminshall, Oxfordshire; of Shellands; of Chadshund; Arthur F. B. King Esq., of Warnford Cottage, Bishops Waltham, County Hants, and others.

It seems quite probable that all these various King, Kinge and Kynge families are, more or less remotely, connected. Such seems a fair inference also from their arms. Frequently the crests of some of these families suggest their relationship. The Kings of Midhurst, County Sussex, while bearing "Sable, on a chevron or between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first" have as a crest "an ostrich's head argent ducally gorged or" while families bearing the lion rampant arms have as a crest "out of a ducal coronet or, a demi ostrich arg."

The Kings of Leicestershire while having as arms "Sable, on a chevron arg. three escallops of the first" have as a crest "a lion ducally crowned" etc. The crest of Kinge of Sherborne, County Dorset (son of William Kyng of Castle Cary, County Somerset) is a lion sejant whose right paw rests on an escarpment. The arms of Richard King (now quartered with those of Meade and borne by Meade-King) added three escallops to the lion rampant between three crosses-crosslet, thus combining the features of both these arms.

All the King, Kinge and Kynge families of England, so far as we know, sprung from pure English stock with the exception of the descendants of John Le Roy, who fled from France at the massacre of St. Bartholomew, Aug. 24, 1572, became a merchant of London and soon anglicized his name to John King. Sir John King, born at St. Albans, County Herts, in 1628, was his grandson.

With the exception of the family last named it is quite probable that most of the King families of England to whom we have referred are related to each other by blood, although as we have said above the link of relationship leading to a common ancestor is not now discoverable and has become obscured by the mist of ages.

We are inclined to believe that two or three hundred years ago this feeling of relationship between the many King families of England was much more clearly recognized than it is now, and when we consider the great increase in number of those now bearing that surname it is quite natural that evidences of their connection should have become obscured in the multiplicity of branches and descendants of the numerous families.

In this connection and as tending to show the sentiment of kinship which existed two centuries ago among the different King families of England we quote the following short article which appeared in "Notes and Queries" (7th Series) Vol. 7, p. 488. "KING FAMILY—In a M. S. volume of coats of arms bearing the autograph and bookplate of John Fenn, 1771, is inserted a printed paper bearing the arms of King of Bromley, County Kent; Midhurst, County Sussex; Dorsetshire; Essex (two coats); London and Berkshire; Suffolk; West Patrick, County Hants; Somersetshire; Buckinghamshire (two coats); Lincolnshire, descended from Suffolk; with King, Alderman of Coventry; King, Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms; and King, Bishop of London and Chichester.

THE CREST.

The helmet, originally a piece of defensive armor, became in course of time one of the usual accompaniments of the shield and placed over the arms it came to mark by its form the rank of the wearer. Thus the royal family bear the helmet full faced with six gold bars. The helmet of the lesser nobility are borne in profile, those of dukes and marquises being of gold with five steel bars, those of lower rank being of silver with gold ornaments and four silver bars. The helmets of baronets and knights are of steel full faced and open visor. The esquire's or gentleman's helmet is of steel represented in profile with the visor closed. The helmet on the King family seal is of the last class, indicating the rank of a gentleman merely without other title.

The mantling is supposed to represent a sort of cloak or mantle, torn in shreds by frequent contests and sufficiently ample to include the whole achievement. It is in fact an embellishment of scroll work flowing down on both sides of the shield. Some claim that it originated in the contoise or scarf wrapped round the body in the days of coat armor. The mantling on the King seal is much worn and some connecting lines are so faint as to be scarcely perceptible, yet it is quite ample and envelops the whole achievement.

From the top of the helmet, within a wreath of two pieces of silk twisted together of the first two colors (alternating) of the armorial bearings, there now-a-days usually issues a crest. Originally the crest was a special mark of honor worn only by heroes of great valor or advanced to high military command. In late years it has become an almost inseparable adjunct of the Coat of Arms in English, though not so in Continental heraldry. We find, however, very many old English families who bear arms without any crest.

In the grant of arms in 1611 to King of London the crest blazoned therein was "A cubit arm in armour per pale or and sable, the gauntlet wholly of the last grasping a broken spear ppr. in bend sinister point to the sinister."

This crest does not appear on our King seal. Some of the English families bearing these arms, such as the Kings of Loxwood House, County Sussex, have retained the original crest but others have substituted therefor different crests, as for instance the Kings of Midhurst, County Sussex, of whose crest we shall speak presently.

It is very noticeable that in England crests are often assumed or changed arbitrarily and without any proper authority. This is apparently done quite frequently to distinguish branches of the same family. So we find the Kings of Midhurst, County Sussex, whom we have mentioned above, while they preserved carefully the arms granted to King of London in 1611 yet they rejected the crest granted with those arms and substituted therefor "An ostrich head argent ducally gorged or" to distinguish or difference their own family from the other families bearing the same arms. It may be that James King of Suffield or his ancestor discarded the original crest, the armored arm and broken spear, for the same reason and in order to difference his immediate family, not being the oldest son.

There are also armorial bearings where the crest consists merely of the helmet alone. Such is the case with the King family of Hampshire, England, whose crest is merely "An Esquire's helmet ppr garnished or." It may be therefore that the esquire's helmet on the King seal was intended for the crest though there is no wreath beneath it.

As we have said above, the custom of changing crests arbitrarily and without any proper authority or even omitting it altogether (which was sometimes done) has been so frequent in England among different branches and members of the same family that we can, at this late day, scarcely say in the case of the King seal, whether there is an intentional omission of a crest or whether the helmet alone constitutes the crest.

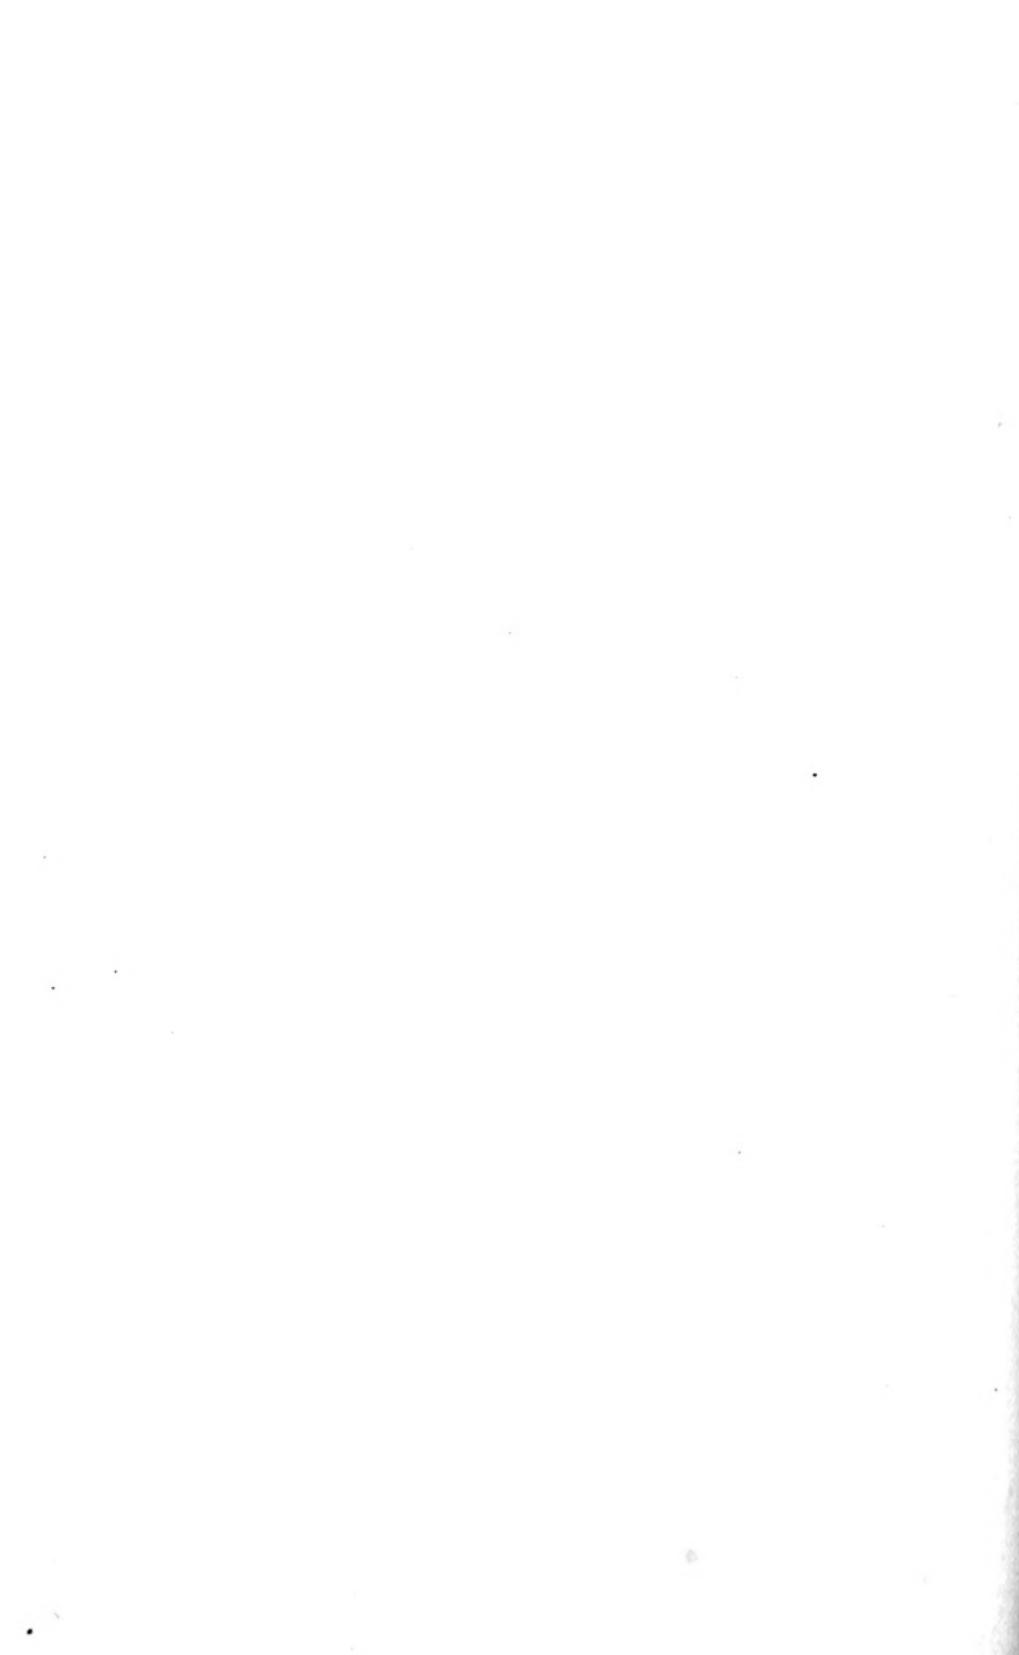

If there was any other crest it would of course appear above the helmet. In England such a question would have little interest for female descendants because women (except the sovereign) do not have either helmets or crests as a part of their armorial bearings. The reason given for this rule in England is that females did not wear helmets and hence could have no crests but this is hardly logical for neither did they bear shields, yet their right to the paternal arms, except the crest, is conceded by all and their use by female descendants is general. In America the custom seems to be that females bear the crests as well as the arms of their paternal ancestors.

As to the coat of arms of the King family of Suffield, Connecticut, we can confidently and safely assert the undoubted right of the descendants of that family (who have been or are of the surname King) to bear arms "Sable, on a chevron or, between three crosses-crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first" with a gentleman's helmet surmounting and resting upon the shield.

No lineal descendant of the Suffield family whose father bore the name King need fear that he, or she, is infringing upon the title of any one else or that he or she, is assuming any questionable right in gratifying "that harmless vanity" of displaying upon his or her stationery, book-plate, etc., the King Coat of Arms just as it has appeared upon the seals of our ancestors for two centuries in America and just as it was used by our immigrant ancestor, James King of Suffield, Connecticut, who undoubtedly brought it here from the mother country. We suggest, however, that these arms should conform strictly to those displayed on the old King seal, without either augmentation or diminution unless it may be the omission of the mantling, which is in fact no part of the arms but merely an embellishment, proper enough for a seal if desired by the possessor.

Pride in a long and honorable lineage, combined with respect for the name, is, and we think should be, quite sufficient to justify and even to prompt the members of our King family to continue to use this ancient coat of arms even here in our own democratic America, where although titles and rank have given way to political equality, yet there still remains that instinctive and proper valuation of a descent from distinguished or gentle ancestors.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

A. D. 1389-1662.

The Parish of Ugborough, Devonshire, England, in which neighborhood the English ancestors of the King family of Suffield, Connecticut, had resided probably for centuries before their descendants came to America, lies in the southwestern part of County Devon and is fourteen miles east of Plymouth. Immediately on the north lie the great wastes of Dartmoor, extending about twenty-five miles northward by an average breadth of ten or twelve miles—a land of crags, lofty hills, deep valleys, wild glens and rushing streams where Nature is seen in her wildest forms. A royal forest, established long before the conquest, occupies the central portion of this picturesque wilderness. In the wilds of Dartmoor the Erme and Avon rivers find their sources and between these streams, as they emerge from the Dartmoor, is the obscure but very ancient Parish of Ugborough with its picturesque church and its present vicarage at the little hamlet of Ivybridge. In this vicinity the artist of nature may find ample subjects for his brush.

Bounding Ugborough on the East is the Parish of South Brent; on the South is the Parish of North Huish; on the West the Parish of Earmington; and on the North nothing but Dartmoor.

The great Dartmoor is grand, wild, rugged and majestic. Huge blocks of broken granite, called Tors, crowning steep hills, rise suddenly in fantastic shapes, towering sometimes two thousand feet in height above the rolling mesa or table land. Right to the north of Ugborough, where the old Parish Church lies in the well wooded valley of the Erme, Ugborough Beacon, a lofty hill, rises abruptly to an altitude of twelve hundred and fifty feet. In the interior of Dartmoor are deep and mysterious pools amid the tangled wildwood and again traces of sepulchres and burial caves within stone circles to which run avenues formed by long parallel rows of upright stones, giving evidence of strange rites and customs of an ancient people who trod its wilds long prior to the Roman occupation.

The Parish Church of Ugborough is worthy of special mention. (See frontispiece of this book for exterior view of the church and its ancient churchyard.) It is a very ancient structure. The exact date of its erection cannot be given with accuracy. The Church is named in an old Charter of Bishop John of Exeter, whose bishopric was from A. D. 1186 to 1191—more than 700 years ago!

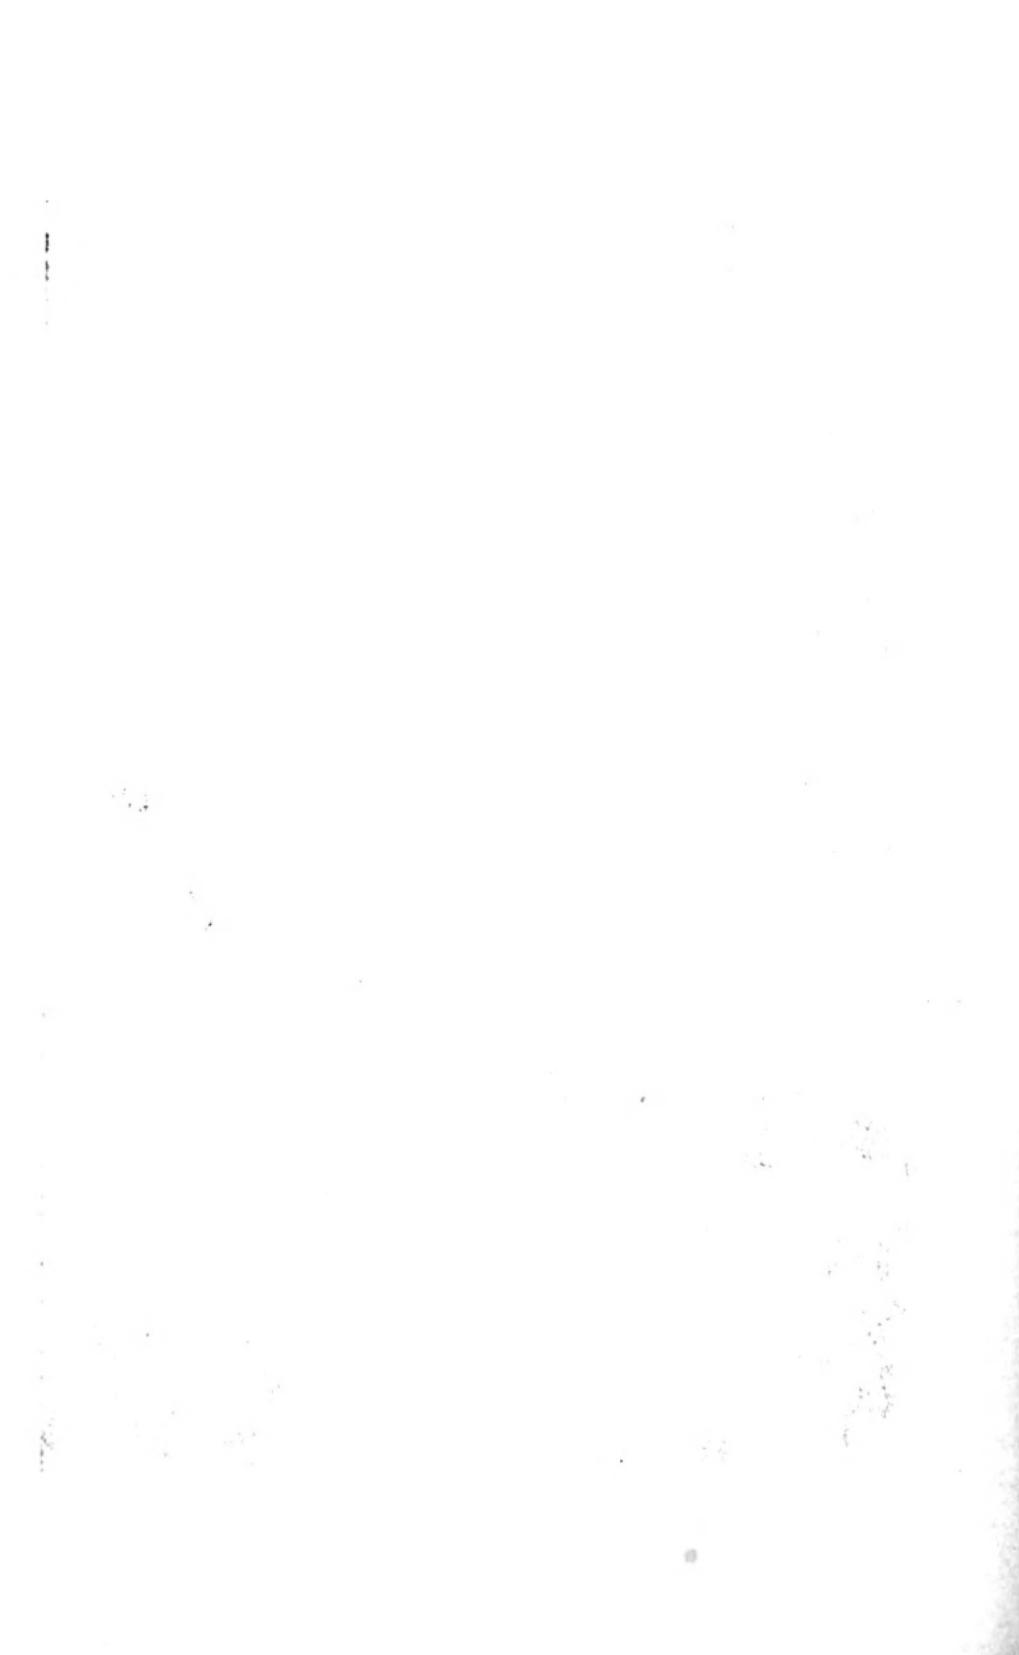

There are evidences in the architecture of the Church of three successive restorations, the distinctive character of which seem to prove conclusively that it is considerably more than 800 years old and possibly has stood there for more than 1000 years. The arch leading from the belfry to the nave is of Saxon architecture and evidently was built before the Norman conquest, as it is a well established fact that after the accession of William the Conqueror, A. D. 1066, Saxon architecture was wholly discarded. The old Font is Norman. On the bosses in the roof of the northern nave are two interesting and unique carvings. The records of the church show that the high altar was consecrated by Bishop Stapledon Oct. 28, 1311 and the Church was reconsecrated by him after material restoration and some additions, on February 21, 1323. It is well preserved and an excellent example of ancient Church architecture in England. Especially is this old Church of interest to our King Family for in its quiet church-yard sleep ancient ancestors. Tombstones without and memorial tablets within the church also record the deaths of many bearing the family name of King.

In this Church William Kinge and Agnes Elwill were married on October 16, 1642, and in it their son James King, the founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut, was baptized on November 7, 1647. From this Church Agnes (Elwill) Kinge, the mother of James King of Suffield, was buried on April 7, 1662, after which the family came to America.

The presence in this neighborhood of a King family A. D. 1308 seems to be shown by certain court proceedings at Exeter, dated March 4, 1308, in which Richard le Kynge and Herlwyn Kynge

UGBROOUGH CHURCH, INTERIOR VIEW.

(without the "le") are mentioned (Calendar of Close Rolls published by British Government, pp. 12-13).

It is certain, however, that as early as the year 1389 a family named King (then spelled Kynge) lived in the vicinity of Ugborough, Devonshire. There exists an old parchment deed or charter, dated and executed in the year 1389 by Roger King (Rogerus Kynge), showing that he then lived at Dodebroke, (8 miles from the Parish Church of Ugborough), Devonshire, and conveying to John Sormonnd a building and grounds described in the deed as "situated at Redpitte, near the Font of St. Thomas the Martyr in the burg of Dodebroke." The parchment is in perfect condition and the wording thereon is in Monkish Latin with contractions and abbreviations, but plainly written and distinctly legible. The seal to the instrument is appended therefrom and is of red wax an inch in breadth and one quarter of an inch thick, without a crack or flaw. The insignia on the face or escutcheon of the seal stands out in sharp relief and on the reverse side there is a deep impression made by the thumb of Roger King (a precaution against forgery) when he pressed the wax against the engraved signet, which was his personal and hereditary seal, for from the time of Edward I every freeholder had his own seal, an impression of which was required to be filed at the place where the court in his county was held. (Stat. Exon 14, Edw. I. See Blackstone's Com. Book 2, ch. XX, where the requirements of these ancient deeds and the seals thereto are very fully explained, while in Appendix No. 1 to Chitty's Blackstone the usual form of these ancient deeds—"Vetus Carta Feoffamenti"—is given and its similarity to the one executed by Roger King will at once be recognized. In "Warwick Castle and its Earls," by the Countess of Warwick, London & New York, 1903, will also be found some photographs of ancient charters which are in form and proportions like that of the Rogerus Kynge charter.)

The design on the red wax seal of Roger King appears to be a tree and on either side two distinct branches rising from the ground independently. It will be noticed that there are several witnesses to the document, the first being the then prepositus, Provost or Reeve, of the burg of Dodebroke.

This original charter or deed of Roger King, executed A. D. 1389, is now in the possession of Harvey James⁶ King, Esq., (Roger,⁵ Lieut. Eliphilet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James² of Suffield, Conn., William¹ from Ugborough, Devonshire, Eng.) Counselor at Law, No. 2 Mutual Building, Troy, N. Y., who obtained it by purchase from R. Palmer Sanderson Esq., of Lily Grove, Lancaster, England, to whom it came from those having the title deeds of the property conveyed therein.

We give a photographic fac simile (slightly reduced in size) of this charter, but as it would require an expert to decipher the antique character of the letters, the several contractions and abbreviations of the ancient Latin, we will give below, its transcription into modern Latin and also its English translation.

In the photographic fac simile of the charter on the page facing this it will be noticed that the last line of the charter is covered by the folding of the parchment, so that it does not show in the photograph, but the words are "a conquestu anglie terciodecimo," which of course can be seen by peering beneath the fold in the original. The Normans dated all their business from the conquest.

As there were no Parish Registers in England prior to 1538 an unbroken descent from this Roger King of A. D. 1389 cannot of course be directly traced and proved, but there is little doubt from the family name and locality in which he lived that the Roger King (Rogerus Kynge) was one of the lineal ancestors of James King, who was born at Ugborough in 1647 and who thereafter became the founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticutt.

Parish Registers of Baptisms, Marriages and Burials were first required to be kept in England in 1538 (by a statute of King Henry VIII) and no records of that character were kept before that time. The Parish Registers of Baptisms and Marriages at Ugborough were both opened in 1538 and the Register of Burials was opened in 1542, but for the first few years, as was the case elsewhere in England, the entries were scanty and irregular. Ten or twelve years after their opening the Registers begin to show more completeness. The entries in all three of the Ugborough Registers (Baptisms, Marriages and Burials) were written in Latin. These furnish the only available and definite record of family descent of the inhabitants of the parish. It must be observed, however, that it is not the births and deaths that are recorded, but only the baptisms and burials, which is quite a different thing, as many children born in the parish might not be baptized therein and deaths without the parish found no record there, while marriages of male residents with female non-residents would naturally occur at the residence of the bride. It must not be thought, therefore, that the Parish Register record of a family is even generally complete for the fact is that in most parishes it very frequently happened that no record was made of many family baptisms (and in the early days of the reformation (1550 et seq.) baptisms were frequently not made by the regular parish priest) and none even of some marriages and burials where the service was not performed at the Church. These Parish Registers are, however, perfectly reliable of course as to the entries actually made and from these other facts can often with great certainty be inferred and even omissions supplied.

From the Ugborough Parish Registers it appears that certainly as early as 1548 a family named King (Kynge) was living there for entries of the marriages of females of that name appear in the Marriage Register and marriages were ordinarily celebrated in the parish where the bride resided. The following entry from the Ugborough Parish Marriage Register shows one of these marriages:

"1548—Johannes Hayman et Maria Kynge nupti erant 27 die Augusti." (A. D. 1548—John Hayman and Maria King were married 27th day of August.)

The gradual evolution of the orthography of the name, as we have before remarked, has been at first Kyng or Kynge; then about 1575 it changes to Kinge and finally about 1660 it becomes

King. This is well illustrated by the title pages of the successive editions of the English Bible. The first English Bible ever printed, A. D. 1535, bears on its title page "Set forth with the Kynges moost gracious licence;" the next edition, A. D. 1579, has "Printer to the Kinge's Maiestie"; an edition of 1661 has "His Maiestie the King."

Persons of the surname King have been the possessors of very considerable landed estates in Ugborough and adjoining parishes.

In December, 1893, the Rev. W. E. Windle, Vicar of Ugborough, sent to Miss Emma C. King of Xenia, Ohio, at her request, the record of certain baptisms, marriages and burials in the King family, taken from the Parish Register entries made between the years 1575 and 1675. He also in the same letter said: "I am afraid I cannot send you a description of the King Coat of Arms. * * * There is a fine old mansion and Estate called Fowelscombe in this parish which had been in Chancery for many years, but has recently passed into the hands of a representative of the King family." In September, 1903, Rev. W. E. Windle in a letter to Mr. Cameron H. King, the compiler of these records, wrote: "Fowelscombe lies in this (Ugborough) parish about a mile southeast of the Church. Its present owner is Rev. J. Voden Walters, Cherhill Rectory, Calne, Wilts., whose wife was a member of the King family. Your name, King, is a very old name in this parish."

The writer of those letters was in error relative to the ownership of Fowelscombe, but his statement led to inquiries which have resulted in proving relationship between its owners and the King family of Suffield.

Rev. J. Voden Walters is not and never has been its owner. It is the property of his wife, Ellen Caroline King, the eldest daughter of the late Richard King, Esq., its last previous owner and occupant.

In September, 1904, Mr. Harvey J. King, of Troy, N. Y., wrote to Rev. J. Voden Walters and after stating that he was a descendant of James King, who was born at Ugborough, in 1647, asking him kindly to favor the writer with information relative to the connection of the King family at Ugborough with Fowelscombe.

Mr. Walters very courteously answered that inquiry at considerable length and then added:

"If you were to write to Arthur King, Esq., Warnford, Bishops Waltham, Hants (he is son of the late Captain King, a brother of my wife's father), he would be able to give you a good deal of interesting detail out of a M. S. book he has, written by an admiring friend of the family more than 100 years ago, descriptive of the house and its surroundings at that time. You are, of course, a member of the same family. That is evident. I will send your letter on to Mr. Arthur King.

Believe me yours very sincerely,

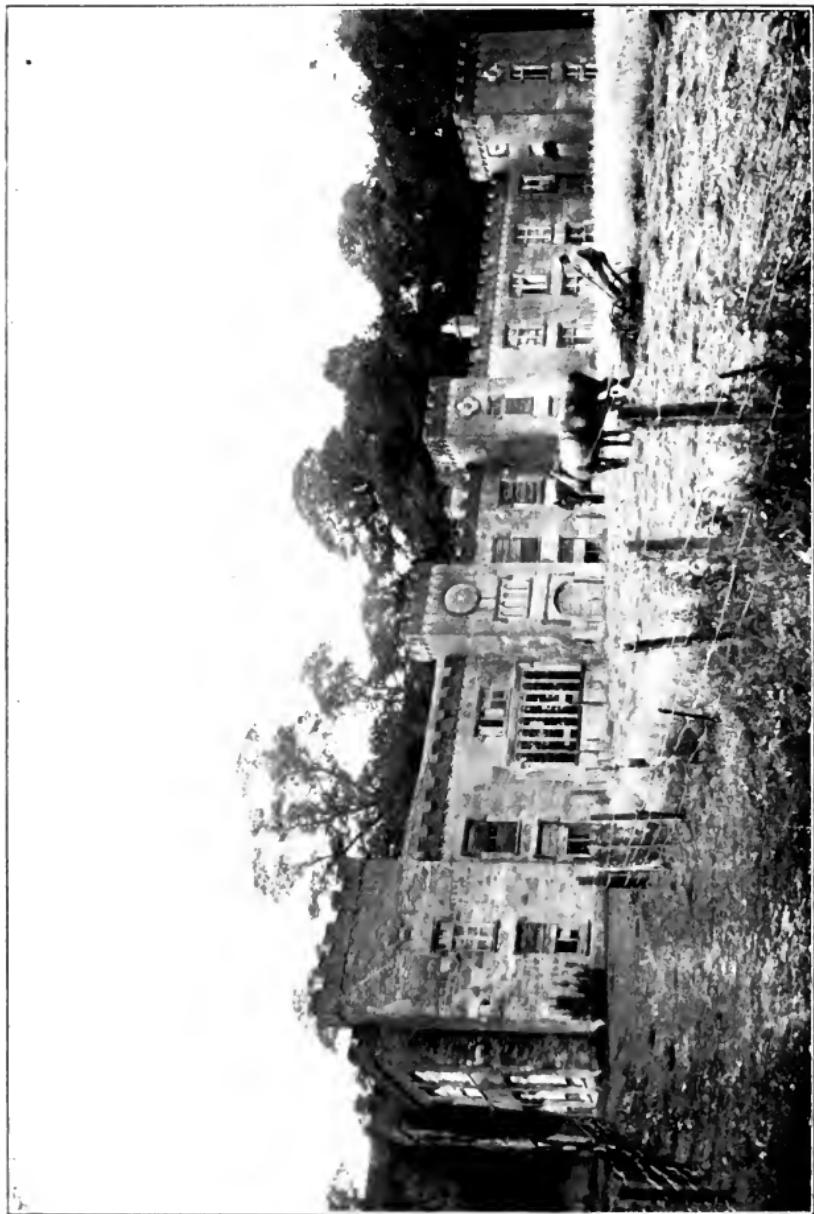

J. VODEN WALTERS."

Mr. Arthur King promptly responded to the letter forwarded to him by Mr. Walters, giving much interesting information relative to the family, and kindly offered, if requested to do so, to send to its writer the manuscript above referred to, which subsequently he did.

It covers over 100 pages and contains a history of Fowelscombe and its owners from the early part of the sixteenth century. Bound in the same cover with the ancient manuscript, and supplementing it, the history is continued down to the year 1888 by Captain John King, the younger brother of Richard King, the father of Mrs. Walters. Fowelscombe is an entailed estate and on the decease of its owner descends to his eldest son, or if he leaves no son, or the descendant of a son, then to his eldest daughter. Richard King had no son and upon his decease his eldest daughter, Ellen Caroline, became its owner, to the exclusion of three younger sisters.

So far as is pertinent to the present record, the following brief statement is all that we deem necessary to add on the subject.

Fowelscombe, in the parish of Ugborough, is an estate of considerable extent which is now, and for a long period of time, has been the property of the King family of that parish. The grand old Manor house, which is of imposing architecture and covers a large area, is very ancient. The date of its erection is not known, but in the history of Fowelscombe Manor, above referred to, which was written in 1808 by James White, Jr., of Plymouth, Devonshire, and dedicated to Richard King, Esq., the great grandfather of the present owner, the author says: "It is not mere conjecture to suppose that it was erected prior to the commencement of the sixteenth century, for an inscription engraved on a brass plate affixed to the family vault in Ugborough Church shows that one of its proprietors was interred there in the year 1507, and there now remains in the hall, on a shield of wood, the date 1537."

The Manor house is now, and for several years past has been unoccupied and needs extensive repairs. At present it is merely a magnificent and picturesque ruin.

While it is not practicable to prove from the records what the exact relationship was between the family which occupied it and the King family of Suffield, it is quite evident that such relationship existed from the fact that the Coat of Arms of the Fowelscombe family is identical with that of James King, who was born at Ugborough in 1647 and settled in Suffield in 1678.

Such relationship is also recognized by Mrs. Walters and other members of the Fowelscombe King family.

It is a remarkable fact that the only surviving male descendant in England of the King family of Fowelscombe who bears the name of King is Arthur Fitzroy Bonham King, Esq., who resides at Warnford, Bishop's Waltham, Hants, England. He is the only son of Captain John King, who was the younger brother of Richard King, the father of Mrs. Walters, the present owner of Fowelscombe.

We present on the page facing this a half-tone of Fowelscombe Manor House from a photograph taken in 1905.

GENERATIONS IN ENGLAND.

It is unnecessary to quote here from the Ugborough Parish Registers any entries other than those which it is believed exhibit the direct line of ancestry of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut.

I.

FIRST GENERATION.

THOMAS¹ KYNGE was born before the opening of the parish registers in 1538. His daughter Joanna was buried at Ugborough in 1579. William² Kinge (mentioned in the next succeeding paragraph as of the second generation) and his wife Margaret named their eldest son Thomas and one of their daughters Joanna; therefore I infer that Thomas¹ Kynge was the father of this William² Kinge.

II.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM² and MARGARET KINGE. The Register of Baptisms shows the following children of William and Margaret Kinge:

- i. ALICIA and JOANNA bapt. 1577.
- ii. THOMAS bapt. 1581.
- iii. ROBERT bapt. 1584.

The parish register does not show the baptism of a William nor any other child after Robert, baptized in 1584, yet it is probable that such a child named William was so born to William and Margaret Kinge, because in the year 1621 a William Kinge, as will hereafter appear, was married to Christina (Christia) Lapp, while there appears from the Parish registers to have been no other family of Kinge at Ugborough except William Kinge and Margaret, his wife, who could have had a child of sufficient age to marry at that time (1621). It may be that he was baptized, if at all, in some neighboring parish where perhaps the parents of Margaret resided, or possibly in London, to which

William and Margaret King may have gone about 1587-8, for in these years the inhabitants of this part of Devonshire were expecting a hostile invasion of their coast by the Spaniards. In 1587-8 the British navy was concentrated at Plymouth to repel the great (and, as claimed, the invincible) Spanish Armada. In Plymouth Harbor lay 120 English ships awaiting the approach of the Spaniards and the Port of Plymouth alone supplied seven of these ships, manned with sailors recruited from the neighborhood. This was the fleet that sailed under Drake and Hawkins, both of whom were Devonshire men, to that memorable victory (1588) over their Spanish foe. It is probable, therefore, that William and Margaret Kinge were the great grandparents of James King, of Suffield, Connecticut, and it may be that the records of some neighboring parish or some parish in London will hereafter make this certain.

III.

THIRD GENERATION.

WILLIAM³ and CHRISTINA (Christia Lapp) KINGE. The record from the Ugborough Parish Registers relating to them is as follows:

"1621—Willus Kinge et Christia Lapp nupti erant 27 Septembris." (A. D. 1621—William Kinge and Christina Lapp were married 27th of September.)

These I suppose to have been the grand parents of James King of Suffield, whose father in such case probably was born in 1622. As the Ugborough Parish registers show that in 1642 a William Kinge there married Agneta Elwill and no other King family appears in the records between the years 1621 and 1642, I think fair to assume that this William Kinge (father of James King of Suffield) was the son of William and Christina (Lapp) Kinge.

Heretofore, from the meagerness of the records, we have been compelled to rely on probabilities but from this point forward the records are complete and we shall deal only in certainties supported by the Parish Registers.

Before leaving these prior generations, however, we must note the persistence of the christian name, William, in the Kinge family above and its transmission from father to son. It was the usual custom in England from about A. D. 1550 (the period of the Reformation) and especially thereafter among the Puritans both in England and America to christen the eldest son with his father's christian name. James King's elder brother was named William and even in America James King of Suffield and his descendants followed this rule of giving their eldest (or some other) son the name of his father. This recognized custom strengthens the probability of the descent of a William from one of the same name.

IV.

FOURTH GENERATION.

WILLIAM⁴ and AGNES (ELWILL) KINGE. These were the parents of our immigrant ancestor James King, Founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut. William⁴ King married in Ugborough, Devonshire, England, Oct. 16, 1642, Agnes Elwill, who died in Ugborough, April 7, 1662. They had two children, viz.: William⁵ King; baptized in Ugborough, Dec. 31, 1643; and James King, baptized in Ugborough, Nov. 7, 1647; died in Suffield, Connecticut, May 13, 1722; married (1) in Ipswich, Massachusetts, March 23, 1674, Elizabeth Fuller; (2) in Westfield, Massachusetts, Feb. 27, 1716, Hannah Loomis.

The following are verbatim copies of entries made in the Ugborough Parish Registers:

MARRIAGES.

"1642—Willimus Kinge et Agneta Elwill nupti erant 16 Octobris" (A. D. 1642—William King and Agnes Elwill were married 16th of October).

BAPTISMS.

"1643—Willimus fil. Willimi Kinge et Agnetae, ux. bap. fuit ultimo die Decemb." (A. D. 1643—William, son of William Kinge and of Agnes, wife, was baptized the last day of December).

"1647—JACOBUS, fil. Willi Kinge et Agnetae uxor eius bapt. 7 die Novembris" (A. D. 1647—JAMES, son of William Kinge and of Agnes his wife, baptized 7th day of November). Jacobus is the Latinized form of James (see Names and their meaning, by Wagner, page 254). The statutes of King James I of England (1566-1625) are called statutes "Jacobi." The Greek form of James in the New Testament is Jacobus. The coins of the time of King James I (A. D. 1603-1625) and of King James II (1685-1689) are inscribed "JACOBUS, DEI GRATIA, REX."

The period between the marriage of William Kinge to Agnes Elwill (1642) and the birth of James King (1647) was that of the great Puritan Revolution in England. Both Exeter and Plymouth, between which cities lay Ugborough, were besieged and the whole neighborhood was the scene of severe conflicts between the Puritan and Royalist forces. Actual hostilities continued from 1642 to 1649 when King Charles was brought to the scaffold and the Commonwealth with Oliver Cromwell at its head was established. Thus our ancestor James King of Suffield was ushered into the world in the midst of a great revolution, wherein a king lost his head, a monarchy was temporarily overthrown and a great Commonwealth inaugurated.

One hundred and twenty-five years later (1775-6) the descendants of this same James King in America, among whom were Lieutenant Eliphalet King, Ichabod, Joseph, Thaddeus, Dan King and others of the family, assisted at Bunker Hill and in the War of the Revolution to crush out forever the tyranny of Monarchy in our American colonies and laid the foundation of our present great republic.

Again nearly a century rolls by (1861-4) and the descendants of those Revolutionary Patriots are found shedding their blood and giving up their lives to perpetuate the government which their ancestors helped to establish. Major Barnabas King falls at Shiloh and on the battlefield of Chicamauga on September 20, 1863, the brave and gallant Col. Edward Augustine King, a grandson of the Revolutionary Patriot, Lieutenant Eliphalet King, and colonel of the 6th U. S. Infantry, while commanding the Second Brigade, Reynolds Division, 14th Army Corps, laid down his life in the holy cause of liberty and for the preservation of the Union.

Still another generation succeeded the Civil War veterans and 1898 brought on a war with Spain in the sacred interest of humanity and to free bleeding Cuba from a tyrant's intolerable oppression. Again descendants of the old King Family of Suffield are found battling for their country. George Cameron King, great-great grandson of Lieutenant Eliphalet King, enlisted with the famous Roosevelt Rough Riders (1st U. S. V. Cavalry) and won honor and distinction for his brave and meritorious conduct as a soldier at Las Guasimas, the great charge up San Juan Hill, the battle before Santiago and in every battle fought in Cuba in which the Rough Riders participated. Who can say that love of liberty and patriotism are not inheritable qualities!

Let us, however, return to the subject of the English ancestry of the King Family of Suffield. In August, 1903, I wrote to Rev. W. E. Windle, Vicar of Ugborough Parish, Devonshire, England, for a complete list of all baptisms, marriages and burials in the King family appearing in the Parish Registers of Ugborough from their beginning in 1538 down to the year 1670 and also for a certified copy of the entry therein showing the earliest record in the parish of the marriage of a female member of the King family; also for certified copies of the record of baptism of any children of William and Margaret Kinge made between the years 1584 and 1605; also for certified copy of the record of marriage between William Kinge and Christina Lapp (then supposed to be Lange); also for certified copy of any other entry showing the marriage of a William Kinge or King, and certified copies of the record of baptism of any children of William and Agneta Kinge. Rev. Mr. Windle sent to me a list of baptisms, marriages and burials of members of the King family and also the following certified entries:

"Ugborough Vicarage, Ivybridge, Devon."

Sept. 12, 1903.

Dear Sir:

I beg to thank you for your letter and enclosure (£5) of Aug. 10th.

The Ugborough Parish Registers date from 1538 (Baptisms and Marriages). The Burials commence 1542. There are no parish registers in England of an earlier date than 1538.

I have carefully searched the Registers and enclose results. In addition to the fee for search of Registers—one shilling for the first year and 6d for each year additional—each certified copy of an entry costs two shillings and seven pence.

The following are certified copies of the particular entries requested:

MARRIAGES.

1548—Johannes Hayman et Maria Kynge nupti erant 27 die Augusti.

1621—Will'us Kinge et Christia Lapp nupti erant 27 Septembris.

1642—Willi'mus Kinge et Agneta Elwill nupti erant 16 Octobris.

BAPTISMS.

1584—Rob'tus filius Will'i Kinge et Marger. uxor eius baptizat fuit 27 Mar.

1643—Willi'mus, fil Willi'mi Kinge et Agnetae Ux. bap. fuit ultimo die Decemb.

1647—Jacobus, fil. Will'i Kinge et Agnetae uxor eius bapt. 7 die Novembris.

I hereby certify that the above six entries are accurately copied from the Parish Registers of Ugborough.

BURIALS.

"1662—Agneta, uxor Gulielmi Kinge sepulta fuit septimo die Aprilis."

(1662—Agnes, wife of William Kinge, was buried the seventh day of April.)

Supplementing the foregoing Certificate we have the following information relative to William Kinge of Ugborough, who there on October 16, 1642, married Agneta Elwill, and was the father of James King, who was baptized at Ugborough November 7, 1647, and settled at Suffield, Connecticut in 1678.

Dr. Alexander⁵ King (Joseph⁴ James³ James², of Suffield, William¹ of Ugborough), who was born at Suffield in 1737, and lived there until his death in 1802, was the author in 1796 of a very full genealogical and historical record of the King family of Suffield down to that time, beginning with William Kinge of Ugborough. During all the early years of his life Dr. King was contemporary with four of the children of James King, Senior, and was in constant intercourse with them. With William, one of the four, at the time of whose decease he was thirty-seven years of age, he evidently sustained peculiarly intimate relations, for after devoting three pages to an elaborate and somewhat eulogistic sketch of his personal characteristics, and the prominent position which he occupied in public affairs, he frankly adds: "If after the character I have given Dr. King (in which however I conceive I have not done him justice), I should say I honor and respect his memory for he was my father's and my friend, it may perhaps be retorted upon me Proprio laus sorbet in ore." (Praise is cheap in one's own mouth.)

Dr. Alexander King was himself prominent in public affairs for a long period of time. For many years he represented Suffield in the General Assembly of Connecticut, and in January, 1788, he was a delegate to the Convention held at Hartford to ratify the Constitution of the United States.

From his record we learn that William Kinge, who lived at Ugborough, Devonshire, in the west of England, was interested in the Fisheries on the New England coast, "and on his last voyage in that business he was cast away and drowned on the banks of Newfoundland. He had two sons, James and William, who both came to America and settled, William in one of the southern States, of whom I can give no further account."

It may be interesting to notice here the fact that the fishing trade between England and America appears to have been an important and profitable enterprise in those days, and for half a century previously. It is a matter of history that Capt. John Smith, the founder of the Colony of Virginia, was employed during the summer of 1614 in fishing off the New England coast, near to the Isles of Shoals, which he named "Smyth's Isles," and there loaded two vessels with fish, returning with them to England the same year. The Isles of Shoals were for two centuries famous as fishing grounds, and were probably the best locality in America for carrying on the Fisheries industry (Mass. Hist. Coll. 1st Series, vol. 7, page 247). We shall speak of the Newfoundland fisheries hereinafter in connection with William Kinge, Sr.

We have no further information relative to William of Ugborough, and the date of his decease is not known. His son James, the founder of the Suffield family, was certainly at Ipswich, Mass., in April, 1670, as he then made a deposition there of which we shall speak hereafter.

RECAPITULATION.

MARRIAGES.

- 1548—John Hayman and Maria Kynge, Aug. 27.
- 1621—William Kinge and Christina Lapp, Sept. 27.
- 1642—William Kinge and Agnes Elwill, Oct. 16.

BAPTISMS.

- 1577—Alicia and Joanna, daughters of William and Margaret Kinge.
- 1581—Thomas, son of William and Margaret Kinge.
- 1584—Robert, son of William and Margaret Kinge.

GENERATIONS IN UGBOROUGH.

The following are the probable generations (though some links are missing) from the period of opening the Parish Registers:

FIRST GENERATION.

Thomas Kynge, born before 1538, when parish registers were opened.

SECOND GENERATION.

William and Margaret Kinge, 1550-1620 (?).

THIRD GENERATION.

William and Christina (Lapp) Kinge—married 1621.

FOURTH GENERATION.

William and Agnes (Elwill) Kinge—married 1642.

FIFTH GENERATION.

- i. William King, bapt. Dec. 31, 1643. Came with his brother James to America.
- ii. James King, bapt. Nov. 7, 1647, who subsequently settled in 1678 at Suffield, Connecticut, and became the Founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut.

PRIOR ENGLISH ANCESTOR.

Going back to a period long before the opening of parish registers, we find a much earlier probable ancestor in Roger King, living at Dodbrook, 8 miles from Ugborough Church, Devonshire, in 1389, who was a landed proprietor, and made the deed above herein described by which he conveyed to John Sormond, A. D. 1389, a triangular piece of land at Dodbrook.

END OF ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

AMERICAN ANCESTRY.

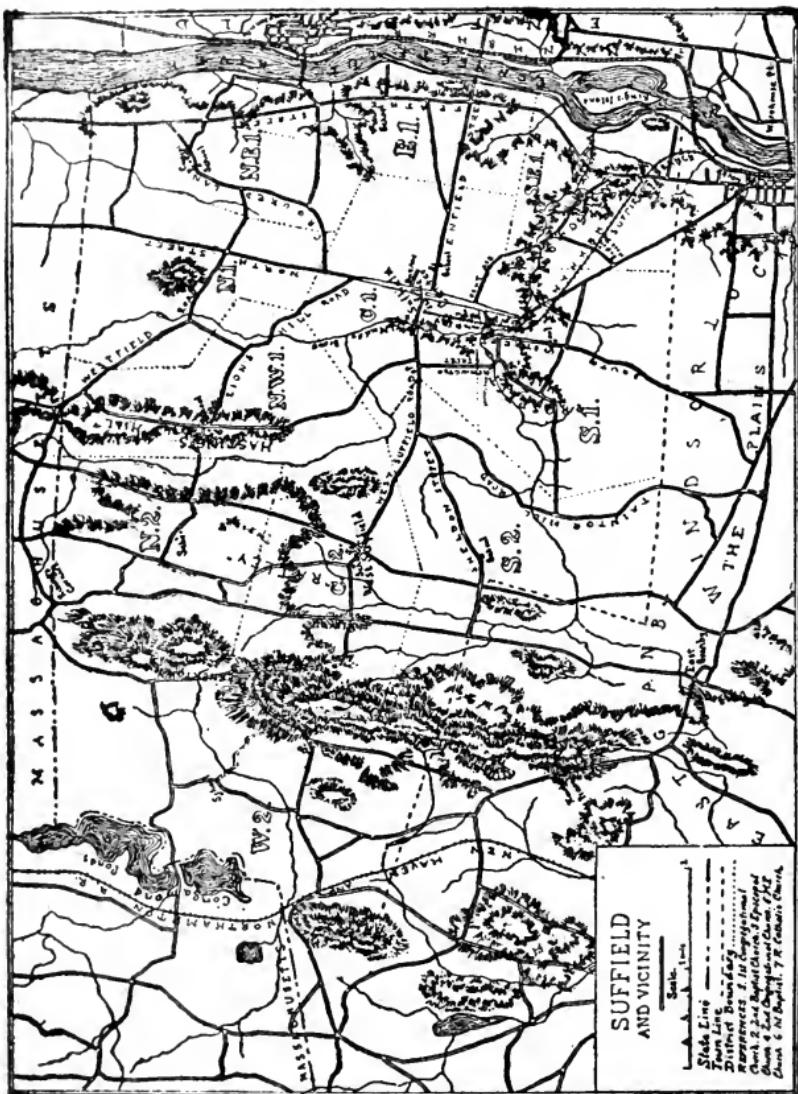

A. D. 1662-1907.

EXPLANATION.

The abbreviations used in the following pages, beside those which are of customary and general use, are as follows: b. for born; bapt. for baptized; d. for died; m. for married; dau. for "daughter of"; Suf. for Suffield, Connecticut. The small number after a Christian name indicates the number of generations down from and inclusive of the first ancestor who was in America.

The asterisk * following the Arabic numerals placed in the margin just before the Roman numerals which precede the name of a child indicates that a further history and genealogy of the person so designated will be found later on in the book under the same number in larger bold-faced type. Thus "10*vii Joseph," etc., indicates that the genealogy and history of Joseph is continued and extended in a paragraph further along in the book and numbered 10. These numbers may be used as cross-references backward as well as forward.

The descendants of James King of Suffield are arranged and grouped herein by generations in the order of their regular succession. The name of every child mentioned among the "issue" of its parents, and whose surname is King, is given a number. The descendants of a female King, who by marriage takes the surname of her husband, are grouped together under the numbered paragraph devoted to and descriptive of her; and her descendants are therein given and carried down to and including her great-grandchildren, if their records could be obtained.

SUFFIELD, CONNECTICUT.

Although James King, the Founder of our Family in America, settled first at Ipswich, Mass., where he married and in which place his eldest son was born, yet very soon after this last event he moved to Suffield, where in October, 1678, he had a grant of land and where all his other children were born. In Suffield he lived for nearly forty-five years and there in 1722 he died. There, too, his wife and children and very many of their descendants lived and died. The voting list of the town for the year 1904—two and one-quarter centuries having elapsed since James King settled there—contains the names of eleven of his descendants bearing the surname King, who continue to reside in the old town. Suffield is therefore properly considered the birthplace and the original ancestral home of the family in America.

Springfield, Mass., the parent town of Suffield, was settled in 1636 by families from Roxbury and was called "Aguam" or "Agawam" until 1640. It embraced the territory which afterward became Suffield. The General Court of Massachusetts on October 12, 1670, granted a petition for the grant of a new town "six miles square on the West side of the Connecticut river toward Windsor from Springfield." This was Suffield, at first called Stoney River and also Southfield Plantation. It continued to be a part of Hampshire county, Mass., until 1749 when it passed from the jurisdiction of Massachusetts to that of Connecticut and became a part of Hartford county. Northampton, which was the county seat of Hampshire county, was on the Connecticut river about seventeen miles north of Springfield. Indian troubles and King Philip's War, which lasted from 1674 to 1675, during which time Springfield was destroyed, caused the town of Suffield to be abandoned. Its settlement was also much retarded by the heavy growth of timber which made its clearing difficult. The first town meeting was held March 9, 1682, at which there were only thirty-four qualified voters, of which James King was one.

FIRST CHURCH ERECTED IN SUFFIELD.
ABOUT 1680.

Extract from the Town Records, April 6, 1685:—"That the Townsmen shall upon ye townes' cost procure a ladder and alsoe a red flagg to hang out for a signe that persons may know the time for assembling together."

The town books for recording marriages, births and deaths are of interest. The first of these is a small folio and its entries indicate that it was in use from the time of the town's organization in 1682 to 1740. It is sadly shattered by the wear of two centuries and more than thirty pages are lost. A second book containing similar records from 1740 to 1762 is not to be found. A third book from 1762 to 1799 is in good condition. In Dec. 1799 the town ordered the town clerk (Dr. Alexander King, grandson of James King) to "collect and transcribe all the records of marriages, births and deaths into one book." He had completed the transcription with an index in an admirable manner before his death, which occurred Oct. 12, 1802. This book is now styled "Suffield Records, Births, Marriages and Deaths, Vol. I."

FIRST GENERATION.

WILLIAM¹ KINGE, born in Ugborough, Devonshire, England, 1622 (?). Though we closed our English Ancestry with his name and there is no evidence that he ever abandoned his residence at Ugborough, or acquired one in America, yet as the constant practice of the family, and those writing on the genealogy of the King Family of Suffield, has been to begin with him as the first, or immigrant, ancestor in tracing down our American line, we may be permitted, in order to avoid possible confusion of enumeration, to follow this precedent; and indeed, as he lost his life on the American coast and was at that time interested in American fisheries, he may perhaps not inappropriately be placed as the first in our American line of ancestry and thus form a connecting link between our English and American lines.

William Kinge married at Ugborough Oct. 16, 1642, Agnes Elwill, who probably belonged to the same family from whom descended John Elwill, created a Baronet at Exeter, Devonshire, in the year 1709. In our title English Ancestry (supra) we gave the record of the marriage of William Kinge and Agnes Elwill as it appears in the Parish Register of Ugborough as follows: "1642—Willimus Kinge et Agneta Elwill nupti erant 16 Octobris." She was buried at Ugborough April 7, 1662, and the following record of her burial also appears in the Ugborough Parish Register: "1662 Agneta, Uxor Gulielmi Kinge sepulta fuit septimo die Aprilis."

It is probable that soon after the death of his wife William Kinge brought or sent his two children to America, though neither the date of his nor their arrival in New England can be fixed with certainty. He had, however, become interested in the fisheries on the coast, and we know that he was engaged in that business at the time of his death. Dr. Alexander⁵ King (Joseph⁴ James³ James² William¹) in his genealogical notes says that "While upon his last voyage in that business he was cast away and drowned on the Banks of Newfoundland," but unfortunately he has omitted to give the date of that occurrence. Dr. Alexander King (as we have heretofore said), though born at Suffield in 1737, yet was during all his early life contemporary with four of the children of James King of Suffield, son of William Kinge, and certainly must have been well informed as to the manner and time of the death of William Kinge, for of these children of James, with whom Dr. Alexander King was very intimate, the youngest was twenty-five and the oldest forty-seven years of age when their father died and they must have frequently heard him tell about the circumstance of the drowning of his father—their grandfather. It probably occurred while James King was at Ipswich, Mass., and before he went to Suffield in 1678.

In connection with the circumstance that William Kinge was interested in fisheries on the American coast and "while on his last voyage in that business was cast away and drowned on the Banks of Newfoundland," and in view of his social standing and position shown by his right to bear a coat of arms, it is of interest to note the importance, at that time, of the Newfoundland fisheries and the fact that a great number of the gentry and even nobility of England were attracted to and were interested in that lucrative and adventurous business. Especially was this the case with those in Devonshire and the West of England.

Newfoundland was the oldest of England's colonies, having been discovered by John Cabot in 1497. In 1500 Gaspard Corte-real, a Portuguese of noble family, sailed from Lisbon, Portugal, and established the first regular fisheries in Newfoundland and in 1517 there were forty Portuguese, French and Spanish vessels engaged in these cod fisheries. Hakluyt's Chronicles inform us that in 1578 the number of vessels engaged in the Newfoundland fisheries had increased to 400, of which only 50 were English. The very great importance of the industry seemed finally to dawn upon England. Letters patent were issued by Queen Elizabeth to Sir Humphrey Gilbert of Devonshire (half brother of Sir Walter Raleigh, who was also interested with him in the enterprise) to found a colony in Newfoundland, and in August, 1583, he landed at St. Johns and took formal possession of the country.

in the Queen's name. The next month, however, he was cast away and drowned on the coast, which for a time ended the attempt at colonizing. In 1615 Capt. Richard Whitbourne of Exmouth, Devonshire, was despatched to Newfoundland by the British Admiralty to examine into the fishing industry and to report thereon. On his return to England in 1622 he wrote a "Discourse and Discovery of Newfoundland Trade" which King James by an order in Council caused to be distributed among the parishes of the kingdom "for the encouragement of Adventurers unto plantations there." Many of the gentry disposed of property in order to engage in fishing enterprises there. Sir George Calvert, afterwards Lord Baltimore, obtained a patent covering fishing rights in the surrounding waters and established a settlement near the southern end of the peninsula in Newfoundland, building a handsome mansion there, where he resided with his family for a few years. As early as 1626 more than 150 vessels were annually despatched from Devonshire alone. These left early in each summer. The fish caught were salted and dried on the Newfoundland shores and on the approach of winter those engaged in the fisheries returned to England with the products of their enterprise. (Hakluyt's Chronicles; Pedley's Hist. Newfoundland; Encyc. Brit. "Newfoundland.") Vessels engaged in the Newfoundland trade sometimes went to the Isles of Shoals and New England ports and it is possible that this was the way by which William Kinge brought or sent his son James to Ipswich, Mass.

The children of William and Agnes (Elwill) Kinge were born at Ugborough, Devonshire, England.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM² KING, (William¹), baptized in Ugborough, Co. Devon., England, Dec. 31, 1643; died —. The record of his baptism is to be found in the Parish Register at Ugborough and is as follows:

"1643—Willimus, fil. Willimi Kinge et Agnetae ux. bapt. fuit ultimo die Decemb."

(1643—William, son of William Kinge and of Agnes, wife, was baptized the last day of December.)

He came with his brother, James, to America. Dr. Alexander⁵ King (Joseph⁴ James³ James² William¹) in his genealogical notes says that William² King went to some southern colony.

We have no further record of him.

JAMES² KING, (William¹), baptized in Ugborough, Devonshire, England, Nov. 7, 1647; died in Suffield May 13, 1722; married (1) in Ipswich, Mass., March 23, 1674, Elizabeth Fuller, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Emerson) Fuller, born in Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652; died in Suffield June 30, 1715: (2) in Westfield, Feb. 27, 1716, Hannah Loomis, widow of Samuel Loomis, who died at Suffield Nov. 6, 1711. She died at Suffield in 1720. James King was the Founder of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut. The record of his baptism in the Parish Register of Ugborough, Devonshire, is as follows:

"1647—Jacobus, fil Will'i Kinge et Agnetae, uxor eius, bapt. 7 die Novembris."

(1647—James, son of William Kinge and of Agnes, his wife, baptized seventh day of November.)

His mother Agnes (Elwill) Kinge died at Ugborough April 7, 1662, and it is probable that very shortly thereafter he and his brother William came to New England. It is likely that immediately on his arrival in America James King was placed at Ipswich, Mass., though we have no record of the presence there of either his father or brother.

If James King came to America soon after the death of his mother in 1662, he was on his arrival only about fifteen years of age and it is probable that he then began to acquire or was taught the trade of a cooper at Ipswich, Mass., in accordance with the custom among those early pioneers that every person, no matter how gentle his birth and breeding, should take up some useful occupation. This is well expressed by the late United States Senator George F. Hoar, in his "Autobiography of Seventy Years" (Vol. I. p. 41). In speaking of these early settlers of New England, Senator Hoar says: "They were of good English stock. Many of them were of gentle blood and entitled to bear coat armor at home. It is interesting also to observe how little the character of the gentleman or gentlewoman in our New England people is affected by the pursuit for generations of humble occupations, which in other countries are deemed degrading. Our ancestors, during nearly two centuries of poverty which followed the first settlement, turned their hands to the humblest ways of getting a livelihood, became shoemakers, or blacksmiths or tailors, or did the hardest and most menial and rudest work of the farm, shoveled gravel, or chopped wood, without any of the effect on their character which would be likely to be felt from the permanent pursuit of such an occupation in old England or Germany. It was like a fishing party or a hunting party in the woods. When the necessity was over, and the man or boy in any generation got a college education, or was called to take part in public affairs he rose at once and easily to the demands of an exalted station." Very many of those whose families bore coats of arms in the old country did, as James King did—applied themselves to trades or manual labor. Thus we see the son of Thomas Emerson, an undoubted armiger, applying himself to the trade of a baker.

It is not to be expected that during his youth and while he was learning a trade we should find any public record relating to the life of James King at Ipswich, Mass. The first definite public record of his presence at Ipswich consists of a deposition made by him there on April 21, 1670, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of Courts, Salem, Mass., Vol. XV: 124, and is as follows:

--"The deposition of James Kinge being about 18 years of Age."--
"This deponent saith that he heard Elizabeth Roper say to good-wife hunt, that she should not need to be in such hast to fetch a warrant, and goodwife hunt replied, she could say with a safe conscience, she had not bene forgave."

Taken upon oath 21th of April 1670

Samuel Symonds"

It is only in the heading, title or preamble of the deposition that the age of James Kinge is stated to be "about" 18 years. It does not appear that he said his age was about 18 years. It was probably intended to say that he was "above" 18 years of age and the statement is made undoubtedly simply to show that the witness had attained years of discretion sufficient to enable him to understand the nature of an oath and with no purpose of attempting in any way to fix at all accurately his age, as is even now frequently the case in depositions. It was probably put in by the clerk or official administering the oath as a matter of form for the purpose indicated above and perhaps James may have appeared to him younger than he really was. At all events it is of no weight in fixing his age, as the Ugborough Parish Registers show he was baptized November 7, 1647. The title of the case in which the above deposition was made is: "Samuel Hunt and wife vs. Sarah Roper" in which Mrs. Hunt accuses Mrs. Roper of stealing a bodkin from her at church!

The records of the town transfers of real estate show that in 1673 James King bought from Obadiah Wood a house and lot in Ipswich and that on May 21, 1679, he sold the same to Andrew Dymond, having in the mean time married and removed with his family to Suffield.

The marriage of James King to Elizabeth Fuller was celebrated at Ipswich, Mass., March 23, 1674, and is recorded in the town records. She was the daughter of John Fuller, who came from England and settled at Ipswich in 1635. John Fuller was descended from a very old family which had lived at Redenhall, Co. Norfolk, England, from a period certainly earlier than the year 1482. From this family also came Dr. Samuel Fuller, who in 1620 was one of those embarked at Delfthaven, Holland, on the "Speedwell" for America and when that vessel proved unseaworthy and was abandoned he and his brother Edward Fuller, the latter's wife and their son Samuel, and William Butten the servant of Dr. Samuel Fuller made five of the one hundred and two passengers whom the Mayflower carried to America. The will of John Fuller probated Sept. 25, 1666, and still on file at the office of the Clerk of Probate at Salem, mentions his daughter Elizabeth and provides as follows: "To my daughters Susanna and Elizabeth, I give ten shillings apiece at the day of their marriage or when they are twenty years of age: to whom also I give no more because their Grandfather hath lately given them portions." The "Grandfather" in this will referred to was Thomas Emerson, whose will (still on file at Salem) was probated May 10, 1666, a month only before John Fuller's death, which occurred June 4, 1666. Thomas Emerson's will mentions his grand-daughter Elizabeth Fuller (afterward wife of James King) as follows: "Also in refrens to the twenty-fifth lin of this my wil it is to be vnderstod that what ther is mentioned as to my daughter ffulor is my intent that it shall be holy and fuly devided between hur tow daughter at ye age of twenty yers or at ye day of mariadg; Susanna and Elizabeth."

The mother of Elizabeth (Fuller) King, wife of James King, was Elizabeth (Emerson) Fuller daughter of Thomas Emerson, the first ancestor in America of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Thomas Emerson was baptized at Bishops Stortford, Co. Herts, England, July 26, 1584, married there Elizabeth Brewster (probably the daughter of William Brewster, the postmaster at Scrooby and the famous elder of the Pilgrims in 1620) July 1, 1611, and his daughter Elizabeth, who became wife of John Fuller, was baptized at Bishops Stortford June 14, 1623. Thomas⁴ Emerson (Robert³ of Bishops Stortford, Thomas² of Great Dunmow, Co. Essex, Ralf¹ of Foxton) was a descendant of Ralph (Ralf.) Emerson of Foxton, Bishopric of Durham, who in the reign of Henry VIII A. D. 1535 was granted arms: "Per fesse indented, vert and or, a bend engrailed, arg, charged with three lions passant of the first, bezanté: crest, a demi-lion rampant, vert, bezanté, grasping a battle axe, gules, headed arg." Thomas Emerson settled at Ipswich, Mass., as early as 1638 and left a very considerable estate there at his death on May 1, 1666.

Elizabeth (Fuller) King, wife of James King, was born at Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652. Her grandmother (Emerson) was presented by Queen Elizabeth with certain household goods and particularly a piece of fine linen which, descending to Elizabeth (Fuller) King, was carefully preserved as an heirloom and in turn given to her daughter, Agnes King who married John Austin. Elizabeth King reared her daughters in habits of industry and among their accomplishments was that of making lace. She died at Suffield June 30, 1715.

The first child of James² King and his wife Elizabeth was James³, and he was born at Ipswich, Mass., March 14, 1675, an entry of which appears in the Ipswich records. The next child, William, born Jan. 4, 1679, and all their other children were born at Suffield.

James King, as shown by the town records of Suffield, which are nearly complete from the year 1678, was one of the original proprietors of Suffield, his name being the fifty-eighth in the list of one hundred of the first grantees of lands in the order of their several grants. The first grant of land to him was made October 30, 1678. It consisted of sixty acres on High street "next south of the school lot." On it he proceeded at once to erect a dwelling house, which thenceforth for a long period of time was the family homestead. Other grants were thereafter made to him.

The first town meeting was held March 9, 1682. Although there were about three hundred inhabitants, there were only thirty-four qualified voters because of the considerable property qualification. James King was one of these. He was quite prominent in the public affairs of the town, held many important offices and was on several committees requiring the exercise of sound judgment.

At the town meeting March 3, 1685, for the election of town officers, James King was chosen "Tithingman." Tithingmen were first chosen in Suffield in 1684. Their duties were various and it was deemed a very important and responsible office. They were "to inspect all licensed houses of entertainment and to inform of all disorders or misdemeanors committed in them, to present and inform of all idle and disorderly persons, profane swearers or cursers, sabbath breakers and the like offenders." They were public prosecutors and called informers and were much reverenced by the law abiding and much feared by the transgressor. Their insignia of office was "a black staff two feet long, tipt at one end with brass about three inches; as a badge of their office to be provided by the selectmen at the charge of the town." (Sheldon's Hist. of Suffield.)

On March 5, 1695, James King was elected a selectman of the town; in 1701 chosen "Surveyor of Highways." On March 16, 1702, he was chosen "by a clear vote" one of a committee of three "to take care of and to manage the whole business of erecting and finishing ye School house according to ye Town Vote." March 14, 1709, he was chosen Clerk. March 13, 1710, he was chosen "Searcher and Sealer of Weights and Measures and Guager of Casks." He was re-elected yearly thereafter to the same office which he held until the year 1715, when his wife Elizabeth died and he seems to have retired from public life.

March 25, 1697, there was granted to James King a homestead or house lot for his son. The school lot adjoined the property of James King on the north, and on March 3, 1691, he was granted "liberty to improve an acre or two" of the school lot "till the town shall have occasion to use it." In April, 1703, "it was agreed and voted to let out the schooll lot for this year to James King, ye 1st he allowing the Town five shillings rent as a compensation for the same, and at ye end of the tearm to resign it up to the town again." This lease appears to have been renewed from year to year, for from 1703 until his death in 1722 he continued to hold this school lot consisting of 40 acres at a rental of five shillings a year, and his son William thereafter continued to hold it at the same rental for ten years after the death of James.

The second wife of James King was Hannah Loomis, whom he married Feby 27, 1716. She died at Suffield in 1720 without issue. She was the widow of Sergt. Samuel Loomis, who died at Suffield Nov. 6, 1711. James King's children were all by his first wife, Elizabeth. From 1678 the records in the Clerk's office at Suffield furnish nearly a complete registry of the births, marriages and deaths of his numerous descendants, who were born and lived there—at least until their removal from the town.

James King died at Suffield May 13, 1722. During his lifetime he acquired a considerable landed and personal estate, most of which he distributed among his children during his lifetime, leaving him little to dispose of by will. His will was probated at Northampton, Hampshire Co., Mass., on Aug. 30, 1722, where it still remains on file. The will is as follows:

THE WILL OF JAMES KING SENIOR

In the Name of God, Amen. On the 30th day of August 1722 Edward Smith Jun^r Eleazar Stockwell and Joseph Winchell the subscribing witnesses to the foregoing Will appeared before Sam^l Partridge Esqr Judge of the Probate of Wills &c., for the County afores^d and made oath that they saw James King the first, Subscribe and Seal the foregoing Instrum^t as his Last Will and Testam^t and yt he was of sound mind and Perfect memory to the best of there understanding when he did it, which s^d Will was approved and allowed of by the s^d Judge Test. John Pynchon, Regt.

The seal after James King's name seems to have been stamped by a circular signet, but the wax is now broken and only small fragments remain, rendering it impossible to tell whether a coat of arms was once impressed thereon.

Although this will was made only three days before his death, yet it is evident that thereafter, and before he died, he actually disposed of most of the property mentioned therein, by gift to his children, since the inventory of his estate makes no mention of the cows, sheep and much of the other personal property named in his will. The inventory includes merely furniture, an old sword which perhaps had belonged to his father and some money on hand, etc., amounting in all to a little over £145.

Besides the above will there are only two other instruments now in existence, so far as known, which bear the signature of James King. These we copy below:

The seals after the names of James King and Elizabeth King were once of red wax, but both have been broken and powdered until only traces of red powder remain, rendering it impossible to tell whether either seal ever had any design impressed thereon.

Elizabeth King, as we have said, was born in Ipswich, Mass., in 1652, and at that time there were there no school facilities for the education of females. There were scarcely any women of her generation there who could write their names. She was one of nine children—seven boys and two girls—and home duties in those days scarcely permitted school instruction. Both the father and mother of Elizabeth (Fuller) King were well educated and wrote well, and two of her uncles were ministers, one being a graduate of Harvard.

On the seal to the foregoing instrument are impressed the King Coat of Arms which we have already discussed quite fully (pages 25-37 ante) and to which we need not here make further reference except to say it was undoubtedly that of his family in England and brought with him or his father to this country; and although, when as a mere lad of fifteen or sixteen years of age he arrived in New England, he at once, in obedience to the prevailing sentiment of the time and place, embraced a trade and useful occupation, yet he was none the less of gentle blood and entitled to the Coat Armor he used and which his descendants have ever since borne.

James King had nine children, three of whom died in infancy and six survived him.

JAMES³ KING (James², William¹), born in Ipswich, Mass., March 14, 1675; died in Suffield July 15, 1757; married in Suffield June 22, 1698, Elizabeth Huxley, who died in Suffield Aug. 20, 1745. She was the daughter of Thomas Huxley of Hartford, Conn., and Suffield, by his first wife, Sarah Spencer, daughter of Sergt. Thomas Spencer (brother of Jared and John) of Cambridge and Hartford by his second wife, Sarah² (Nathaniel¹) Beardings. James King was a prominent citizen and held many offices of trust. He was elected March 26, 1716, Tithingman. In 1721 and 1731 he was a Selectman. In 1721 he was interested in the iron works on Stony Brook at the lower end of High street in Suffield, which were still in operation as late as 1770. He amassed a considerable landed estate which is still enjoyed by his descendants. He saw Suffield during his lifetime change from a wilderness to an attractive town. After the death of his wife and his oldest son, James, and youngest son, Amos, but twelve years before his own decease, he made his will, which still remains on file at Hartford, Conn.

WILL OF JAMES KING.

An inventory of the estate of Benjamin King was made on November 30, 1733, and remains on file at Hartford. It includes "his Lands 300 acres" valued at 250 pounds and farming implements, cattle, "one maar" and household furniture. The total appraisement of the estate was 305 pounds seven shillings and four pence. Stafford, to which Benjamin King removed from Suffield, was about sixteen miles east from the latter place and Tolland (Toaland) where Benjamin King's "well esteemed friend Lieutenant John Huntington" lived was about eight miles southerly from Stafford. The three youngest children of Benjamin King were born in Stafford, the others in Suffield.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH³ KING, (James², William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., May 10, 1689; died in Suffield March 6, 1756; married (1) in Hartford May 2, 1717, Mary (Wilson) Jesse, widow; (2) in Suffield June 2, 1740, Hannah Devotion.

Captain Joseph King was a very prominent man in Suffield. His well known integrity and uprightness together with his accuracy and fidelity in the transaction of official business caused him to be greatly trusted and his time to be much occupied in public affairs. He was Captain of a military company. Dec. 19, 1721, he was elected Tithingman; Dec. 2, 1726, Moderator of the Town Meeting; March 11, 1728, Selectman and also Moderator; at the same time he was also chosen one of the "trustees to receive the towns proportion of 60,000 pound loan (of which the towns proportion was 405 pounds) and to let it out at the towns discretion." May 6, 1728, he was again Moderator; March 10, 1729, Selectman; April 16, 1729, he was elected Town Treasurer and being re-elected each succeeding year, he held that office for twelve years and until 1741. In each succeeding year thereafter he was chosen Selectman and Moderator. June 11, 1739, Joseph King having been chosen Moderator of the Town Meeting, the following proceedings thereat were taken: "Joseph King, Gent^m, was chosen agent in behalf of the Town of Suffield to make answer to a petition exhibited to the General Court now sitting at Boston, by the inhabitants of the West part of said town praying to be set off into a Distinct and Separate Society by themselves: and the said King to show Reasons Why they ought not to be see Sett off." The petition referred to was for the formation of the Second Ecclesiastical Society and had been made in May, 1739. The General Court deferred a decision and recommended an arrangement by a committee chosen by mutual agreement of both parties. This was done and the decision of the committee was ratified by the General Court Jany 1, 1740.

The answer or brief in the handwriting of "Joseph King, Gent^m," giving reasons why the town should not be divided into Ecclesiastical Societies has been preserved and is still on file among the town records of Suffield. It presents the reasons against such a division of the town into ecclesiastical societies or precincts very forcibly, clearly and concisely. The closing paragraphs are as follows:

"The great inconvenience of breaking Towns into small precincts makes parties in Towns and being unable to give yt honorable support to Ministers which is meet, has a tendency to breed discord between Minister and People and proves a wound to Religion; and no man of learning and parts will be willing to settle in such places: and so they must take up with weak means which opens a door for seducers to infuse Corrupt principles and bring a scandal upon Religion.

The extream charges of ye Province & war approaching is to be considered" etc. (The war referred to as approaching was probably that with the French known as King George's War.)

The Committee against division was "Joseph King and Sam^l Kent Gent^m and William King, Yeoman" who with a committee in favor of division signed an agreement selecting Arbitrators to determine the question. (Sheldon's Hist. of Suffield.)

Capt. Joseph King acquired a very large estate. He executed a great many legal documents and a number of these have been preserved and are now in the possession of Miss Margaret E. King of Dayton, Ohio. His seal after his signature on these legal instruments always has impressed thereon the King Coat of Arms to which we have above herein referred under the title "The King Coat of Arms" (p. 29 supra). It would consume too much space to give these documents in full, but the following Deed of Gift to Hannah King his wife will serve as an illustration:

DEED OF GIFT BY CAPT JOSEPH KING TO HIS WIFE HANNAH KING

Know all Men by these Presents that I Joseph King of Suffield in the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut in New England for and in consideration of the love, good will and affection which I have and do bear toward my loving wife Hannah King of Suffield aforesaid have given and granted and by these presents do freely, clearly and absolutely give and grant unto the said Hannah King her heirs and assigns forever one ninth part of two hundred acres of land lying and being in Cold Spring Township, so called in the County of Hampshire in His Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England aforesaid, the said two hundred acres of land is bounded as followeth (viz) beginning at the south east corner of three hundred acres formerly Mr Stodards now supposed to belong to Mr Josiah Parsons of Northampton & running from thence west six degrees south one hundred and fifty perch and then south six degrees east ninety-nine perch and then east six degrees north two hundred and fifty five perch: & then north one degree east one hundred and two perch, then north eight degrees east fifty five perch & then west six degrees south to the line on the east side of the above said Parsons three hundred acres aforesaid which line is north six degrees west from the station first mentioned and then to the corner boundary where this two hundred acres first began; to Have and to Hold the said given and granted premises (after my decease) to her the said Hannah King her heirs and assigns forever to her and their only proper use benefit and behoof forever. In Witness whereof I the said Joseph King have hereunto set my hand and seal this eighth Cor^m Sam^l Kent Jun^{or} Justice Peace.

The seal after Joseph King's signature is a diamond shaped piece of white paper attached by a wafer to the deed and impressed with a seal bearing the King Coat of Arms. (See half-tone under title The King Coat of Arms, p. 29 ante.) The body of the instrument is entirely in the handwriting of Capt. Joseph King.

He died at Suffield on the 6th day of March, 1756.

WILL OF CAPT. JOSEPH KING OF SUFFIELD.

In the name of God, Amen: This forth day of March 1756, I Joseph King of Suffield in the County of Hartford and Colony of Connecticut in New England, Gentleman, being very sick and Weak in body but of perfect mind and memory, Thanks be given to God.

Therefore calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament, that is to say principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the Hands of God that gave it and my body I recommend to the Earth to be buried in decent Christian Burial nothing doubting but at the General Resurrection I shall receive the same again by the Mighty Power of God. And as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life I give and demise and dispose of the same in the following manner & form. Imprimis: I give and bequeath to Hannah, my dearly beloved wife the use and improvement of one Half of my house and Barn & well during the time she remains my widow and after that to have the use of one Third part of said House barn & well during her natural life and also one third part of the use of my Improvable lands during her life and also one third part of my moveable estate during her natural life.

Item—I appoint and my will is that my wife Hannah and my loving brother William King and my son Pelatiah Bliss to be the Executors to this my Last Will and Testament, which Executors I impower or any two of them to sell so much of my out lands as they shall think proper or necessary for the support of my children during their minority and to my wife the time she remains my widow.

Item—After my just debts and funeral charges are paid I give to my eldest son Joseph a double portion of all I have among his Brethren.

Item—I give unto my loving children Abigail Bliss and Eliphilet and Hannah and Epaphras and Ashbel and Thaddeus and Theodor and Mary equal portions out of my whole estate and my will is that what I have charged to my son Pelatiah and my daughter Abigail Bliss on my Book shall be reconed as so much paid toward her portion and I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke & declare null all and every other former Testaments, wills, legacies & bequests & Executors by me in any ways before named, willed and bequested ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my Last Will and Testament—in witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared by the said Joseph King

Both the above will and Codicil still remain on file in the Probate Office at Hartford, Conn. The will was made two days before the death of Capt. Joseph King. The child expected to be born, and provided for in the Codicil, was born on May 14, 1756, a little more than two months after Capt. Joseph's death and was christened by its mother Ichabod. We have given the above inventory in full just as it appears of record as it very well illustrates what the furniture, household goods and establishment of a well-to-do gentleman in a New England town was in those old days. Indeed from the clothing of Captain Joseph mentioned therein we could form a pretty fair idea of his external appearance. We have only to imagine the old gentleman dressed in his "Blew Broad cloth Coat, silver trimming, Red Jackit (vest) and Red Plush (knee) briches, gould trimmed both," "silk Stockings" and "silver nee buckels," shoes and "silver shoe buckels" with a "Beaver hat" upon his head, his queue hanging down behind and in his hand his "Cane with silver head"; or perhaps he is in his "Leather Briches with silver Buttons" and mounted upon his "young black mare"—or again seated in his home and while one of the ladies plies her needle and another is at the spinning wheel he in his "great Cainback Clear," enjoys his pipe full of home raised "tobaco" and sips his glass of "Cyder" drawn from the best of the thirteen barrels of that beverage which are stored in his cellar. He is described as "a large man of powerful physique." A careful examination of the inventory will reveal much concerning the domestic habits of the inmates of that old New England home.

It will also be observed that one of the items in this inventory is "a silver seal Kings Coat of Arms." This same seal as we have mentioned elsewhere descended regularly through many generations and is now in the possession of Miss Emma C. King of Xenia, Ohio. The Damask table cloth and napkins are also still preserved and the property of Mr. Robert Newton King of Dayton, Ohio, and his silver "nee" and shoe "buckles" are treasured by another descendant, Mrs. E. A. Arnold of Cummington, Mass.

The first wife of Capt. Joseph King was Mrs. Mary (Wilson) Jesse, widow of David Jesse, sister of Nathaniel Wilson (see New England Hist. and Gen. Register, Vol. 13, p. 143, and Hoadley's Conn. Col. Rec. Vol. 6, p. 59) and the daughter of Phineas Wilson, from Dublin, a wealthy merchant of Hartford, by his first wife, Mary Sandford, only daughter of Nathaniel and Susanna Sandford. She died Sept. 11, 1737. Capt. Joseph King married again at Suffield June 20, 1740, Hannah⁴ Devotion, born in Suffield April 24, 1716, daughter of Rev. Ebenezer³ Devotion, (John², Edward¹ of Roxbury and Brookline A. D. 1645) and Hannah (Breck) Devotion his wife, daughter of Capt. John Breck of Dorchester, Mass. Edward¹ Devotion, the first representative of that family in America, was born about 1621 of French Huguenot parentage. It was evident that his name, so distinctively English in its orthography, must have undergone some transformation either in England before he came to America or after his arrival in New England, in the same manner as other well known names were Anglicised, such for instance as Delano for De la Noye, Truax for De Trieux, Bovie for Beaufils, etc. It was known that the Devotion family came originally from La Rochelle. Miss Emma C. King of Xenia, Ohio, while in Europe in 1895 traveled from Paris to La Rochelle for the sole purpose of obtaining information relative to the ancestors of the Devotion family, and obtained transcripts from official records which seem to leave no doubt that the name of Edward Devotion prior to his coming to New England was written "de Vauton" and was then changed only by Anglicising the spelling, the pronunciation remaining nearly the same. The transcripts in question are given in the Appendix to this book, where a brief history of the Devotion—de Vauton family is given, which will be found of interest to those descended from this branch of the King family.

Rev. Ebenezer Devotion, the father of Mrs. Hannah King, wife of Capt. Joseph King, was for many years (1710-1741) the minister of the town of Suffield and greatly respected and loved. He was a graduate of Harvard College in 1707. He was buried at Suffield and on his tombstone appears the following epitaph: "Here lies the body of the Rev. Mr. Ebenezer Devotion, late minister of the Gospel in this Town, who died April the 11th, 1741, in the 31st year of his ministry. Aetate 57. He was a man of sound judgment, great Stability of Mind & singular Modesty and Humility, a True Friend and Faithful Minister, steady in his attendance upon the Altar, close and pungent in his preaching and very exemplary in his life, a Pattern of Industry and Resignation and of all Christian Graces. As while living he was greatly beloved, so his death was very much lamented."

Rev. Ebenezer Devotion left a considerable estate to be divided among his three children, Ebenezer, Hannah and Mary. His son Ebenezer Devotion and Capt. Joseph King were the executors of his will and upon the latter devolved the principal care of the estate for a period of thirteen years until it was finally closed. A partial inventory of this estate may be of interest.

"The Inventory of the Estate of the Reverend Mr. Ebenezer Devotion, Deceased, att Suffield was taken by us the subscribers appointed to prise the same, and began the 24th day of April A: N: que 1741.

It seems somewhat strange now to look back at this worthy old minister in Suffield, Connecticut, and find that he was a slave owner and to observe in the inventory of his estate "Two oxen £30. Philip, the negro man £30. Three Heifers 2 years old £13." The slave invoiced among the cattle!

The services of Capt. Joseph King in handling the estate seem to have been appreciated, for attached to the "Reckoning" or settlement of the estate is the following paper:

"Whereas Capt King one of the aforesaid Executors has spent much Time and Care for thirteen Years past to settle the aforesaid Estate, and has omitted to take a particular and exact account of many the lesser Articles of Time and Charge, which cannot be come at I the said Devotion Co-executor with him Judge it Reasonable, and accordingly give my consent to abate of and allow, the sd Joseph King for such extraordinary Trouble 20 pounds which he owes to the Estate, and which has not been reckoned in the above Reckoning due to the Estate for the Improvement of the Slow Lot and 20 pounds out of his debt in the foregoing Page, and to give a quit claim of the beforenamed 3 acres and thirty four rod in the great Common, and my right in the undivided Land mentioned in the foregoing Page all amounting to near about 70 pounds

Hannah (Devotion) King survived her husband Capt. Joseph King nearly fifty years and upon her devolved the task of bringing up and caring for their numerous children and managing the large and valuable estate left by Capt. Joseph. These duties she performed with singular skill and excellent judgment. She died May 4, 1805, at the advanced age of 89 years. A tombstone in the cemetery at Suffield points out the spot where lies "the body of Captain Joseph King," near which stands another, "Sacred to the Memory of Mrs. Hannah King, Relict of Capt. Joseph King." His children, two by his first wife and nine by his second wife, were born in Suffield.

EBENEZER⁴ KING, (James³, James², William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Dec. 8, 1706; died in Suffield June 17, 1781; married in Suffield March 30, 1727, Abigail Seymour, daughter of Zacharia⁴ Seymour (Richard¹). Mrs. King died June 1796, leaving, it is said, one hundred and eighty lineal descendants surviving her. Ebenezer King held several important offices in Suffield and was Tithingman there from 1737 to 1748. He was the owner of the ferry on the Connecticut river above King's Island before 1749 and certainly later than 1759, as appears from his petition to the Connecticut General Assembly in the latter year. The children of Ebenezer King were born in Suffield. His will, made about two months before his death, mentions his wife and names his children. It is as follows::

BENJAMIN⁴ KING, (Benjamin,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Sept. 11, 1717; died in Enfield, Conn., March 8, 1777; married in Enfield Sept. 26, 1741, Sarah Pease, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Spencer) Pease. She died in Enfield Feb. 24, 1800. He removed to Enfield prior to 1740 and had a blacksmith shop there. He was at the same time a farmer. An inventory of his estate, which was valued at 159 pounds 15 shillings and 2 pence, was filed in the Probate office at Hartford April 3, 1777. It mentions the blacksmith shop and tools, his land and farming implements, some live stock and also "a maare bo't by Naham King, son of the dec'd," homestead, furniture, etc. His widow married Samuel Eaton of Enfield, who died April 20, 1793, aged 74.

The descendants of Benjamin⁴ King seem to have lived in a corner or place where Longmeadow, East Longmeadow and Wilbersham (Wilbraham), all in Massachusetts, join Enfield and Somers, both in Connecticut. Somers was originally the East Parish of Enfield and was set off and incorporated July, 1734. East Longmeadow was set off from Longmeadow July 1, 1794. Enfield and Somers were in Massachusetts until May, 1749. Stafford bounds Somers on the east. To the south and east of Somers is Ellington. The inhabitants of all these towns are practically neighbors. Removing from one of these towns to another did not mean a long journey. Sometimes it only meant building a new house on another part of the farm.

Benjamin⁴ King and at least several of his family were Baptists. The Colonial Records of Connecticut, Vol. XII, p. 271, in a list of Baptists belonging to Enfield Church in May, 1764, gives Benjamin King and Benjamin King Jr. The fact that the family were Baptists renders it difficult at times to get exact dates of births, marriages and deaths. Practically the town was the orthodox Congregational Church, and that church was the town. The consequence was that the Baptists had as little as possible to do with the town. If the law required it they had births recorded, but in the lax, loose methods of the days following the Revolutionary War little recording was done by any one, and by the Baptists practically none. Subsequent generations of the Benjamin King family seem to have returned to the Congregational Church. On March 7, 1790, there was admitted to membership in the Enfield First (Congregational) Church eight persons among whom were Benjamin⁶ King Jr., Hulda King and Rhoda King, grandchildren of Benjamin⁴ and Sarah (Pease) King. These three "were baptized on the day they were admitted to communion, being of a family whose father was a baptist." All the children of Benjamin⁴ and Sarah (Pease) King were born at Enfield.

Y., Dec. 26, 1756. He was the son of Pelatiah⁵ (Pelatiah,⁴ Laurence,³ Thomas² of Hartford, Conn., Thomas¹ of Belstone, England) Bliss and Ann Stoughton, daughter of John Stoughton of Windsor, Conn. Dr. Pelatiah⁶ Bliss was the physician of Suffield, surgeon of a regiment under Gen. Phineas Lyman of Durham, Conn., in the old French war (1755). He died while in the service on his return from Lake George Camp. She married again, April —, 1765, David Pixley of Stockbridge, but they separated a few years later.

A list of her descendants is given in the Bliss Genealogy by John Homer Bliss at page 74. She died before the widow of her father, Capt. Joseph King, in 1805, and the names of her grandchildren appear in certain deeds of the interest they derived through her in Capt. Joseph King's undistributed estate, held by right of dower by his widow until her death. The names of such grandchildren appearing in these deeds are: Martin Nash of Ferrisburg, Addison Co., Vt. JOSEPH⁴ KING, (Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., April 15, 1741; died in Suffield March 19, 1814; married in Suffield Sept. 12, 1769, Mrs. Tryphena (Kendall) Bowker, widow, born Dec. 22, 1738, daughter of Joshua Kendall Jr. and Hannah Bement, who were married July 28, 1737. Mrs. Tryphena Bowker had by her first husband a daughter, Hannah Bowker, who is mentioned in the Will of Joseph King as his "daughter-in-law" and who died Feb. 22, 1825. Mrs. Tryphena King survived her husband. Among some old papers now in the possession of Miss Margaret E. King of Dayton, Ohio, is a Will of Joseph King which has no filing mark upon it and does not appear ever to have been presented for probate. There is no other will of Joseph King to be found on file at Hartford nor any inventory—or even mention—of his estate. It seems possible that he sold his property at Suffield or made deeds of gift to his children, yet no record even of any deeds from him can be found, nor can we discover that the title to his property ever passed from him or from his estate. There is a tombstone to his memory in the old graveyard at Suffield recording his death as having occurred March 19, 1814. The following is the will above referred to:

WILL OF JOSEPH KING.

In the Name of God, Amen: this 27th day of February 1813, I, Joseph King, of Suffield in the County of Hartford and State of Connecticut being of sound mind and memory thanks be given to God therefor. Calling to mind the mortality of my body and that it is appointed for all men once to die do make and ordain this my last will and testament: principally and first of all I recommend my soul to God who gave it and my body to the Earth in decent Christian burial.

And as to such Worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me I dispose of it in the following manner, viz:

I give and bequeath unto my loving wife Tryphena the use and improvement of one third part of my real estate during her natural life and also one third part of my personal estate to be at her disposal.

And whereas my eldest son Joshua K. King has received so much already as I judge equal to what each of my other children will share of my estate after my decease and he having given a receipt that he has received as much as he ought to have of my estate I do therefore give and bequeath my estate both real and personal to my other children viz: Irene King, Epaphras King and John Bowker King in equal shares with the encumbrance of what I have given to my wife and also that my daughter-in-law Hannah Bowker have the priviledge of a comfortable dwelling in the house where I now dwell so long as she shall live unmarried and also they paying the said Hannah ninety dollars in three equal payments at the end of one and two and three years after my decease, on condition that she discharge a bond for fourteen pounds which I gave her dated March 27, 1790 and it is my will that my sons Epaphras and John B. King be executors to my last will and testament.

And I do utterly disallow any other or former testament by me made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

The seal is impressed on a diamond shaped piece of white paper fastened to the will by a wafer. The King Coat of Arms is very plainly impressed on the paper seal. (See half-tone under title King Coat of Arms, page 30 ante.) Miss Emma C. King of Xenia, Ohio, has furnished the following record:

"Joseph King was a soldier in the American Revolution. On the first call, the "Lexington Alarm," he was in Capt. Elisha Kent's company with eighteen days' service at that time. Thereafter he was in Col. Joseph Spencer's regiment, Capt. Oliver Hanchet's company (of which his brother, Eliphalet King, was Ensign), from May 8th to Dec. 17, 1776. Then in Brig. Gen'l Erastus Wolcott's Brigade at Peekskill, Col. Belden's regiment, Capt. Edward Griswold's company, April 7th to May 11, 1777. Afterward for eight months in Capt. John Hancock's company of Suffield May 27, 1777, to Jany 1st, 1778. Then in the 4th Regt. Conn. Line, and finally enlisted for three years in Sheldon's Dragoons Jany 7, 1781. He is described on the enlistment roll as "Joseph King of Suffield, 5 ft. 7 inches high, light complexion, hair and eyes. You will be pleased to receive the following. And we hope our officers and men will be glad to be able to show it to you, or to any of your friends. And we trust it will be of great service to the United States. It will receive from the various Comets of the United Colonies, or Committee of Safety, such persons appointed, or Commander-in-Chief, or the like, of the army of the United Colonies, as your superior officer, according to the rules and discipline of war, in performance of their trust. This commission to continue in force until the end of this or a future Congress.

St. Louis Missouri

— The following

Dr. G. M. Clegg

*John Hancock President
1800*

COMMISSIONS OF LIEUT. ELIPHALET KING.

Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775, and thereafter was in the expedition of General Benedict Arnold against Quebec (Sept.-Dec., 1775), for an official report thereof mentions Eliphalet King as one of "those who lost their guns." In that campaign Capt. Oliver Hanchet and one of his Lieutenants were taken prisoners by the British, his other Lieutenant was killed, and more than one-half of the members of their company were killed, wounded or taken prisoners. Eliphalet King however escaped with only the loss of his gun.

On January 1, 1776, the American Congress, composed of "Delegates of the United Colonies of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, the counties of Newcastle, Kent and Sussex on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina" issued to "Eliphalet King, Gentleman," a commission as "Second Lieutenant of Captain (Ebenezer Huntington's Company (Third Company) in the Twenty-second Regiment of Foot, Commanded by Colonel Samuel Wylls, in the army of the United Colonies, raised for the defence of American Liberty, and for repelling every hostile invasion thereof." This commission was signed: "By Order of the Congress, John Hancock, President—Attest Chas Thomson, Secy. January the first 1776." (See protogravures of commissions on page facing this.)

Lieutenant King was with his regiment before Boston when the British evacuated that city March 17, 1776, and in April, 1776, he marched with his regiment, under General Washington, by the way of New London and the Sound, to New York City and assisted in fortifying that place. On the twenty-fourth day of August, 1776, he went with his command to the front at Brooklyn, and on the twenty-seventh of August, 1776, he was in the Battle of Long Island, where his regiment suffered severely. His conduct in this battle was such that shortly thereafter, in September, 1776, he was promoted and made First Lieutenant of his company. On September first, 1776, he was with his regiment in its retreat from New York City, and after many minor engagements and skirmishes was on October twenty-eighth, 1776, in the Battle of White Plains. He thereafter remained with his regiment in the vicinity of Peekskill under Gen'l Heath.

The record of the military services of Eliphalet King, both as Ensign in the Second Regiment, Connecticut Line, and as Lieutenant in the Twenty-second Regiment of Foot, Continental Army, will be found in a book published by the State of Connecticut, entitled "Record of Service of Connecticut Men in the War of the Revolution," "compiled by authority of the General Assembly under direction of the Adjutant General of Connecticut—Hartford, 1889," at pages 51, 92, 107 and 640.

In the same book the record of Eliphalet King's first regiment, the "Second Connecticut Line," is given at page 45 thereof as follows:

"Second Regiment—Gen. Spencer's—1775."

"[Regiment raised on first call for troops by the Legislature April-May 1775. Recruited mainly in present Middlesex Co. and Eastern part of the Colony. Marching to the camps around Boston, it took post at Roxbury and served during the siege until expiration of term of service, Dec. 1775. Detachments of officers and men engaged at the Battle of Bunker Hill June 17 and in Arnold's Quebec Expedition Sept.-Dec. 1775. Adopted as Continental in July. The regiment was reorganized for service in 1776 under Col. Wyllys]"

In addition to the foregoing, the names of the officers and men are given, and under "10th Company" at page 51 of the book appears the following:

"Captain, Oliver Hanchett, of Suffield

Lieutenant, Samuel Wright, of Suffield

Lieutenant, Consider Williston —

Ensign, Eliphalet King, of Suffield"

The record of the "22d Reg't of Foot, Continental Army," into which the 2d Connecticut was merged and in which Eliphalet King became at first a Second Lieutenant and was after the Battle of Long Island promoted to the First Lieutenancy, is also given very fully in the book, but the record of Eliphalet King in that regiment as we give it here is, we think, a sufficient statement as to the general movements of that regiment and the engagements in which it participated.

As an officer of the Twenty-second Regiment of Foot, Continental Army, the record of Eliphalet King can also be found in "Historical Register of Officers of Continental Army During War of the Revolution," by F. B. Heitman, published at Washington, D. C., 1893. The original commission of Eliphalet King as Ensign of the Second Connecticut Line, and also the original commission issued to him as Second Lieutenant in the Twenty-second Regiment of Foot, Continental Army, are now in the possession of Mr. Rufus James⁶ King (Augustine,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹) of Dayton, Ohio, and both are carefully preserved in airtight glass-covered frames, together with a silhouette of Lieutenant Eliphalet King with his old-fashioned queue hanging down on his back.

Though an officer, yet Lieut. Eliphalet King bore a gun as well as his sword. The gun he carried was captured from the British by him and, evidently for that reason, much prized. Perhaps he regarded it as a fair compensation for the gun he had lost to the British in the Arnold Expedition against Quebec. (See "Record Conn. Men War of Rev." p. 92.) The gun, carefully preserved by Mr. Rufus J. King of Dayton, Ohio, is an old English flint-lock musket, brass-mounted, and upon the lock-plate is stamped, "Vernon 1762." The musket has a silver plate on its stock with the following inscription:

"THIS MUSKET

Captured at the opening of the American Revolution from the British tyrant George the Third was borne and used in several battles by

ELIPHALET KING

of Suffield, Conn., Ensign in the 2nd Regiment Conn. Colony Line and afterward Lieutenant in the 22nd Regiment of Foot and by him presented to his son, Augustine King, who presented it to his son, Capt. Edward A. King, of the 15th Reg't of Infantry U. S. Army, December 1847."

Captain Edward A. King therein mentioned was a veteran officer of the Mexican War and afterward Colonel of the 6th Regt. of Infantry, U. S. Army, and also Colonel of the 68th Indiana Volunteers. He was in command of the Second Brigade, Reynolds Division, 14th Army Corps, when he was killed at the Battle of Chicamauga, Sept. 20, 1863. He was the brother of Mr. Rufus J. King, the present possessor of the gun.

Lieutenant Eliphalet King had four brothers, Joseph, Thaddeus, Theodore and Ichabod, who served the American cause as soldiers in the War of the Revolution. His youngest brother, Ichabod, thirteen years his junior, served as a private soldier in the 10th company of the 2nd Conn. Regt., of which Eliphalet was Ensign, and again as a private in the 3d company of the 22nd Regt. of Foot, Continental Army, of which Eliphalet was Lieutenant.

Mary Remington, the first wife of Eliphalet King, was the daughter of Jonathan⁴ (Jonathan,³ Thomas,² John¹) and Thankful (Warner) Remington. She was born at Suffield July 12, 1743. Her great-great-grandfather, John Remington, and his wife, Elizabeth, came from Yorkshire, England, to Newbury, Mass., in 1637 and in 1643 removed to Rowley, where he was commissioned Lieutenant of a military company at that place. Subsequently Lieut. John Remington moved to Roxbury and in 1658 reconstructed the meeting house there. Thomas Remington, the great-grandfather of Mrs. Eliphalet King, was one of the original proprietors of Suffield, where as early as 1674 he had a grant of 60 acres of land on what is now called Feather street. Mary (Remington) King, wife of Lieutenant Eliphalet King, died at Suffield June 24, 1788, and was buried there. The tombstone over her grave bears the following quaint epitaph:

“In memory of
Mrs. Mary, Wife of Lt. Eliphalet King who died June 24, 1788
in the 45th year of her age.
Life is Uncertain
Death is sure
Sin is the Wound
And Christ the Cure”

Lieut. Eliphalet King was thus left a widower with a large family of very young children, and he married again October 2, 1788, Silence Rumrill, who died Oct. 16, 1839, aged 71 years.

For some time before his death Lieut. King resided at West Springfield, Mass. In the book above cited, "Record of Service of Conn. Men in War of Rev." (p. 640), in the "list of those drawing pensions under the Congressional Act of 1818 and residing in Massachusetts" appears "Eliphalet King (rank) Lieutenant." He died at West Springfield, Mass., August 29, 1821, after a long and painful illness in which he suffered greatly. The following is a copy of a letter written by his son, Elijah King, to Ichabod King, brother of Eliphalet, living then at Marlboro, Vermont:

"West Springfield August 31, 1821

Dear Uncle: I have the melancholy task of informing you of the death of my Father, Eliphalet King. He died on Tuesday morning the 29th of August of the greatest bodily sufferings that a man could endure. He had been confined to his bed for about four months and had not walked a step since last Sept. Uncle Theodore is very low—is quite deranged in his mind. Aunt Hannah is almost helpless. The rest of your friends here are in tolerable health.

My respects to you and yours.

Elijah King" ;

Lieutenant Eliphalet King had nine children by his first wife and seven by his second wife, thus blessing the world with sixteen children, most of whom lived to ripe old age and left numerous descendants. They were all born in Suffield.

Conn., 1889). His last illness was of long duration, as Elijah King, son of Lieut. Eliphalet King, on Aug. 31, 1821, wrote from West Springfield to his uncle, Ichabod King, in Marlboro, Vt., that "Uncle Theodore is very low and quite deranged in his head"; and John Bowker⁵ King (Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹) in a letter from Suffield dated Oct 3, 1822, to his uncle, Ichabod King, says: "Uncle Theodore died three weeks ago last Sunday, his wife died last week Thursday night. They both died with dysentery. Uncle's oldest son's wife and his daughter Huldah and two of Huldah's children all died in about three weeks before he died." Children born in Suffield.

ICHABOD⁴ KING (Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., May 14, 1756; died in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 18, 1834; married in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 27, 1778, Lovisa Adams, daughter of Freegrace and Anna (Kent) Adams, born in Suffield Dec. 20, 1759; died in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 31, 1834. Her father was the son of Lieut. Abraham and Joanna (Norton) Adams. Her mother was the daughter of Samuel and Abiah (Dwight) Kent, all of Suffield.

Ichabod King was born two months after the death of his father, Capt. Joseph King. The widow, in her bereavement and desolation, christened this child Ichabod, "the Glory has departed" (1 Samuel ch. iv ver. 21) in memory of her husband. Ichabod was a Revolutionary Soldier. Although then barely nineteen years of age he enlisted as a private in a company of the Second Connecticut Regiment, of which his brother, Eliphalet King, was Ensign, and when that regiment was mustered out in Dec., 1775, he again enlisted in a company of the Twenty-Second Regiment of Foot, Continental Army, of which his brother, Eliphalet King, had been commissioned Lieutenant. He fought side by side with his brother Eliphalet at Bunker Hill, in the disastrous expedition against Quebec, at the battle of Long Island, at White Plains and in many other minor engagements.

The following is a copy of a paper which is still in the possession of his descendants:

"West Springfield April 25, 1818.

"This may certify that Ichabod King of Marlborough, State of Vermont, served seven months in the Revolution war in the year 1775 in a Regiment raised by the State of Connecticut.

"Also one year and one month beginning the first of December one thousand seven hundred and seventy five until the first day of January one thousand seven hundred seventy seven in the Twenty Second Regiment of the Continental Army Commanded by Colonel Samuel Wyllys in the third Company in said Regiment Commanded by Capt. Ebenezer Huntington in which I serv'd as Lieut.

ELIPHALET KING."

At one time the British captured a bridge from the patriot forces with which Ichabod was serving. Ichabod was sick at the time and would have been taken prisoner but for assistance that came barely in time to help him across the bridge. His military record will be found in "Record of Service of Connecticut Men in the War of the Revolution," compiled by authority of the Adjutant-General of Connecticut. Hartford, 1889. (pp. 45, 51, 92, 107 and 639.)

A manuscript history of Marlboro (first spelled Marlborough), Vermont, written by Rev. Ephraim Newton, about 1865, now kept in the Vermont Historical Society Library, Montpelier, states that "Ichabod King came from his native place, Suffield, Conn., to Marlboro in 1776, a young man about twenty, and purchased his farm of Samuel Newton of Marlboro in the county of Cumberland on the New Hampshire Grants, late under the jurisdiction of New York, April 1st, 1877, on which he settled, lived and died and which descended to his son Joseph. He served his country about two years in the American Revolution, and in his last days was placed upon the roll of pensioners."

There were 160 acres in the Marlboro farm, and it is intersected by a public road running north and south. In 1880, Ichabod's son Joseph sold the part lying west of the highway, but the part to the east is still in the possession of a descendant. It was on the east side of the road, back on a rise of land an eighth of a mile from the highway, near a spring, that the first house stood,—the one in which all Ichabod and Lovisa's children were born. When the youngest child was but a baby in arms the family moved into the new house which had been built just on the west side of the road. This new house, now a trifle over a century old, is still standing. In design it is a typical New England country house of its time. A story and a half in height; two large front rooms separated by a square front entry and the huge chimney; back of the front rooms the long kitchen (this one with its western windows giving a wide view down a long slope and out beyond over miles of Marlboro hills), a pantry, a bed-room, and a stairway to the second story; all under the main roof. At one time the house sheltered the owner, a dignified man approaching his end; his wife, paralyzed toward the last; a daughter and a son in frail health for over forty years; a widowed daughter and two of her children; the son Joseph and his wife and children. It could not have been in the years of much sickness that Lovisa (Adams) King purchased her red broadcloth cloak, lined with pink silk, many pieces of which are now in the possession of her descendants. It may have been first owned when her husband represented the town of Marlboro in the Vermont legislature. Though the exceptionally long years of family illness must have told on the resources of a Vermont hill town farm, nevertheless the acres and the work, the men and the women, did their part, and Ichabod King's gravestone—in the graveyard a mile to the south of the farm—advises us for him that,

“Had I a voice so loud and strong,
To sound from east to west,
I'd tell the honor seeking throng,
To be with Christ is best.”

The family was one of far more than ordinary refinement, character, and mental ability. Nor was it ill to look upon physically. It was religious, yet at least the children were not at all narrowly so. Ichabod King was a dignified, thoughtful, and somewhat reserved man; a town selectman, and the representative of the town of Marlboro in the Vermont legislature of 1798 and again in 1800. His marriage to Lovisa Adams “was the first marriage solemnized by the late Rev. Gersham C. Lyman, D. D., and is the first public record of a marriage in town." (Marlboro Hist.) They lived together before death parted them within nine days of fifty-six years and only thirteen days intervened between the days of their death. All his married life was spent on his farm and all his children were born at Marlboro.

DR. ALEXANDER⁵ KING (Joseph,⁴ James,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Oct. 26, 1737; died in Suffield Oct. 12, 1802; married in Suffield Jany. 31, 1765, Experience Hitchcock, who died Feb. 11, 1809. He was a physician and lived, married and died at Suffield. He was a Selectman for thirty years, and Deputy in the General Assembly from June, 1768, for many years. He was also, in January, 1788, a delegate to the Hartford Convention called to ratify the Constitution of the United States. From December, 1774, until his death he was the Town Clerk, and in 1799 was ordered by the town "to collect and transcribe all the records of marriages, births and deaths into one book." He completed the transcription with an index in an admirable manner. This book is now styled "Suffield Records—Births Marriages and Deaths—Vol. 1." He also, in 1796, prepared some Genealogical notes of the King Family of Suffield, to which we are indebted for a reference to the location of the family at Ugborough, Devonshire, England, before the immigration of our ancestor to America, enabling us to trace our English ancestry in the Ugborough Parish registers.

He is said to have moved to Whitestone, N. Y. There are no births of children to them recorded in Enfield. He left Enfield in 1795, for the record of the town meeting held April 13, 1795, states "Surveyor of Highways, Zaccheus Prior in place of Obadiah King removed." For several years he was paid by the town for ringing the church bell. On Feb. 7, 1795, Obadiah King deeded to Levi Meachem both of Enfield, Conn., 1¾ acres 14 rods land in Enfield, lying East of North Meeting-house on road from Meeting-house to Somers South, Nehemia Chandler West, Ephraim Terry North, Augustus Diggins East. MICAH⁵ KING (Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² William¹), born in Enfield May 18, 1754; died ——; married Sarah ——. Micah King was living in Enfield in 1777 when he was surety on the bond of his brother Obadiah, Administrator, in settling their father's estate. He was a resident of East Longmeadow for several years. He appears on poll-tax lists in that town from 1789 to 1795. The tax lists for 1796 are missing but he was living there at that time for he was that year paid by the town for work as a joiner on Longmeadow school buildings. Nov. 1, 1798, he bought land in Norwich (now Huntington), Mass. He was then said to be "of Norwich" so he had probably lived there some months at least. This land and buildings he sold Nov. 29, 1814, when he was still "of Norwich, Mass." This deed is signed by Micah King and "Sarah King his wife" and witnessed by Phineas King. This is the last mention of him in the records of Norwich, now Huntington, Mass. The most persistent search has failed to reveal the date of his marriage and of his children's births, though their names are given. Nothing is known of his last days nor is anything known of his wife except what is given above.

JOSHUA KENDALL⁵ KING (Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Oct. 16, 1770; died in Manchester, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1834; married in West Springfield, Mass., Feb. 28, 1793, Lucy Loomis, daughter of Uriah Loomis of Feeding Hills, Mass., born Nov. 25, 1763; died in Manchester, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1854. This in brief is the record of a worthy couple who with five children moved to Manchester, N. Y., in 1802, at which place there was afterwards born to them two more children. Mr. King settled about two miles west of Clifton Springs, N. Y., on the old State road. After a time many of their old neighbors came from Suffield, Conn., and settled there also, among whom were the Deweys, Redfields, Grangers (Hezekiah Granger was the step-father of Stephen A. Douglas), and Bements. Joshua Kendall King was a very enterprising man and took great interest in all public improvements; building bridges, improving roads and erecting churches and schools. In course of time it became necessary for the convenience of travelers on the stage coaches and emigrant wagons to have stopping places with more and better conveniences. Mr. King, to accommodate these, threw open his house with the modest sign "King's Inn," which old sign still remains as a relic of pioneer days, the old homestead and farm being still in possession of his descendants. He did not accumulate a great amount of worldly goods but left an unsullied name and a record for business enterprise, probity and useful citizenship of which his descendants may justly feel proud.

The People of the State of New-York, by the Grace of God, Free and Independent:

To Roger King — — — — — Greeting:

We, respecting especial trust and confidence, as well to your Patriotism, Conduct and Loyalty, as in your Valour, and readiness to do no bad and faithful Service, have appointed and constituted, and by these Presents, Do appoint and constitute you the said Roger King Lieutenant — of a Company of Light Infantry — in the Regiment of Militia in the County of Dutchess, whereas Alanson Thoburn Esquire is Lieutenant Colonel Commandant. You are therefore to take the said Company into your charge and care, as Lieutenant — thereof, and duty to exercise the Officers and Soldiers of that Company in arms, who are hereby commanded to obey you as their Lieutenant —, and you are also to observe and follow such Orders and Directions as you shall from time to time receive from our General and Commander in Chief of the Militia of our said State, or any other your superior Officer, according to the Rules and Discipline of War, in pursuance of the Trust reposed in you; and for so doing, this shall be your Commission, for and during our good pleasure, to be signified by our Council of Appointment.

In Testimony Whereof, WE have caused our Seal for Military Commissions to be hereunto affixed: Witness our trusty and well beloved DANIEL D. TOMPKINS, Esquire, Governor of our said State, General and Commander in Chief of all the Militia, and Admiral of the Navy of the same, by and with the Advice and Consent of our said Council of Appointment, at our City of Albany, the ~~15th~~ ^{16th} Day of April, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and eleven, and in the Thirty fifth Year of our Independence.

Passed the Secretary's Office, the ~~15th~~ Day of May 1811.

ROGER⁵ KING (Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born at Suffield, Conn., Jany. 16, 1771; died in Jonesville, Saratoga Co., N. Y., Aug. 15, 1855; married (1) in Suffield Feb. 4, 1795, Anna Granger, born May 8, 1771, died Feb. 12, 1812, who was a niece of Gideon Granger, Postmaster-General in President Jefferson's Cabinet; (2) in Troy, N. Y., July 23, 1812, Christina Auringer, born in Troy June 8, 1785, died Feb. 9, 1872, a lineal descendant of Roeloff and Annetje Jans, who came to Rensselaerwyck from Holland in 1630 and settled first at Beaverwyck, now Albany, N. Y., but subsequently at New Amsterdam. Roeloff and Annetje Jans have a permanent place in the colonial history of New York State by reason of their early connection with its first settlement as a colony under the auspices of the Dutch Government. Numerous references to them are found in the histories of New Netherland, and of the Cities of New York and Albany. Their names also appear frequently in the early colonial documents preserved in the Archives of the State of New York and which have been compiled and published by authority of the Legislature of that State: "Documentary History of the State of New York" (4 vols.), "Documents Relative to the Colonial History of the State of New York" (11 vols.). The name of Annetje Jans is especially familiar to the New York public by reason of its connection with the celebrated legal contests between some of her descendants and the corporation of Trinity Church in the City of New York for the possession of real estate which was her's at the time of her decease in 1663. A few years after her decease some, but not all, of her heirs joined in a conveyance of the land in question to Col. Lovelace, who was then Governor of the Province. Subsequently it was confiscated by Queen Anne who, in 1703, presented it to the church.

Roger King removed from Suffield to Troy, N. Y., in 1794. It was then a small village known as Vanderheyden, which was the name of the Patroon on whose lands it was located. Mr. Roger King was one of a considerable number of New England men, mostly from Connecticut, who came there about that time and by their energetic efforts and enterprise in the next few years built up a city of considerable importance.

In May, 1812, he was commissioned by Daniel D. Tompkins, Governor of the State of New York, as "Lieutenant in command of a company of Light Infantry in the Regiment of Militia in the County of Rensselaer, whereof Adam Yates, Esquire, is Lieutenant Colonel Commandant."

The Regiment was called into active service in the War of 1812, and ordered to proceed to Plattsburgh on Lake Champlain; but, hostilities in that region having ceased, it was not present in any engagements. Lieutenant Roger King, however, promptly responded to his country's call with his company.

In 1820 almost the entire business portion of Troy was destroyed by fire and its recuperation seemed doubtful. Mr. King, therefore, purchased a farm at Jonesville, Saratoga County, N. Y., and with his family removed to it.

His doing so produced one important result. There was at that time nowhere in the vicinity any school of a higher grade than the district school, which was very elementary in its character. The younger ones of his children, five in number, having acquired all of the education which it could supply, their further education could be accomplished only by sending all of them from home to some distant institution, unless some plan could be devised for obviating that necessity. Such a plan (with the efficient aid of his wife), he devised and successfully carried out.

Competent teachers were employed, and a school was opened in the family homestead for the children of the family and such other day scholars as might desire to attend. The school was a success from the outset, the attendance being unexpectedly large. This result was so gratifying that, after a year's experience, he decided to enlarge upon his original plan and establish on the premises a Select School for a limited number of boarders in addition to day scholars, the family homestead, with some small additions, being sufficiently capacious to accommodate a good number. He then erected a separate building for class rooms and, without advertising, printed and sent to families of his acquaintance, chiefly in Troy, circulars announcing the opening of such a school.

Applications for admission were promptly received in numbers sufficient to fully occupy all the available apartments, and soon there were forty residents in the old homestead. The success and value of the school was so evident that he determined to establish a permanent institution on a larger scale. Accordingly he purchased a tract of thirteen acres of land in a central location and proceeded to erect upon it a building of ample dimensions, adapted to the purposes for which it was designed.

When completed the school was transferred to its new and improved location and a Principal and adequate Faculty secured. Subsequently two large additional dormitories were erected on the grounds and the school was incorporated as the Jonesville Academy.

It met with remarkable success and in a brief space of time became a prominent educational institution. It soon numbered over a hundred and fifty students, including quite a number from other States.

Among its graduates were many who afterwards attained prominence in the professions of law and medicine, as well as in other pursuits, while one became a United States Senator.

As an important factor in the early history of Troy, N. Y., as an officer in the Army ready to serve in the defense of his country, and as the founder of an important educational institution, Mr. Roger King was a bright example of energy, patriotism and public spirit.

SETH⁵ KING, (Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Sept. 27, 1777; died in New Ipswich, N. H., July 12, 1851; married in New Ipswich, N. H., Oct. 15, 1808, Anna⁶ Preston, born in New Ipswich Aug. 10, 1784; died in New Ipswich Sept. 6, 1863, daughter of Dr. John⁵ Preston, (Samuel,⁴ Samuel,³ Samuel,² Roger,¹ who came from England in the ship Elizabeth in April, 1635, and settled at Ipswich, Mass.). Dr. John Preston married at New Ipswich Nov. 29, 1764, Rebecca⁵ daughter of Deacon Samuel⁴ Farrar, (George³ Jacob,² Jacob,¹ of Lancaster, Mass., 1653-1675) and Lydia (Barret) Farrar, born Aug. 13, 1743, died April 1, 1829, of Concord, Mass. Mrs. Rebecca (Farrar) Preston was the sister of Rev. Stephen Farrar, the minister of New Ipswich from Oct. 21, 1760, until his decease, June 23, 1809, and of Hon. Timothy Farrar who was at one time a partner of Daniel Webster; afterward for forty years a judge of the courts of New Hampshire, appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of that State and died at the age of over one hundred and one years, having been for some time before his death the oldest living graduate of Harvard College. Dr. John Preston built in 1764 the house in which Mrs. Seth King was born and which passed into the hands of Major Seth King and was occupied by him until his death in 1851 and then descended to his children. The house is still standing and is one of the finest residences in New Ipswich. Mrs. Seth King died Sept. 6, 1863, at the age of seventy-nine years. She was born, married and died in the same house, having also lived therein during her entire lifetime. (See cut of house facing this page.)

HOMESTEAD OF MAJ. SETH KING, NEW IPSWICH, N. H.

In 1800 Seth⁵ King removed from Suffield and settled at New Ipswich, Hillsborough Co., New Hampshire, a town founded in 1738. He became one of the distinguished men of the State of New Hampshire. He was a Major of the Militia, often represented New Ipswich in the State Legislature (1834-5-7) and frequently appears as Moderator of the town meetings. He was the first in this country to manufacture friction matches and also the first manufacturer of broad-cloth in the United States. Later he had a hat factory. All his children were born at New Ipswich, N. H.

ARTEMAS⁵ KING, (Theodore,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Jany. 12, 1799; died in Suffield March 14, 1881; married in Suffield Jany. 12, 1825, Sophia Granger, daughter of Roderick Granger, born Aug. 13, 1802; died Jany. 6, 1864. Their children were born in Suffield. Artemas King was an active and prominent man in the town of Suffield. He was highly respected and a man of superior intelligence and judgment, always holding some important town office until he had passed the age of seventy years. He was consulted in all important affairs of the town and frequently people from adjoining towns sought his advice. In his early days he was captain of the militia or "Old Guard" and for many years Justice of the Peace. In 1868, when he was sixty-nine years of age, he notified the town that owing to the approaching age limit of seventy years they must not elect him to that office again as he would not serve longer in that capacity. They then elected him Representative and he served two terms in the legislature at New Haven and Hartford, Conn. Artemas King and his brother Theodore inherited a large tract of land from their father who was the largest landowner in Suffield. They afterwards purchased the Harmon farm of many acres adjoining their tract. Theodore died in 1857 leaving his share to Horace A. King, the eldest son of Artemas. After the death of Horace A. King, in 1869, Artemas King purchased the estate from the heirs and became sole owner, and on his death left the property to his children. About two years after the death of Artemas King the old homestead burned, destroying many valuable records and relics among which was the gun used by his father in the Revolutionary War.

LOVISA⁵ KING, (Ichabod,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William,¹); born in Marlboro, Vt., March 23, 1782; died in Marlboro July 11, 1847; unmarried. She was visited by a sickness in 1805 from which she did not recover but continued confined to her room for more than forty years until removed by death. Upon her gravestone appears the following:

"Adieu dear sister, "fare thee well
Thy trials now are o'er
And thou art gone, we hope, to dwell
Where pain and sickness come no more."

After her forty years of suffering on earth we think the poet could safely have substituted in the third line of the epitaph some more positive expression for "we hope."

JUSTIN⁵ KING, (Ichabod,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Marlboro, Vt., March 7, 1784; died in Cincinnati, O., March 20, 1852; married (1) in Boston, Mass., Sept. 2, 1810, Ann (Cook) Morse, who died in Cincinnati, O., Nov. 5, 1819; (2) in Cincinnati, O., — 1820, Ann — who died in Cincinnati, O., Aug. 9, 1833; (3) in Cincinnati, O., Aug. 2, 1835, Elizabeth Hunt. It is probable that the first wife of Justin King was the widow of Eleazer Morse at the time of her marriage to Justin King. It is known from Justin King's letters and the knowledge of descendants that she was Ann, the sister of Alice (Cook) Berry, for years of Wheeling, W. Va., who was probably daughter of Richard and Mary (Moshier) Cook —Richard a ropemaker in Boston, but the family home perhaps in Roxbury. It is further known that Charles Cook King, son of Justin King by his first wife, named two of his sons for John Morse and George Eleazer Morse who were probably his half-brothers. In "Records rel. to early hist. of Boston," containing Boston marriages from 1752 to 1809 is the following: "Eleazar Morse & Anna Cook (married by), Rev. Thomas Baldwin Nov. 26, 1801. (Intention of marriage reads Ann Cook.) Deaths in Boston from 1800 to 1810 taken from "Columbian Sentinel" gives the death of Eleazer Morse, age 31, on March 9, 1810. Boston record gives marriage of Justin King to Ann Morse Sept. 2, 1810. On Feb. 3, 1811, Justin King wrote from Boston to his parents of the visit to them which he and his wife had just made, evidently a first visit on the part of the wife. Justin King went to Boston to live about 1805 but removed to Cincinnati, O., in 1815, where he lived until his death. The family drove from Boston to Cincinnati in forty-one days with one horse which served them excellently. They left Boston Sept. 4, 1815; stopped at Suffield, Conn., where they found "Aunt King very sick"; went through Wheeling, Janesville and Chillicothe and reached Cincinnati Oct. 14, 1815. Elizabeth Hunt, the third wife of Justin King, was a widow and, he writes, "half-niece of my first wife."

Joseph,³ James,² William¹*), born in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 29, 1798; died in West Northfield, Mass., Feb. 16, 1889; married in Marlboro, Vt., Jany. 20, 1828, Rufus Caldwell, son of John and Elizabeth (Swan) Caldwell, born in West Northfield, Mass., Oct. 15, 1797; died in West Northfield, Jany. 17, 1849. Mr. Rufus Caldwell was a farmer.

When Lucinda King Caldwell married, in the old Marlboro church, she went to a fertile farm stretching back from the Connecticut River, in the beautiful town of Northfield, Mass. Her husband had been born on that farm, and all their happy married life of almost twenty-one years, and her widowed life of forty years were spent there.

Some one said that no one who inherited from Lucinda King Caldwell could be worthless. She loved poetry, the stars, Nature, people. She came into personal relations with them. Her nature was exceedingly sympathetic, so that her children said she could never have lived happily in a city, with its constant sights of want. She was a member of the Congregational Church, the church of most of her people. But the Universalist faith of her husband, the Roman Catholic faith of a friend, and the unchurched of her acquaintance were never outside her understanding. She recognized a right spirit; or if that, or a right life, were lacking, she loved the great humanity in all her Father's creatures. As the close of her ninety years came, she looked forward eagerly to the opening world, though this one had been exquisitely beautiful to her. The last night she gave clinging kisses to her daughter, craved them in return; and then fared onward gladly.

The following letter was written to her by her future husband the month before their marriage. It is given exactly. In a few cases, as will be seen, the paper has been slightly injured:

Northfield Dec. 6th 1827

Dear Madam

If my vigilence and ten thousand wishes for your welfare and repose could have any force, you are enjoying all the comforts

the anticipation of the conjugal state affords. To have my thoughts ever fixed on you, to live in perpetual fear of every accident to which human life is liable, and to send up my ejaculations to avert them from you, is what I do for her who is worthy of more than I can bestow. With a heart full of gratitude I devote my secret prayr to God, for prospering me thus far in obtaining my greatest Earthly object; Who in the time of trouble and adversity, which is incident to human life; will afford soothing consolation. The sentiment expressed in yours of the 20th (paper marred) last, evinces a noble & elevated mind, a heart devoted (paper marred) which is a shure way to enjoy life agreeable to our own conscience, that monitor within that tells the good from the bad; & the only way to insure a goodly inheritance in the life to come.

May divine protection keep you stedfast in the faith of Christianity, and gide your steps in the strictest path of virtue

Lucinda King

Rufus Caldwell

I shall be at your house on Sunday morning 16th Inst. if the sleighing will admit, if not sleighing then, the first Sunday morning of good sleighing following.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 13, 1836.

Rufus King Caldwell (called by his second name), like his father before him, always lived on the West Northfield farm which his grandfather had bought in 1795. This he kept and left "one of the most productive and well-tilled farms of the town." "He was a most active and useful citizen of the town, having served it in many capacities. He was for many years deputy sheriff, having wide acquaintance throughout the county. He served the town several years as selectman, member of the school committee, and tax collector, performing these duties in a prompt, efficient manner. He was well versed in law and his opinion was frequently sought by his townsmen upon matters pertaining to business, he having settled many estates." A later selectman said of him, that in going over some of Mr. Caldwell's accounts, he was "surprised not only at the accuracy of them, but the conscientious, faithful way in which he had used the money for the public good." And that in town meetings, "Mr. Caldwell had never hesitated to stanchly advocate a measure he thought for the best good of the town, even though he knew it would not win popular favor for him." At his death the thought was reiterated that, "Men of this stamp are what have given strength to the New England towns in the past, and it is to the coming men of this character to whom we must look for the preservation of our New England institutions." Both of his children were born at West Northfield, Mass.

West Northfield, Mass., Aug. 28, 1832, son of Nathan and Mary (Gunn) Priest. They lived in Northfield, Mass., and South Vernon, Vt., until 1881, when they moved to Shenandoah, Iowa, where they owned considerable land since 1869. In the East he was interested in various lines of business:—in farming, manufacturing, buying hops in Northern New England and selling in New York City, a store and a hotel. In the West he has farming land and town lots.

Susan Mandana Caldwell Priest had the most beautiful personality that some near her have ever known. She had the truest, tenderest soul, matched with a strong mind. Her interests and keen sympathies were world-wide. Spiritual, intellectual, steadfast to duty, warmly interested in life, simple and natural. "But to pass her on the street was to be incited to greater goodness." A teacher before her marriage, in after life she never passed a school building without wishing to enter. She was a trustee of the Shenandoah Congregational Church, the beloved president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and a life-long advocate of woman suffrage, a belief in which others of her family and relatives warmly joined.

Prior to his death they lived in New York City and Philadelphia in which latter place he was a photographer. He was the inventor of a cipher code adopted by the Danish government. For the last twenty years of her life her home was in New Haven, Conn. Julia Ann Caldwell Willard was a woman of rare sanity of mind, and met the severe trials which came early in life with unsurpassed courage. She possessed a tenderness, a keen sense of humor, and an unconquerable youthfulness of spirit which was inspiring. While her time was too fully occupied with her duties as a mother and a teacher (which latter position she filled for more than thirty years) to allow of active work in the various reforms of her day, her sympathies were keenly with them. She was a graduate of the Charlottesville, New York, Seminary, and taught for a few of the troubled months before the war in a Mississippi family. Two months before the birth of their son, her husband, but twenty-eight years of age and unusually attractive, was killed by falling into an insufficiently protected excavation in Philadelphia while on his way from exhibiting the secret cipher, which he had invented, to a foreign minister of state. Afterward she taught school, chiefly in New Haven, Conn. It was a profession that she loved; as she loved traveling. She went abroad three times, in fulfillment of her childhood dreams.

JOEL⁶ KING, (Joel⁵ Benjamin⁴ Benjamin³ James² William¹), born in Enfield May 16, 1779.

On March 11, 1806, he was still in Enfield for the selectmen paid him a bill of $4.30 on that date. It seems he moved to Belchertown, Mass. It is said he married and had a son named Judson King and other children, but his brother Eli King had a son named Judson King and other children, so perhaps this rumor referred to Eli.

Some time after his marriage Eli King settled in New York State in the place now known as North Sanford but then an unbroken forest his nearest neighbors being distant one and a half miles on one side and three miles on the other. He had previously located as blacksmith in the little village of Deposit ten miles further south but a flood drove them to the hill country. On this farm his large family grew to manhood and womanhood. His son Addison King and wife Sylva Jane (Andrews) succeeded him, raising their three sons and four daughters on the same farm and today (1907) Andrew Henry King, one of the sons of Addison King, occupies the old home with his wife and two little sons. The place is called "Kings Hill."

CAPT. JOHN⁶ KING (Joel,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² William¹), born in Enfield, Conn., Dec. 23, 1789; died in Enfield Aug. 19, 1852; married (1) in Enfield Nov. 10, 1811, Alice Button, daughter of Jonathan and Alice (Parsons) Button, born March 20, 1794, died March 3, 1843; (2) March 20, 1844, Roxalany (Thompson) Chapin, widow, born Jany. 3, 1807; died March 12, 1878. Capt. King lived in the small village of Scitico, in the town of Enfield, where he carried on a prosperous plow manufacturing business for many years with trade largely in the Southern States. He also had a forge business and owned the tavern in the village. Scitico had no postoffice until the needs of his business required the establishment of one there in 1841 and Capt. King was appointed the postmaster. It is an interesting fact that the office of postmaster in this village has ever since then been held by some member of the family continuously until in 1906 the chain of succession was broken by death. His widow, Mrs. Roxalany King, married James L. Prosser, a wealthy and benevolent citizen of West Hartford, Conn. The children of Capt. King were born in the town of Enfield.

JEREMIAH⁶ KING (Joel,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² William¹), born in Enfield, Conn., Feb. 23, 1794; died in Kingsville, O., June 10, 1884; married (1) in Ellington, Conn., Nov. 28, 1816, Clarissa Eaton, who died in Ellington May 31, 1821; (2) in Ellington Nov. 15, 1821, Esther Ward, born July 15, 1795, who died in Kingsville, O., Aug. 10, 1878. He had one child by the first and nine children by the second marriage all of whom were born in Ellington, Conn., except the three youngest who were born at Kingsville, Ohio. Mr. King went to Ohio in 1832 and settled where Kingsville now stands. He was a blacksmith by trade, but before leaving Connecticut he was extensively engaged in the manufacture of plows which he sold in Norfolk, Va. After going to Ohio he became a farmer and struggled hard to accumulate a competence in the first years of his life there, but when the Lake Shore Railroad came to that part of the country he sold one half of his land and invested the proceeds in that railroad enterprise. It was a most fortunate speculation and money came to him easily thereafter so that before his death he was in excellent financial circumstances. He was ever an honest, conscientious and philanthropic man. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, but his wife Esther Ward King and her children belonged to the Baptist Church and he often accompanied them there.

MICAH⁶ KING, (Micah,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² *William*¹), born 1775; died in East Longmeadow, July 9, 1852; married in Longmeadow, Mass., Feby. 25, 1796 Ruth Spencer, born in Somers, Aug. 5, 1779, daughter of Israel (son of Jonathan, of Somers) and Ruth (Roberts) Spencer, daughter of Capt. Seth Roberts, of Middletown, Conn. Micah King first appears in Longmeadow where he is called Micah King Jr. in his marriage record Feby. 25, 1796. He lived in East Longmeadow until he had two children born, after which he moved to Somers (perhaps one mile) where he lived until he had eight more children born after which he returned across the line into Longmeadow and had there recorded one more child making eleven in all. He also lived a short time in Wilbraham, now

Hampden. The old homestead in East Longmeadow is still called King Hill and is still in possession of his descendants, named Bronson. Micah King, his wife Ruth, his son Luther, and his daughter Sarah Bronson lie buried side by side in Somer's North Cemetery and on his tombstone appears the date of his death July 9, 1852 and his age "77 years."

SETH⁶ KING, (Naham,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Enfield, March 7, 1798; died in Hartford, Conn., Jany. 3, 1882; married in Chicopee, Mass., Feb. 9, 1824 Marcia Bugbee, born Aug. 14, 1802; died Dec. 12, 1862.

At the time of his marriage he was bookkeeper for a factory in Chicopee, Mass., where his eldest son was born. He thereafter entered business for himself at Wentworth, N. H., but failed and moved to Thompsonville, a suburb of Enfield, Conn. About 1833 he moved to Hartford, Conn., and entered the employment of the Aetna Fire Insurance Company almost at the starting of that company and when he was the only bookkeeper. He remained actively with that company for over forty years and was practically with it until his death, though on account of his great age he was relieved of all work and retired on a pension during the last few years of his life. His son William Henry King is now secretary of the company and has been with it for about forty years.

JOSEPH⁶ KING, (Joshua Kendall,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Suffield, Conn., Sept. 27, 1795; died in Phelps, N. Y., March 21, 1880; married Feb. 27, 1820, Sarepta Harrington, born Nov. 10, 1795; died in Phelps, N. Y., July 9, 1890. At the age of seven years Joseph King came with his parents from Suffield, Conn., to Manchester, N. Y. Subsequently he located in Arcadia, N. Y., where with his wife he resided for seventeen years and there all their children, except the youngest, were born. In 1837 Mr. and Mrs. King removed to Phelps, N. Y. Their married life covered a period of sixty years and by a long life of industry and economy they acquired quite a competency and filled up their measure of usefulness in the community in which they lived. Their old homestead and farm still remain in the possession of their descendants.

LOUIS⁶ KING, (Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Troy, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1798; died in New York City Oct. 22, 1842; married April 3, 1829, Mary Anthe Totten who died in Feb., 1864. In 1818 Mr. Louis King went to New York City as a clerk in the employ of William Van Antwerp, a wholesale importer of hardware. Later he became a partner in the business under the firm name of Wm. Van Antwerp & Co. at 73 Pearl St., and so continued until his death. The firm was prominent and prosperous. Immediately after his decease and again in several instances some years after, his name was mentioned in complimentary terms in the New York newspapers as a fine example of the merchants of that city. Children born in New York City.

CORNELIA ANN⁶ KING, (Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Troy, N. Y. April 20, 1803; died in Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1820, while visiting at the house of her uncle, Judge Erastus Granger. When quite young she developed a taste and aptitude for art. A short time before her decease, in 1820, she painted in water colors a sketch of the Tibbit's mansion and grounds, located in what was then one of the outskirts of Troy, N. Y., but is now near its center. The mansion which was of imposing dimensions remains unchanged and it and the grounds are owned and occupied by the Day Home, one of the most valuable charities in Troy. Miss King's picture of the old mansion and grounds was considered so excellent that an engraving thereof was made which is contained in Weiss' History of Troy.

ELIPHALET ROGER ⁶KING, (Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Jonesville, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1820; died in Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 13, 1901; married Sept. 3, 1857, Sarah Kinney. He graduated at Union College in 1842. He studied law in the office of Hon. David Buel, leader of the Bar of Rensselaer County, N. Y., and subsequently became his partner. He was an able lawyer and very successful, but after practicing for a few years he retired and became partner in an extensive manufacturing firm. He commanded the respect and enjoyed the esteem of all who knew him. He was a ripe scholar and the range of his learning was very extensive so that he was often referred to as a "Walking Encyclopedia."

CORNELIA ANN⁶ KING, (Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Jonesville, N. Y., October 22, 1822; died Feb. 2, 1907, at Albion, N. Y., which had been her home since 1849. Her education was received in a school which was founded by her parents, Roger and Christina King, and later at the Emma Willard Seminary, at Troy, N. Y.

On October 16, 1849, she married Elizur Hart, of Albion, N. Y., a prominent citizen, and banker of that place, and who was well known in financial circles elsewhere. She was his second wife. He died in 1870, and in his last will provided for the erection of a new church edifice for the First Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member and which was completed at a cost of about $90,000. He left surviving a son, E. Kirke Hart, who subsequently was a member of Congress, and two daughters.

Cornelia A. (King) Hart was for many years prominent and active in society and in church affairs, especially in the Mission work of the church. With strong convictions and hearty earnestness she fulfilled all the duties which she accepted.

Naturally beneficent and generous, she helped many needy persons in a quiet and unostentatious way. She was greatly esteemed and honored by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and enjoyed to the last the devoted affection of all who were related to, or connected with her. No issue.

HARVEY JAMES⁶ KING, (Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Jonesville, N. Y., July 16, 1824; married May 6, 1851, Ellen B. L. Bayeux, daughter of John H. and Sarah A. M. (Vanderheyden,⁶ Jacob D. Vanderheyden,⁵ Dirk Vanderheyden,⁴ Jacob Vanderheyden,³ Dirk Vanderheyden,² Jacob Tysse Vanderheyden,¹ born in Holland, 1620; died Albany, N. Y., 1691) Bayeux, born Oct. 11, 1826; died Aug. 12, 1900. Her grandfather Jacob D. Vanderheyden was known as the Patroon of Troy, N. Y., and was once owner of a large and most important part of the present site of that city. In 1787 the present city of Troy, N. Y., was settled on the Vanderheyden estate and the village was then called Vanderheyden, but later changed to Troy. Roger King, the father of Harvey James King came in 1794 to Troy, then a small but thriving village, and remained there until 1820, when he removed to Jonesville, N. Y., where on July 16, 1824, Harvey James King was born. Mr. Harvey James King was prepared for college at the Jonesville Academy. He was graduated at Union College in 1848 with the two highest honors, ranking among the first of a class ninety-eight in number, seventy-nine of whom won the degree of A. B. In 1851 he received the degree of A. M. Immediately upon leaving college he went to Troy to complete his law studies and thenceforth made that city his home. He was admitted to the Bar and commenced the practice of law in 1850, becoming the law partner of Mr. Raymond, a connection which at once introduced him into a large and responsible law practice. In 1853, Mr. Raymond retired from practice and Mr. King formed a partnership with John A. Millard, which continued until the death of that gentleman in 1869. In 1854 Mr. King was appointed city attorney which office he filled for the full term. In 1867, the United States Bankruptcy Law having been enacted he was nominated by Chief Justice Chase and appointed U. S. Register in Bankruptcy for the Congressional District embracing Rensselaer and Washington Counties, N. Y., and held that responsible position for the ensuing twelve years and until the repeal of the law. In 1871 he was elected as an Alumni Trustee of Union College and was re-elected at the close of his first term. He was for several years President of Union College Alumni Association, of Northern New York. He is and has been since 1865 a trustee and for several years past Vice-President and an active supporter of the Troy Orphan Asylum and has given much time and effort to promoting the interests of that institution, the oldest and one of the most valuable charities in Troy. He has also for many years been a Trustee of the Troy Academy.

Mr. Harvey J. King being originally a Whig in politics and a pronounced anti-slavery man, was from the outset ardently attached to the Seward wing of the party and early became an active and zealous participant in the political movements of the country, often representing his district in the State conventions. When the dissolution of the Whig party became imminent by reason of irreconcilable division on the subject of Slavery, he was chairman of the City Central Committee and was one of three prominent members of the party in Troy who published the call for a meeting of all who were in favor of "free speech, free soil and free men" for the purpose of re-organizing as Republicans. The meeting was held and the new organization promptly effected. From that time for twenty years he was one of the most active members of the Republican Central Committee of Rensselaer County and also for a time member of the State Central Committee and on its Executive Committee. Mr. King frequently declined solicitations to accept office but his activity in the political organization and his familiar acquaintance with many of the eminent men of his party gave him an extensive political influence.

At the breaking out of the Rebellion in 1861 he was among the foremost in the matter of procuring enlistment and filling the local regiments and until the close of the war did all in his power for the cause of freedom and the preservation of the Union.

As a consequence of his undeviating course when the Draft Riot occurred in 1863 his house was one of those designated in advance for destruction by the mob, which sacked the office and the entire establishment of the Troy Daily Times, and destroyed the furniture and nearly demolished the residence of Hon. Martin I. Townsend, who was his near neighbor.

Warning of this intention having reached Mr. King, his family was sent out of the city for safety; but he with large numbers of other loyal citizens remained on the ground. The late arrival of a military force on the scene caused the mob to disperse before their design could be accomplished.

During the last two years of the war Mr. King was actively connected with the work of the United States Christian Commission, an organization with branches in all the loyal States, having for its object the relief of sick and wounded soldiers. As Chairman of the Troy Branch, Mr. King devoted much time and labor to this cause.

In this connection the following incident may not be without interest. Just before the surrender of General Lee, a convention of the officers of the several branches of the Christian Commission was in session at Washington, and a reception was given them at the White House by President Lincoln. At the close of the reception, and while the guests were departing, Mr. King, with whom he was conversing, was invited by the President to go with him to his private office. During the conference which ensued Mr. King said: "Mr. President, it seems to be pretty certain that the war is nearly at an end, and that you may soon have the rest which you so much need." With the sad, weary look which had then become so noticeable, President Lincoln replied: "Yes, I think that the war is nearly at an end, but I see no prospect of rest for me. There will be very much for me to do after the war is ended." Within a few weeks thereafter an assassin's bullet brought to the martyr President eternal rest.

Mr. King has been for many years one of the most prominent, active and public-spirited citizens of Troy. As a lawyer he has always held an excellent rank and commanded a large patronage. His legal learning, his sound judgment and his long and varied experience have peculiarly fitted him as an adviser and his services as a counselor have always been in especial request. In the midst of a most busy professional life and of exacting public duties he has always found time for personal culture and has added to his excellent youthful education the wisdom and graces of an extensive reading. Genealogy became with him a congenial recreation and he compiled a history of his own and the New York Branches of the King Family of Suffield, Connecticut. The author of the present Genealogy is indebted to Mr. Harvey J. King for a critical review of the introductory chapters and the first five generations of this work and for his excellent advice and judgment as well as constant aid and kindly assistance. At the present time his son, Edwin Arthur King, Esq., is in partnership with him in the practice of the law, under the firm name of King & King.

GEORGE ELIPHALET⁶ KING, (Maj. Seth,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in New Ipswich, N. H., June 11, 1814; died in San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 27, 1897. Graduated at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., 1839. Admitted to practice law in New York State as Attorney and Solicitor May 15, 1841, and as a Counselor-at-Law October 1, 1844. Settled in Rochester, N. Y. He married (1) in Rochester Jany. 23, 1844, Janet Cameron⁸ Haight, daughter of Hon. Fletcher Mathews⁷ Haight (Maj. Genl. Samuel S.,⁶ Stephen,⁵ Jonathan,⁴ John,³ John,² Simon¹ Hayte, also Hait, of Salem 1628, of Dorchester 1630, of Scituate Mass. 1635 and of Windsor, Conn. 1640), who was afterward in 1861 appointed by President

Abraham Lincoln Judge of the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, which position he held until his death Feb. 23, 1866. The mother of Janet Cameron (Haight) King was Elizabeth Stuart McLachlan, daughter of Archibald McLachlan and Janet (Cameron) McLachlan, a direct descendant of the Cameron of Lochiel. Janet Cameron (Haight) King was born at Rochester, N. Y., July 9, 1823; died at Lima, N. Y., Dec. 21, 1844. Her brother, Henry H. Haight, was Governor of California 1867-1871. George Eliphalet King married (2) in Rochester, 1854, Catherine Mary Ann (Cunningham) Dunning, a widow, daughter of John and Jane Cunningham of Utica, N. Y., who died in 1889 without issue. Mr. George Eliphalet King was a learned lawyer and for many years followed his profession at Rochester, N. Y. He removed to New York City in 1862 and was afterward very successful in the stock market and on Wall Street acquiring a very large fortune which, however, late in life, he lost by unfortunate investments. He was fond of literature and an extensive reader. He was especially interested in the histories of the various religions of the world and was a deep student of the Bible. He was the author of a book entitled "Vindication of The True God Against The God of Moses," in which he gave expression in fluent and pleasing style to his own religious views. In 1894 he came to San Francisco, California, to reside with his only child, Cameron Haight King, and died there Dec. 27, 1897. He was buried in his son's plot in Laurel Hill Cemetery, San Francisco. His only child was by his first marriage.

CAROLINE ELIZABETH⁶ KING, (Augustine,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Cambridge, N. Y., July 9, 1812; died in Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 7, 1876; married in Dayton, Aug. 7, 1828, Col. James Greer, of Dayton, O.

ISSUE:

- i. JAMES AUGUSTIN⁷ GREER, b. Cincinnati, O., Feb. 28, 1833; d. Washington, D. C., June 17, 1904; m. Norfolk, Va., Nov. 26, 1857, Mary Randolph Webb, d. Washington, D. C., June 25, 1900. In an obituary notice of Admiral James A. Greer, the "Army and Navy Journal" of June 25, 1904, says:

"Rear Admiral James A. Greer, U. S. N., retired, died at his home, 2010 Hillyer place, Washington, D. C., June 17, in his seventy-second year. He had been in poor health, and for the past three months had been confined to his bed. Admiral Greer, who was born in Ohio Feb. 28, 1833, had a notable record of service. He was appointed midshipman Jan. 10, 1848. In 1854 he was promoted to the rank of passed midshipman, and in 1855 to that of master. He was commissioned a lieutenant in 1855, and while on board the San Jacinto in 1861 assisted in the removal of Mason and Slidell from the English mail steamer Trent. He was made a lieutenant commander in 1862, and commanded at different times the ironclads Carondelet and Benton, and a division of Rear Admiral Porter's Squadron in the Mississippi River. In the passage of Vicksburg, April 16, 1863, he fought the batteries of Grand Gulf for five hours, and in the combined attack on that city he was almost constantly under fire for 45 days. He had charge of the naval station at Mound City, Ill., in 1864, and soon after was given command of the flagship Blackhawk, which position he held until February, 1865. He was commissioned as commander in 1866, and commanded the purchased steamer Tigress when she went on the Polaris Relief Expedition, discovering the lost ship wrecked on the coast of Greenland, her crew having gone south in search of aid. Before returning south himself Commander Greer cruised for some time in northern waters, looking for the survivors and taking notes. In 1876 he was made a captain, and as such had command of the training frigate Constitution and later of the sloop Constellation. He was employed afterward in taking United States exhibits to Havre, France, for the Paris Exposition. For a time he commanded the steamer Hartford at the South Atlantic Station. He was a member of the naval board of inspection later, and president of the naval examination and retiring boards from 1885 until 1887. In 1886 he was commissioned as a commodore, and in the following year was appointed acting rear admiral. He commanded the European Squadron from 1887 to 1889. In 1889 he was president of the board of organization, tactics and drills, and was fulfilling other duties. He was commissioned a rear admiral in 1892, and after that time was again president of the naval examining and retiring boards. He was retired Feb. 28, 1895, and spent the rest of his life with his family in Washington. He was stationed at the navy yard in Washington for a number of years. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, June 19, with military honors, and the interment was at Arlington. Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, conducted the services. Admiral Greer leaves a daughter, Byrd Page Greer, and two sons, James W. and Edward R. Greer, all of whom live in Washington. His wife died four years ago."

The Dayton, Ohio, Journal has also very appropriately said: "The death of Rear Admiral Greer, retired, removes a noteworthy link between the old and the new in the history of the United States navy. His youthful years of service belonged to the time when there were still sloops and frigates and line-of-battle ships, when a man-of-war carried the population of a town and rows on rows of cannon. He witnessed the introduction of steamships into the navy and all the changes from the wooden vessel to the modern floating castle of steel, from broadsides of sixty-four and upwards of old smooth bore guns that were best fought at a distance of a few hundred feet to long, great steel guns that throw a shell clear over the horizon and hit an enemy hull down and almost out of sight. His life covered the whole series of changes in tactics from the day when it was of the highest importance to get the wind gauge in a contest at sea, down to the time when the important factor in maneuvering is to know the radius of a circle in which a ship can turn and in strategy to how far she can go without refilling her coal bunkers.

"Aside from the armored float, which Napoleon the Third tried in the Crimean war, Admiral Greer shared some of the earliest experiments in iron-clads, those in which river steamboats were converted into gunboats with sloping covers of railroad iron. Up and down the Mississippi, up and down Red river, his name is written in the history of a kind of naval warfare almost unexampled in the experience of mankind, when fleets were built and manned to fight tremendous battles hundreds of miles from the sea, sometimes in places that led Abraham Lincoln to say that Uncle Sam's sailors were web-footed and ready to sail their vessels wherever there was a heavy dew.

"No doubt this was a very different kind of naval warfare from any that he had dreamed of when he was with the sloop-of-war St. Mary's in the Pacific, or the frigate Columbia or the Independence in the fifties long before the Civil war was feared even as a possibility. Even at the outbreak of the war, he was still a salt water sailor and shared in the historical achievement of taking Mason and Slidell from the British steamer Trent. And after the war was over and the river fleets had disappeared, he returned to the sea, none the worse from his fresh water experience. The navy has changed much so far as its ships are concerned and its guns and projectiles and powder. But it will never see the time when it will not need men like Admiral Greer."

Dayton, O., Feby. 25, 1906. Gen. Wood was well known, not only because of his services in the War of the Rebellion, but as a survivor of the Mexican War, in which he served as a Lieutenant, as did Grant, Sherman, Johnston and many others who won high rank in the Civil War. Gen. Wood's chief military renown was the result of his splendid work in the War of the Rebellion as a brigade, division, and corps commander. Unlike some other general officers he declined to be invalidated and leave his troops even when wounded and there are few if any who served longer in the field than he, or with more ability. His intelligent comprehension of the plans of his superiors and prompt co-operation in the necessary movements were material contributions to the success of campaigns. His personal bravery was never questioned, nor was his reputation as a soldier ever successfully assailed.

Gen. Wood was graduated from the Military academy at West Point on July 1, 1845, as a brevet second lieutenant in the topographical engineers, and was at once ordered to report for duty to Gen. Zachary Taylor whose headquarters were at Corpus Christi, Texas. The next spring Taylor marched his little army to the Rio Grande which movement provoked a declaration of war from the Mexican government. Lieut. Wood was engaged at the battles of Palo Alto, Monteray and Buena Vista and was then transferred to the cavalry service and assigned to the Second dragoons. He remained on duty in Mexico until that country was evacuated by the American troops.

In the fall of 1848 Gen. Wood went with his regiment to the Indian frontier of Texas where he remained for eleven years. He served as aide to Gen. Harney at San Antonia and Austin in 1849, and was Adjutant of the Second dragoons from September, 1849, until July, 1854. At the outbreak of the civil war he was a captain of cavalry and soon thereafter was assigned to the command of a division of infantry. He participated in the battles of Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Franklin and Nashville and all the many actions of the Atlanta campaign.

He was severely wounded at Stone River and again at Lovejoy's Station. He was for three years in command of a division until promoted to the command of the 4th army corps, as successor to Gen. Stanley, wounded at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., Nov. 30, 1864. This corps he commanded until it was mustered out of service in 1865.

Gen. Wood's long and active service compelled his retirement for disability in 1868. He was placed on the retired list as Major General, a rank he had fairly earned and well deserved.

Gen. Wood was a good disciplinarian without being in any degree a martinet. He abhorred pilaging and straggling as subversive of military discipline. He was solicitous for the comfort of his soldiers and the commissary department of his division was one of the best in the army. So far as it was possible for him to provide, his men had their full share of whatever rations were in sight, and if their haversacks were sometimes empty they always had the regulation "forty rounds" in their cartridge boxes. In action he was cool, resolute, resourceful and even jocular, as shown by his remark to Gen. Crittenden just as the division was going into battle at Stone River, Dec. 31, 1862: "Good bye, General, we'll all meet at the hatter's, as one coon said to another when the dogs were after them."

Only two brigades of Wood's division were engaged at Chicamauga, one brigade remaining in Chattanooga on garrison duty. After the disaster to the right on the second day, Gen. Brannan formed his division on "Horseshoe" ridge, but did not connect with Reynolds' division next on the left. Wood was moving to close this interval when the advancing enemy came within musket range. Changing front under fire, always a dangerous movement, Wood faced his division south instead of east, ordered a charge with fixed bayonets, drove back the Confederates and gained the precious moments necessary to bring his troops in to the gap between Brannan's and Reynolds' divisions. Here for five hours raged an incessant storm of battle. Thomas, from the rear of Wood's division, sent up two cannon with the message, "The position must be held." "Tell Gen. Thomas," was the reply, "that we will hold the position or go to heaven from it." During that Sunday afternoon of terrific fighting, the only men that fell away from the Federal position were the wounded and the heroic souls that went "to heaven from it." When the blessed night came the Union line was still intact and the army had been saved.

For many years one of the most familiar sights on the streets of Dayton was a sturdy old soldier with a kind word and smile for every one he met, and when a stranger would ask who he was, the answer was always the same, "That's the General."

Rich or poor, high or low, made no difference with him, his broad nature took them all in and made mankind his friend.

Such was Thomas J. Wood, the citizen, in the daily walks of peace and these last years served to round out his life.

For many years on Memorial Day he acted as Grand Marshal and sat upon his horse up to his eightieth year as well as he ever did in youth. His daily ride was a feature of his life and it was a matter of comment that no one could sit a horse as well as Gen. Wood could. In his home life he believed that a man's highest duty was to those who gathered round the same fire-side. When the last days came, when strength and health were gradually fading away, never for a moment was that serene nature daunted, never a complaint came. With a smile on his lips he fought the battle to the end.

Up to the last two years of his life, he retained the strength and vitality of a man of sixty, but gradually his health broke down. There was no special sickness or disease. The machine, a good machine at that, which had done faithful service in the bloody days of the sixties, was wearing out, and the spark of life burning low.

Although he fought his grim adversary as valiantly as he had on the slopes of Snodgrass Hill, the victory could not be his.

At last on a peaceful Sunday afternoon that gallant soul quietly passed away; a brave soldier had gone over the river to join his comrades of the days of yore.

Years before General Wood had expressed a desire to be buried in the cemetery at West Point and in conformity to that wish his body was interred on the beautiful banks of the Hudson.

There he rests in peace, his life work well done. As a soldier he never failed to do his duty; as a citizen he neglected no responsibility; as a man he did justice to every man, and surely that beautiful verse which Saint Paul wrote many years ago expresses his character: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

Mrs. Wood resides at Dayton, O., and their children were born at Dayton.

COLONEL EDWARD AUGUSTINE ⁶KING, U. S. A., (Augustine,⁵ Lt. Eliphilet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Cambridge, N. Y., April 3, 1814. Killed at the battle of Chicamauga, Sept. 20, 1863. He was Colonel of the Sixth U. S. Infantry and also Colonel of the 68th Indiana Volunteers. When killed he was in command. Acting Brigadier General of the Second Brigade, Reynolds Division, 14th Army Corps U. S. A. He had ridden out in front of the lines of his brigade to reconnoitre, when a ball from a Confederate sharpshooter struck him down. In the early days Edward A. King was a well known man in Dayton, Ohio. He was a soldier born. When Texas made her gallant struggle against Mexico he had fought under the Lone Star banner. Again when troops were called for in 1847, he volunteered and served through General Scott's campaign to the capture of the City of Mexico as a Captain in the 15th U. S. Infantry. When the Civil War broke out he at once reported to Gov. Denison of Ohio with his company and was placed in command of Camp Jackson. He first took the field in 1862 as Colonel of the 68th Indiana Infantry and served in the Kentucky campaign in 1862, his regiment being one of those captured at Mumfordville, and Col. King saved the regimental flag by wrapping it around his body and carrying it there until he was exchanged, and when he was struck down on the field of Chicamauga and the order came to retreat his body was placed on a caisson and carried off the field, being the only body carried off the field on the night of September 20th, 1863, or as the 68th Indiana said: "He saved our flag and we saved his body." Shortly before his death he had been promoted to the Colonelcy of the 6th U. S. Infantry. The spot where Colonel Edward A. King fell is marked by one of the monuments erected by the government to designate the place where general officers were killed. In 1842, at Cincinnati, O., Col. Edward A. King married Sarah McNaughton, born in Cambridge, Washington Co., N. Y., died in Dayton, O., Feb. 17, 1866.

In 1826 he came with his father to Columbus, Ohio, and in 1834 settled at Dayton, Ohio, where his father and brother-in-law, Mr. James Greer, formed a partnership for the manufacture and sale of stoves. Rufus King entered into their employment in 1834 and on his father's retirement from the business in 1845 succeeded to the business with Mr. Greer until the decease of the latter in 1874 and thereafter conducted the business alone until 1884 when he closed it up and retired from active business. Mr. Rufus J. King thus spent among the foundry warehouses and offices fifty of the best and most active years of his life and made his record as an honorable, judicious and successful business man. Since 1888 Mr. King has been Vice-President of the Third National Bank of Dayton, O., in which he had served as a director for many years. JOSEPH MERRITT⁶ KING, (Joseph⁵ Ichabod⁴ Capt. Joseph³ James² William¹), born in Marlboro, Vt., May 2, 1828; married in Guthrie Centre, Iowa, April 15, 1885. Mrs. Frances Amine (Taylor) Raymond, daughter of William Henry and Effie Frances (Fitch) Taylor, born in Milan, O., June 13, 1847. Mr. Joseph Merritt King (called by his second name as are also his brother and sister) worked on his father's farm and attended the district school until he was about seventeen years of age, when he entered Brattleboro Academy. He afterward taught in his home and other district schools. On becoming of age he went to the state of New York, where he taught winters and attended the Stillwater Seminary during the summers. He did some surveying with the city engineer at Saratoga Springs. In the fall of 1854 he joined an engineering party to survey the Saratoga and Sacketts Harbor R. R., spending most of the winter in the Adirondack wilderness. Returning to Saratoga he worked on railway construction and when work was suspended he returned to Marlboro, Vt. His next work was on the Troy and Greenfield, better known as the Hoosic Tunnel road,—his work extending from Greenfield to the mouth of the Hoosic tunnel.

Afterwards he went on a branch of the Pessumpsic, from St. Johnsbury to the head of Lake Memphramagog, of which road Jonathan Adams was chief engineer. A short survey was also made in Canada. In April, 1858 he went to Arkansas where he was on preliminary survey up the Arkansas River, on the Little Rock and Ft. Smith branch of the Cairo and Fulton R. R. On account of the then pending war between the north and the south he came away, going to Burlington, Iowa, where he went on the B. & M. road between Mt. Pleasant and Ottumwa, Ia. He then entered the land department, surveying and examining the lands granted to the B. & M. R. R., in Iowa. In 1862 he went to Aurora, Ills., in charge of the Chicago branch of the C. B. & Q. R. R., from Aurora to Chicago. While on this work he staked out the first stock yards of this road in Chicago, though they were never completed and were moved to South Chicago. He again entered the land department, with Burlington as his home, attending to matters pertaining to the land grant, paying taxes, valuing the land, etc., traveling through Nebraska and depending on his map to find a settlers cabin where he might find food and shelter for the night. He prepared the list of lands in the Nebraska land grant, going as far west as Ft. Kearney. About 1870 he left the R. R. Co., and devoted himself to looking after his own land which he had purchased. From thence forward he engaged in buying and selling land for himself. For many years he has been an extensive land owner, renting farms and superintending the keeping of stock, etc. His home has been in Red Oak, Iowa, for about thirty years. He is a natural student; a man who thinks and speaks accurately and also humorously. His wife, Mrs. King, once a teacher, takes a keen and able interest in educational club work.

SARAH ELVIRA⁶ KING, (Joseph,⁵ Ichabod,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Marlboro, Vt., Aug. 26, 1833; married in Marlboro, Jany. 7, 1862, James Edward Priest, son of Nathan and Mary (Gunn) Priest, born in West Northfield, Mass., Aug. 11, 1829; died in West Northfield, Dec. 23, 1875. Her married life was spent on her husband's home farm, where he had always lived, in West Northfield (where he was also interested with his brother, Dwight Solomon Priest, in various business enterprises) until her entire family died within six weeks of diphtheria. Sustained by her strong and abiding faith in the life hereafter, she has borne her great sorrow with Christian fortitude. This is expressed in the following lines from one of her poems:

“What will be the soul’s awakening
On that bright and blissful shore
When it meets in joy triumphant
All the Dear Ones gone before?
There the soul in rich fruition
Dwells in perfect love and peace,
No more sorrow, no more sighing
In its sweet and glad release.”

A member of the Congregational church, she has not been narrow in religious belief, nor in her outlook, but has believed every where in the unfailing courage of convictions. She has had a life-long unusual love for music, and has the understanding of it that comes only by years of devotion to it. A number of old family papers are in her possession, and her help and interest in the work of making the family records complete, have been an appreciated stimulus. For years her home has been with her brother in West Brattleboro, Vt. All her children were born and died at West Northfield, Mass.

Susan (Kent) Huntington. In early manhood he lived at Natchez, Miss., where he saw so much of the evils of slavery that he gave up solid advantages rather than rear his family beneath the influences of that blighting institution. He settled in Warren, Ohio in 1816. In 1835-1839 he was in the Ohio State Senate, where alone he fought for the repeal of the "Black Laws" which were a blot upon the statutes of that State. He was a lawyer and was Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Trumbull Co., Ohio. He was the candidate of the Liberty Party for Governor of Ohio in 1842, and again in 1844. In 1847 he was nominated by the Liberty Party for Vice-President of the United States with John P. Hale, U. S. Senator from New Hampshire, for President, both withdrawing in 1848 in favor of Van Buren and Adams on the Free Soil Ticket. He left a large landed estate in and around Akron.

Mr. Henry Caleb King was a man of unquestionable integrity and uprightness of character, "whose word was as good as his bond." He had strong convictions and always had the courage of his convictions.

An accident in early manhood made him a lifelong sufferer from nervous dyspepsia and kindred diseases, which together with the many sorrows of his life, gave a tinge of sadness to an otherwise most genial nature. He had a fine mind, and was in the truest sense an intellectual man. While not a fluent speaker, he always expressed himself with such force and clearness, and possessed such ready wit, that he was a most delightful companion.

In a marked degree, he had the gift of teaching, and the power not only of imparting information, but also of impressing upon others his own ideals and convictions.

Quiet and retiring, he never held any office except in the Disciple Church, where he was an Elder for many years, and which he considered a high honor, as well as a great responsibility.

While not a popular man with all classes, he had a great many warm friends, and was "ever a lover of good men and women."

He always exercised the grace of hospitality, and was a model neighbor; his skill in nursing, and his quick sympathy made him very helpful to those who were sick or in trouble.

In all his relations of life he was true and faithful; but it was as a father that his character shone out the brightest. He was in every sense of the term, the head of his family.

In his last illness, when suffering the tortures of slow starvation, he refused to take anything in the line of narcotics because he said he wanted to retain his consciousness and go rejoicing and triumphant. His last words were "God is love, trust Him." Children born in Chardon, Ohio.

LYMAN⁷ KING, (Samuel,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Suffield, Conn., May 30, 1812; died in Springfield, Mass., Oct. 5, 1886; married in Suffield, March 27, 1830, Maria Persis⁶ King (John Bowker,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Oct. 13, 1816; died in Dayton, O., March 20, 1901. (See ante No. 309).

In early life Lyman King moved to New Brunswick, N. J., where he taught school. While there he became interested in the mulberry speculation in which he made some money. It was at this time he married and a year or so later, 1840-1841, he moved to Springfield, Mass., and for a few years was engaged in trade. He became interested in the water supply system for Springfield and also engaged actively in the wholesale produce commission business; also in the manufacture of gold chains, metallic cartridges and paper. Being very successful he accumulated a considerable fortune. Toward the close of the Civil War he entered largely into the manufacture of woolen goods, building a mill and equipping it with the best machinery. In the depression following the war he made large losses, resulting finally in the loss of his entire fortune. The last years of his life he devoted largely to the care of his garden, being very fond of the cultivation of fancy fruits and flowers. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, was upright and honorable in all his dealings and had a large circle of friends. Mrs. King survived him and died at the residence of her son, Robert Newton King of Dayton, Ohio. Children were born at Springfield.

Mr. King was educated in the common schools of his time and, as he possessed a strong and active intellect, he made the most of his opportunities, mathematics being his favorite study. His boyhood was spent upon a farm and during this period he was in poor health and so delicate that no one thought he would live to old age. His fathers' holdings were small and not sufficient to afford Abel a start in life, but he determined upon a mercantile career and began a small grocery business near Boston Neck in partnership with Mr. Francis. This business was prosperous from the beginning. In course of time Mr. King retired from the grocery business and engaged in the manufacture of cigar boxes with very considerable success. His factory at Boston Neck had water power and he also equipped his mill with machinery for grinding grain to accommodate the farmers of that vicinity from whom he also bought the tobacco which they raised and which he resold to New York and Philadelphia dealers. Allen Loomis was a partner in many of Mr. King's early ventures and subsequently Neland Loomis was interested with him. For many years Mr. Abel King was associated in different enterprises with the best men of Suffield, but as his wealth increased he carried on his operations alone. Failing health caused his retirement from active business in 1864. Politically Mr. King was a staunch Democrat with a keen regard for the value of his vote, but he would not neglect business for politics. In disposition he was quiet and although inclined to sociability and well posted on current events, he was a man of few words and averse to heated arguments. For many years he resided in Boston Neck but finally removed to Suffield, where he remodeled his house and spent his last days in comfort and in the enjoyment of the quiet of home life.

Mr. Wyllys King went to St. Louis, Mo., in 1832, and was subsequently a member of the mercantile firm of Doan, King & Co., a house which for more than thirty years held highest rank among the business houses of St. Louis. Upon the establishment of the State insurance department in 1869, his firm having retired from business a short time previously, Mr. King was appointed by Governor McClurg the first Superintendent of Insurance. His administration is well remembered for the vigor with which he pursued and the success he attained in ridding Missouri of the brood of wild-cats which for years had been a blot and shame upon the insurance business. Mr. King was also a member of the convention during the Civil War called to draft a new State Constitution, which was adopted in 1865.

In early life Mr. King came to Springfield, Mass., and began the business of manufacturing balmoral skirts, but after about three years sold out his interest to a New York firm and went to New Jersey, where he engaged in the manufacture of paper. He was quite successful until his factory was destroyed by fire causing a total loss. He then returned to Springfield, entered into the junk business and was very prosperous. He erected a block of buildings, had a large paper business and also a paper manufactory in Hampden. He engaged more extensively in building blocks and while inspecting the erection of one of his buildings which was in process of erection a timber fell striking him on the head and killing him. His sons, William Henry Jr., and John Benjamin King, continued the paper business until 1893 when they suffered a heavy financial loss and John B. King sold out his share, but William H. King Jr. continued in the new firm. It was not long thereafter, however, until William H. King, Jr., met with severe losses and was also compelled to sell out his share of the paper business. His children were by his first marriage.

William¹), born in North Sanford, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1837; married in North Sanford, N. Y., March 20, 1859, Betsey Ann Groat. No issue. Mr. King resides at Bainbridge, Broome Co., N. Y. Soon after Judson King's father came from Connecticut, over one hundred years ago, he bought a tract of land about ten miles north of the little town of Deposit, Broome County, N. Y., where he had found a spring of good water, built a log house and began clearing the land which was in the midst of a thick forest. "Every night," writes Mr. Judson King, "my father could hear the panthers screaming in the forest, and I have heard my mother say that in winter the wolves were so bold that they would come at night and put their paws upon the window sills and look into the house so that she often took a brand of fire and flung it at them to scare them away." This is the old homestead upon which Addison King now lives and the spring is still running. It was on this homestead that Judson King grew to useful manhood.

CHARLES JACKSON⁷ KING, (Perkins,⁶ Amos,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Freehold, Greene Co., N. Y., Jany. 9, 1825; died in Norwich, Conn., Oct. 16, 1904; married in Alburg Springs, Vt., May 7, 1851, Charlotte Emily Ransom, born May 5, 1828; died in Norwich, Conn., July 4, 1900. His father, Hon. Perkins King, was County Judge twenty-four years; a member of Assembly for two terms; and Congressman in 1830. His mother, Polly Jackson, was a daughter of Gen. Giles Jackson, who was chief of staff for General Gates and drew up the Articles of Capitulation signed by General Burgoyne after his defeat at the battle of Saratoga.

Mr. King was a graduate of Union College in the Class of 1846 and a Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Upsilon man. After graduating he studied law at Cortland, New York, and practiced at Ogdensburg for a term of years. Because of impaired health he abandoned his profession and entered the woolen manufacturing business with his brother, Amos King, at Watertown, N. Y. Their mill was burned in 1859, when they went to Norwich, Conn., and continued their business there in two different mills, the last of which was destroyed by flood and with it his capital swept away. For a few years he was treasurer of a manufacturing business in Barnet, Vt., and there he was again burned out. For the last twenty-five years of his business life he was engaged in a wholesale and retail grain business at Norwich, Conn., which his failing health forced him to abandon in 1897.

He was especially prominent in his Christian life and character, as well as a great lover of the highest culture and literature. His knowledge along these lines was abundant and his acquaintance with poetry was extensive. He served several terms on the Society Committee of his church and was deacon of it, the Second Congregational Church of Norwich, Conn., from Jan. 1, 1876 to Jan. 27, 1901. His character and experience are well and fitly expressed in his own words: "With Him, who knows us through and through, faithful endeavor is more than success, or rather is success."

Y., Aug. 29, 1899; married Aug. 1, 1850, Jason Stevens, born Dec. 3, 1813; died March 8, 1901. The grandfather of Jason Stevens was Gersham Stevens a major in the American Army during the War of the Revolution. When but twenty-two years of age Jason Stevens went to Cairo, N. Y., and embarked as a merchant there in April, 1835, and gradually built up a very large and prosperous business having the largest and best stocked store in Cairo. In 1862 his store was destroyed by fire but he immediately purchased another building and lot which was occupied by him as a store up to the time of his death. His son Mr. D'Alanson King Stevens assisted him in the business and succeeding to the same, still continues the business. His younger son Dr. William Stevens is a physician practicing his profession at New York City.

Mrs. Rebecca Jeffries (King) Stevens was for more than forty years the Treasurer of the Cairo Ladies Aid Society. Mr. D'Alanson King Stevens has rendered great assistance to the compiler of this genealogy in tracing out the lineage of several branches of the King family.

CINDONIA⁷ KING, (Micah,⁶ Micah,⁵ Benjamin,⁴ Benjamin,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Longmeadow, Mass., July 2, 1820; died in Buckland, Conn., Jany. 18, 1907; married in Longmeadow, Mass., Aug. 1, 1844, Spencer Chaffee of Somers, Conn., born June 21, 1812. The sweet disposition and unselfish saintly life of Mrs. Cindonia (King) Chaffee deserve a word of eulogy. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Chaffee made their home in Somers, Conn., where Mr. Chaffee conducted a farm. Later he was engaged with his brother in selling goods through the Southern States. He was a man of more than usual ability, a fine type of the man, who a half century ago gave New England its reputation for ability and integrity in the business world. He was, however, early a victim of consumption and died at 41 years of age, just as the material fruits of his labors seemed about to be realized, leaving the young wife with one little girl to face life's battle alone. Mrs. Chaffee spent a year or two in Springfield, Mass., then returned to Somers and upon the marriage of her daughter, Harriet Eliza Chaffee to Clayton Grant of South Windsor, Conn., went to live with them. She had been, for many years, a member of the Congregational Church at Somers. Her last illness was only a fading away of the physical. The end came in perfect peace. We commonly call it the end. But if we take the larger and happier view of life, believing its vicissitudes merely incidental to the development of the divine in us, then certainly the going of those we call "full of years" is really a springing into new life—a glad valedictory. "Say not good-night, but in some brighter clime, bid me good-morning."

MARY ELIZABETH⁷ KING, (Joseph Warren,⁶ John Bowker,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Lima, Allen Co., Ohio, Nov. 18, 1842; married in Xenia, O., May 8, 1873, Rev. Gershon Moore Peters, son of Gershon Moore and Miranda (Berry—nee Eaton) Peters, born Aug. 31, 1843. Mr. Peters' ancestors were from Hampshire Co., Virginia and his grandfather, Tunis Peters, served in the Revolutionary War from that county. Mr. Gershon Peters was born on a farm near Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio. His father was a surveyor and surveyed the present site of Columbus, O., while it was still a dense forest; and part of the city now occupies his old farm, as does the cemetery which received its name, Greenlawn, from the wife of Mr. Peters, Sr. Mr. Gershon M. Peters when scarcely eighteen years of age enlisted in the 17th Regt. Ohio Volunteers for service during the Civil War and was with his regiment in Kentucky for seven months when he was honorably discharged and sent home to die, as it was presumed, of consumption, but an out-door life re-established his health which had always been delicate. He graduated from the Denison University in Granville, O., in 1865, and from Rochester, New York, Theological Seminary in 1869. For twelve years he was an esteemed minister in the Baptist Church, his chief service being in Buffalo, N. Y. The death of his father-in-law, Mr. Joseph Warren King, leaving a large business with no sons to look after it, made it necessary for him to leave the work of the ministry and assume Mr. King's business, the duties of which were foreign to his experience and taste; but he became eminently successful therein. He was the inventor of what was probably the first successful cartridge-loading machine ever used in America, and his inventive genius seems to have been an inheritance from his grandfather, Louis Peters, who was extremely apt in several trades. Mr. and Mrs. Peters' children were born in Buffalo, N. Y. Res. Cincinnati, O.

ISADORA⁷ KING, (Joseph Warren,⁶ John Bowker,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Lima, Allen Co., Ohio, Jany. 22, 1847. Res. The Kingdom, Xenia, Ohio.

EMMA CORNELIA⁷ KING, (Joseph Warren,⁶ John Bowker,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Lima, Allen Co., Ohio, Dec. 14, 1848. Residence The Kingdom, Xenia, Ohio.

The Misses King (Isadora and Emma Cornelia) reside in the old homestead known as "The Kingdom," which has sheltered four generations of their family. Miss Emma Cornelia King has traveled extensively not only throughout the United States, but also in Europe and elsewhere. While in England she obtained much valuable information concerning the English ancestry of the King family and its coat of arms. Visiting France she devoted considerable time to the investigation of the French Huguenot ancestry of the Devotion (de Vauton) family and its armorial bearings. It will be recollected that Captain Joseph³ King, (James,² William¹), of Suffield, Conn., married Hannah Devotion, daughter of Rev. Ebenezer³ Devotion (John,² Edward¹ of Roxbury and Brookline A. D. 1645). Miss Emma C. King kindly furnished to the compiler of this Genealogy the very valuable results of her researches.

JOSEPH TOTTEN⁷ KING, (Louis,⁶ Roger,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in New York City, Dec. 25, 1838; died May, 1875, without issue. He served with the Union Army on the Potomac during the War of the Rebellion and contracted therein, shortly after the second battle of Bull Run, in which he was engaged, the disease from the effects of which he eventually died. From one of his letters to his sister, Miss Mary E. King, dated Sept. 30, 1862, the following is an extract:

"Your letter which I received at Harpers Ferry has been unanswered a long time but the circumstances were such that it was impossible to write, as the Rebels had surrounded us and the communication was cut off. All of our telegraph and mail matter fell into their hands.

"You probably are aware that the Regiment to which I belonged was captured together with the rest of the garrison, numbering between 800 and 1000 men by the rebels under General Stonewall Jackson on the 15th of September. We were in their hands only two days. During that time we were treated as gentlemen, and had everything we could wish for under the circumstances."

CAMERON HAIGHT⁷ KING, (George Eliphalet,⁶ Maj. Seth,⁵ Lt. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Lima, N. Y. (near Rochester, N. Y.), Dec. 21, 1844; married (1) in Sacramento, Cal., April 2, 1873, Anna Eliza Beveridge, daughter of David Forney and Hannah Rebecca (Winn) Beveridge, born in Benicia, Solano Co., Cal., June 13, 1851; died in San Francisco, Cal., July 1, 1879; (2) Oct. 17, 1881, Ella Jane Brown, daughter of Charles Mar and Frances Sarah (Bridgwood) Brown, born in St. Helena, Napa Co., Cal., March 23, 1863; died in San Francisco, Cal., Jany. 22, 1901. From a book entitled "Master Hands in the Affairs of the Pacific Coast," published at San Francisco in 1892 by the Western Historical and Publishing Co., we extract the following:

"Col. Cameron H. King was born near Rochester, New York, on December 21, 1844, and completed his education at the University of Rochester, class of 1863. Col. King comes of a race of lawyers. His father was a prominent lawyer of Western New York and his maternal grandfather, Fletcher M. Haight, was Judge of the United States District Court in California. Col. King was engaged in mining in Montana from 1865 to 1868 but came to California in the latter year at the request of his uncle, Henry H. Haight, who was then Governor of the State. He was appointed Executive Secretary of the Governor and at the same time began the study of law in his uncle's office and was admitted to the practice of the law April 14, 1873, by the Supreme Court. In 1870 Col. King was elected the Secretary of the Code Commission of which Col. Creed Haymond was Chairman and John C. Burch and Charles Lindley, afterwards succeeded by Charles A. Tuttle, were members. Col. King assisted in the compilation of the Codes and in the annotation of the Commissioners' edition, and gave marked evidence of unusual legal ability. For a number of years Col. King was connected with the State Militia and was a Lieutenant-Colonel on the Staff of the Governor of California.

"One of the first efforts of Col. King at the bar was his able defense of the notorious Charles Mortimer, who had committed many murders and was finally hanged at Sacramento, Cal., for the murder of Mrs. Gibson. Col. King also successfully defended Edward J. Muybridge, the photographer, for the killing of Harry Larkins. In this trial, at Napa City, the young lawyer displayed his oratorical powers to great advantage and divided the honors with the eloquent Hon. Wirt Pendegast. The killing of Larkins was occasioned by the intimacy of the latter with Muybridge's wife. The homicide attracted great attention at the time, and the report of the trial and Col. King's address to the jury were telegraphed to the daily press of San Francisco and published in full. In civil practice Colonel King has attained equal distinction. In the contest of the will of John S. Manson, Colonel King and Hon. Arthur Rodgers, his partner, received for their services the handsome fee of $33,000. Colonel King in the suit of Smith vs. San Francisco, recovered for his client $66,000 for lumber burned on Beale Street Wharf during the Denis Kearney anti-Chinese agitation. The case was remarkable from the fact that Colonel King proved the existence of a riot in that neighborhood entirely by circumstantial evidence. The owners of the lumber being unable to procure eye-witnesses of the actual incendiaryism, had attempted to obtain indemnity from the State Legislature and failed. Many prominent attorneys declined the case on the ground of the impossibility of establishing the necessary facts by sufficient evidence. When Colonel King clearly demonstrated them by a strong and irrefutable chain of circumstances without actual eye-witnesses of the act itself, and by clear convincing argument secured a merited verdict at the hands of a jury, the lumber owners gladly paid him his fee of $30,000. From 1881 to 1888 Colonel King was absent from the State of California, during a portion of which time he was traveling. In 1885 he was engaged in very important law suits in the Territory of Arizona. In that year also he was appointed by President Grover Cleveland Special United States Attorney for Arizona. In 1886 he was appointed by the Governor and Legislature of that Territory a Commissioner to revise its laws. Colonel King was made chairman of the Commission and the rapidity and excellence of his work has been frequently extolled. All the pre-existing laws of the Territory were repealed in toto and a new Code, or Revised Statutes as it was called, was enacted, all vested rights being carefully preserved. The new system of laws worked with admirable smoothness, without the disturbance of any vested interests and have ever since been in force, giving general satisfaction. Upon the completion of the revision of the laws of Arizona, Colonel King was, by the Governor, appointed Commissioner of Immigration, and filled the office creditably, finally resigning to resume the practice of his profession in San Francisco. On his return to San Francisco Colonel King as attorney for Duncan F. MacDonald was successful in an action to establish MacDonald's partnership right to one half of property valued at $250,000, standing in the name of Captain Charles E. S. MacDonald, who came to California in 1850 and died leaving a very large estate. Colonel King is still, as he has ever been, a close student, and an earnest, forcible and eloquent advocate. In politics he has always been a consistent Democrat and has made many canvasses of the State. He was a Tilden Presidential Elector in 1876 and has been honored by his party with the State Senatorial nomination for his district."

The compiler of this Genealogy has selected the foregoing as perhaps the most flattering of several articles of which, in past years, he has been made the subject and his great modesty and becoming diffidence will not permit him to enlarge upon it. His many other excellent qualities will, of course, be gladly told in confidence to those who may seek for further information. Residence, San Francisco, California.

ALBERT LESTER⁷ KING, (Lester Theodore,⁶ Artemas,⁵ Theodore,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Suffield, Conn., March 24, 1851; died in New York City Aug. 13, 1897; unmarried. Mr. King had a magnificent physique, standing six feet and two inches in height and weighing about two hundred and sixty-five pounds, but never looked corpulent. He was a most accomplished musician and acknowledged to be one of the greatest tenors which America has produced. The New York Herald of August 15, 1897, published a lengthy obituary notice of him from which we quote the following extract:

"Probably America has never produced a more remarkable tenor voice than King's—phenomenal in its range, as sweet as that of a boy soprano, and yet as full and virile and manly as one could wish for in a genuine tenor. That acknowledged musical authority, Sir Charles Halle, said when Mr. King sang in England that it was the first time that he had heard the voice of Mario since the death of the great singer, and when Tamagno heard him he went to him, and, taking him by the hands, said—the greatest of all compliments to come from an operatic tenor: ‘I wish I had your voice.’

CHARLES ARTEMAS KING.

ALBERT LESTER KING.

“Mr. King chose the oratorio field, and there for years he had a career that stamped him as possessed of exceptional artistic gifts and personal popularity. He and Mme. Lehmann sang to 15,000 people at the Toronto musical festival where, unfortunately, the first seeds of his fatal disease were sown, and for years he was a prominent figure at the great oratorio performances throughout the country.

“His beautiful voice, noble style and soulfulness of expression were often heard with touching effect in divine service in some of the prominent churches of this city, notably the Fifth Avenue Baptist, St. Mark’s, the First Baptist and the Church of the Convent. No tenor received a larger sum than did Mr. King when he consented to sing in church. The quality of his voice in its sweetness and sympathy was not alone remarkable, but the range and execution were equal to that of a high florid soprano. He could sing easily and purely to high F and could give a soprano aria with all the brilliant cadenzas attached to it with the utmost ease, yet his voice was not in the least effeminate in character, but that rarity of the day—a sweet, pure, manly tenor.

“Personally Mr. King was of charming character and manners.

“Mr. King studied for grand opera, and some of his greatest triumphs were achieved by his splendid rendition of the most difficult operatic arias. Had he not been stricken down with diabetes at the early age of thirty-four, he would undoubtedly have become one of the world’s greatest operatic tenors.”

MARIA JANE⁷ KING, (Lester Theodore,⁶ Artemas,⁵ Theodore,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Suffield, Conn., July 17, 1857; married Oct. 13, 1893, Edwin A. Quick, who is with Clark, Dodge & Co., bankers, Wall street, New York City. Mrs. Quick, like her brother, Mr. Albert Lester King, of whom we have above written, is also an accomplished musician. She possesses a rich soprano voice of remarkable compass and power that denotes care and culture and she uses it judiciously and with effect. She sang with her brother in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York City, frequently called the "Rockefeller Church" (Mr. John D. Rockefeller was chairman of the Music Committee at that time). Her position was solo soprano and her brother was solo tenor. The choir was conceded to be the finest in New York. Frequently Mrs. Quick's voice has been compared to that of the great dramatic soprano Mme. Lilli Lehman. Mrs. Quick was never in robust health and for several years has not accepted yearly engagements, though she retains her glorious voice and occasionally appears in concert and church work and is deeply interested in the art of singing. Being recognized as an authority on tone production, she is frequently consulted and gives vocal instruction. With a voice of exceptional purity and sweetness and as strong as it is rich her experience as solo soprano has been of the best. For three years she was solo soprano in Christ Church, Hartford, Conn., in Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York City, two years, in Central Congregational Church of Brooklyn, one year, and in the Summerfield M. E. Church, Brooklyn three years. Socially, also, Mrs. Quick is a charming woman. No issue. Residence, Brooklyn, N. Y.

He entered the Western Military Academy in 1902 where he remained two years. In 1904 he attended the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, where he pursued a course of studies to fit himself as a civil engineer. On Nov. 29, 1906, while in Grand Junction, Colorado, he was accidentally killed. He had entered his room which was small and not properly ventilated and had lighted a gas heater to heat water for a bath. While waiting for the water to heat he fell asleep and was asphyxiated by the vitiated air and gas. An only child, just entering into manhood and a useful career, his death was peculiarly sad.

DAVID LEICESTER⁸ KING, (Leicester,⁷ David,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² *William*¹), born in Warren, O., Dec. 24, 1825; died in Akron, O., Jany. 29, 1902; married in Charleston, W. Va., May 1, 1849, Bettie Washington Steele, born Dec. 10, 1826—a great grand-niece of our first President, General George Washington. Mr. David Leicester King was graduated at Harvard College when only twenty-one years of age. He moved to Akron in 1846 and began the study of law with King & Taylor. He was admitted to the bar in Cleveland in 1848 and in 1851 established his residence there.

He practiced his profession in Cleveland with success until 1856 when he returned to Akron. There, in 1867, he abandoned law and accepted the office of secretary and treasurer of the Akron Sewer Pipe company, the largest institution of its kind at that time in the world, which manufactured vitrified sewer pipe.

Rapid success followed his management of this company, the product of which in 1880 had reached the amount of $400,000 per annum. The completion of the Atlantic and Great Western railroad in 1864 gave a great impetus to the manufacturing interests of Akron, and to Mr. King's intelligent activity and financial ability was largely due the advanced position as a manufacturing point of which Akron is justly proud. All enterprises for the promotion of the city's growth found in Mr. King a liberal supporter and capable worker. He was prominent in securing the extension of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and in 1871 was elected president of the Valley railroad, the establishing of which he did so much to secure. At the death of his father, Judge Leicester King, Mr. King assumed the management of the large landed estate which his father owned in company with Gen. Simon Perkins, pursuing a policy in the disposal of these lands which materially aided the interests of the growing city.

A member of St. Paul's Episcopal church and for more than 15 years an active superintendent of its Sunday school, he was always found a prominent worker in all charitable and benevolent enterprises. Mrs. King still resides at Akron, Ohio.

CATHIERINE BRINDLEY⁸ KING, (Leicester,⁷ David,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² William¹), born in Warren, O., July

8, 1832; died Jany. 17, 1907; married Sept. 19, 1855, Prof. William Kimbrough Pendleton, born in Louisa Co., Va., 1817; died in Bethany, W. Va., Sept. 2, 1899. He was one of the founders of the College of the Christian Church at Bethany, West Virginia, and a co-laborer with Alexander Campbell in the building and founding of the great body of Christ's Disciples which it represents. Prof. Pendleton undertook the financial and educational portion of the development of Mr. Campbell's ideas of the method by which the religion of Christ should be taught and without his personality the history of the Christian Church as a great and powerful organization might never have been written. Entering the University of Virginia in 1836 he graduated from that institution taking up the profession of law. In 1845 he was made Vice-President of Bethany College. Mr. Campbell being then President, and from that time forth the responsibility of the institution devolved very largely upon Prof. Pendleton. When he married Miss King he was still a young man with his life's work before him and the loving companionship, the counsel and assistance given him through his long life by Mrs. Pendleton, who for forty-four years stood by his side in joy and in sorrow cannot be overestimated in casting up the final account of the work accomplished by him. He was made President of the College in 1866, which position he held until 1884, when he resigned, being then in his sixty-eighth year and feeling the burden too heavy for him; he became soon after a resident of Eustis, Florida, the beautiful home being occupied by Mrs. Pendleton until her death and which is known as "The Palms." In 1872, being nominated by both Republican and Democratic parties, Prof. Pendleton served in the Constitutional Convention of West Virginia. Mrs. Pendleton died Jany. 17, 1907, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Lamar, in Augusta, Ga.

HOLLY LEAVITT⁸ KING, (Israel Holly⁷, David⁶, Ebenezer⁵, Ebenezer⁴, James³, James², William¹), generally called and known as LEAVITT HOLLY KING, (Christian names transposed), born in Suffield, Conn., Nov. 4, 1815; died in Medina, Ohio, April 3, 1840; married in Southwick, Mass., Aug. 24, 1837, Caroline Matilda Hosmer, daughter of William and Eunice (Stiles) Hosmer, born in Southwick, Mass., Nov. 30, 1815; died in St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11, 1872. Interred St. Paul, Minn. Her father was a son of William Hosmer, a participant in the skirmish at North Bridge, Concord, April 19, 1775; also a great-grandson of Capt. Thomas Hosmer, who held a Connecticut commission in the Colonial wars. Her mother was a descendant from John Stiles, an early settler in Windsor, Conn., from whom also descended in the fifth generation, President Ezra Stiles, D. D., of Yale College; her mother was a great-granddaughter of Johan Stiles, progenitor of the Westfield, Mass., branch of the family, also granddaughter of Lieut. Gideon Stiles, killed in Indian warfare. Leavitt Holly King was a dry goods merchant, with his uncle David King, in Medina. Interred at Medina, Ohio. Head stone on grave. His widow, Mrs. Caroline M. King, subsequently married Andrew M. Torbet and had other children.

Y., born March 1, 1826; died June 19, 1892. After the death of his father, Leonard Jarvis King, March 20, 1835, he made his home with his uncle, David King, in Medina, Ohio, and was for some years employed by him in his business there and later went into business for himself. Under the influence of the Evangelist, Rev. John T. Avery, he came into the Christian life, and went to Oberlin College as a student with a view to preparing himself for the ministry. He left Oberlin, probably in 1854, to become Secretary and Treasurer of Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich., which position he held for a number of years, doing some teaching also in connection with his office work. He was then appointed Cashier of the First National Bank of Hillsdale, Mich., and in the early '70s he accepted appointment as United States Indian Agent at Leech Lake, Minnesota, where he remained until 1884. Shortly after he removed to Oberlin, Ohio, where he remained until his death. The central work of his life was no doubt done during the twenty years of his residence at Hillsdale, Michigan, where he was a very influential factor in both college and town affairs.

Smith. Rev. Dan Rising King, though not a graduate of any college, was given a liberal education in the schools and academies accessible in those times. In 1862 he was ordained a minister of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, then known as the Cambelite Church, and served the Church in Chardon, O., the greater part of the time through a period of twenty years being at the same time engaged in secular pursuits. He has also served the churches in Montville, Mentor, Painesville and Geneva, Ohio, and Chico, California. On April 1, 1887, Rev. Mr. King began his ministry at Collinwood, Ohio, which continued nine years during which time a very large number of persons were added to his church. Having then arrived at the age of sixty-one years, he did not remain in the pastorate of a church but engaged in the insurance business and later was elected Treasurer of the village of Collinwood, which office he has now filled for eight years. He is at the same time Clerk of the Health Department of that village. With scarcely a gray hair he is still an active, vigorous man.

the change in guns and in order to continue a good powder trade, the company had to undertake the manufacture of fixed ammunition. Consequently a second company, The Peters Cartridge Co., of which Mr. King also became and still is manager. It is considered one of the largest cartridge plants in the United States. The town of King's Mills was built to accommodate the employes of these companies and at present (1907) there are from 1200 to 1500 persons employed in both companies. The town of King's Mills stands back from the river quite a distance and is a very pretty place. Mr. King is also President of the Loveland National Bank at Loveland, Ohio.

ROBERT NEWTON⁸ KING, (Lyman,⁷ Samuel,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² William¹), born in New Brunswick, N. J., May 6, 1845; married May 13, 1879. Harriet Snyder, born Nov. 30, 1852. While an infant his parents removed to Springfield, Mass. He was educated at the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield. Later he was associated with his father in the commission business and the manufacture of woolen goods. After the failure of his father and the closing down of the woolen mills he engaged in railroad contracting and in 1875, in connection with other Springfield men, took the contract to build 110 miles of railroad which is now a part of the C. H. & D. system. He afterward became interested in manufacturing and organized the "Stilwell-Bierce-Smith-Vail Corporation" with a capital of $1,000,000 and for many years was president of the same. While he occupied that position the company became the largest manufacturers of water wheels in the world; also manufacturing pumping and linseed oil machinery. He is now (1907) largely engaged in the development of water-power and long-distance electrical transmission, as well as interested in mining and water companies. He resides with his family at 133 West Second St., Dayton, Ohio. Children born in Dayton.

HELEN MARIE⁸ KING, (Abel,⁷ Benoni,⁶ Dan,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., July 21, 1833; died in Suffield, April 16, 1907. As the only child and heiress of the large estate of her father, Abel King, who was for many years a leading business man in Suffield, Conn., Miss King became familiar with business methods under his instruction and so capable did she prove to be as a pupil that in his later years he regarded her as a valued adviser. After his death she took personal control of her business affairs, managing them with rare skill and discretion, her securities being among the most desirable held in the town. To a careful education obtained in the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield, she added a liberal course of reading, and, as her summers were always spent in travel, she learned much by observation, giving her a most intelligent view of life and making her conversation full of interest. She was prominent in the best social circles of Suffield and was a generous contributor to local philanthropies and to the work of the Baptist Church of which her parents were also members. Among other organizations to which she belonged was the Suffield Woman's Club. She was a charter member of Sybil Dwight Kent Chapter of D. A. R., her number in the order being 15,464, and she was the historian of that chapter until her failing health compelled her to resign the office. She resided at Suffield at the time of her decease on April 16, 1907.

Mr. George C. King was at Hastings Law College, Law Department of the University of California, 1893-1896. At the breaking out of the war with Spain, in 1898, he volunteered and was a private in Troop B, First United States Volunteer Cavalry, better known as Roosevelt's Rough Riders. He was in the battles of Las Guasimas, San Juan Hill, Santiago and in every battle fought in Cuba in which the Rough Riders were engaged. Colonel Roosevelt, now President Roosevelt, presented Mr. King with the following autograph testimonial as to his services as a soldier:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

George C. King was a private in *Troop B of my regiment, of good character, and showed with brave and meritorious conduct in the battle of Las Guasimas, June 24th 1898, the Charge up San Juan Hill, July 1st 1898 and battles before Santiago July 2d and 3rd 1898, also subsequent bombardment of Santiago July 10th and 11th, 1898, and throughout the entire pampaign in Cuba as one of my Rough Riders. He showed himself a good soldier, alike on the march, in camp, and in battle.

Theodore Roosevelt
Col. 1st U.S. Cavalry

Mr. King is also in possession of several other autograph letters from President Roosevelt in which the President expresses his high regard for the young soldier and exhibits a deep interest in his future welfare. In his history of the Rough Riders and their campaign in Cuba the President takes occasion to mention Mr. King in flattering terms.

GEORGE CAMERON KING.

General Leonard Wood also commended Mr. King's conduct and recommended him for promotion to a lieutenancy, as follows:

Headquarters Department of Santiago, and Puerto Principe,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE.
CIVIL DEPARTMENT

Santiago de Cuba, August 25, 1899.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

GEORGE C. KING served with credit in the First U. S. Volunteer Cavalry, and was present at the action of Guasimus and the assault on the works in front of Santiago, July 1st. 1898.

He is a well-educated intelligent man of good habits and qualified to hold a commission as Lieutenant in the Volunteer service, and will, I believe, if commissioned, render a good account of himself.

I recommend him for a commission as Lieutenant in the Volunteers.

Brigadier General, U. S. V.,
Commanding Department.

Severe illness resulting from fever caused by exposure in the Cuban campaign rendered it impossible, however, for Mr. King to remain in the army. He began the practice of law at San Francisco, Cal., with Mr. Emil Liess, under the firm name of Liess & King, and soon acquired a lucrative practice, but his system had become so debilitated by the Cuban fever, which reappeared at intervals, that, having contracted a cold which settled on his lungs, he was warned by his physicians that he could not live in the moist atmosphere of San Francisco and that he must seek a dry climate and greater altitude. After a brief sojourn in Arizona, therefore, he has taken up his residence in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, in Placer County, California, where he is recovering his health and strength. He was commander of Nelson A. Miles Camp, No. 10, Department of California, United Spanish War Veterans. Mr. and Mrs. King have no children.

Mr. Lochiel M. King attended first the College of Pharmacy and later the Toland Medical College of the University of California, class of 1896. Becoming interested in mining enterprises, he did not take up the practice of medicine but studied chemistry, assaying, mining engineering and metallurgy. From 1900 to 1904 he was superintendent of the Pacific Coast Ore Sampling Works, Oakland, Cal., purchasers of gold and silver ores and concentrates. In 1904 he formed a partnership with Ernest H. Simonds, M. E., under the firm name of Simonds & King. They did a large business as mining and metallurgical engineers, chemists and assayers at San Francisco until burned out by the great fire of April 18, 1906. Mr. Simonds then withdrew from the firm. Mr. King conducted the business alone, re-establishing it in San Francisco and enlarging its plant and scope under the name "The King Metallurgical Laboratories," located at southeast corner Second and Minna streets. Mr. King is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. King reside at 1605 Walnut Street, Alameda, California.

APPENDICES.

FULLER-KING

ELIZABETH FULLER, born at Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652; died at Suffield, Conn., June 30, 1715; was married March 23, 1674, at Ipswich, to JAMES² KING, (William¹), the founder of the King family of Suffield, Conn., and was therefore the first maternal ancestor of that family born in America. For this reason her ancestry and some account of her father and mother and their respective families may appropriately find a place here.

Elizabeth Fuller was the daughter of John Fuller, who settled in Ipswich, Mass., in 1635, and died there May 1, 1666, and there has been considerable controversy as to his ancestry. Professor Homer W. Brainard, of Hartford, Conn., in his genealogy of the family of Edward Fuller, brother of the historic Dr. Samuel Fuller (N. Y. Hist. and Biograph. Record, Vol. 33, p. 172, July, 1902), says: "It is highly probable that John Fuller, of Ipswich, in 1635, and William Fuller, of Hampton, his brother, Thomas Fuller, of Woburn; Thomas Fuller, of Dedham; Giles Fuller, of Hampton, and Mathew Fuller, of Barnstable, were all relatives of Dr. Samuel and Edward Fuller." With the exception of Thomas Fuller, of Woburn, I think Professor Brainard's statement is probably correct and that they were all descendants of a Fuller family which, as early as 1482, were living in Redenhall, County Norfolk, England, and of which I shall speak hereafter.

The Fuller family took an important part in the founding of New England and some of its members were very conspicuous in the early history of the colony. Among these was Dr. Samuel Fuller, described as a physician "and also say-maker" (weaver of a kind of serge used for linings, shirts, aprons, etc.). In 1607-8 large numbers of Englishmen unable to find religious freedom in their own country fled to Holland, "where they had heard was freedom of religion for all men." Dr. Samuel Fuller perhaps went with them at that time, or, if not, he soon thereafter joined them at Leyden, Holland, and there became the close friend of William Bradford, one of the English refugees, and then a silk-weaver at Leyden, but afterwards the able Governor of Plymouth Colony, New England, and later its accurate historian. In 1620 Dr. Samuel Fuller was one of those who embarked at Delfthaven, Holland, on the "Speedwell" for America, and when that vessel proved to be unseaworthy and was abandoned he and his brother, Edward Fuller, the latter's wife and their son Samuel, and William Butten, the servant of Dr. Samuel Fuller, made five of the one hundred and two Puritan passengers whom the little Mayflower carried to the wilds of America, where they could worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences. Dr. Samuel Fuller and his brother, Edward Fuller, were signers of the "covenant" executed on board the Mayflower at "Cape Codd ye 11 of Nouember, Ano. Dom. 1620."

There appears in the passenger list of those to be transported in the ship Abigail from England to New England, May, 1635, the following entries: "William Fuller, 25 years; Jo. Fuller, 15 years." The Jo. Fuller mentioned in this list was John Fuller, the father of Elizabeth. John and William Fuller came to New England together and settled at Ipswich, Mass., where William became a proprietor in 1635. William removed from Ipswich in 1637 and sold his lands there in 1639. He bought lands in Hampton, N. H., in 1647, where he was a gunsmith. His wife, Elizabeth, died there in 1642. He was a Representative in 1667 and died at Hampton, May 26, 1693.

John Fuller, father of Elizabeth (Fuller) King, was therefore an inhabitant of Ipswich, Mass., in 1635. He married in Ipswich, Elizabeth Emerson, baptized at Bishop's Stortford, County Herts, England, June 14, 1623. She was the daughter of Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich, Mass. (1638), baptized at Bishop's Stortford, County Herts, England, July 26, 1584; died at Ipswich, Mass., May 1, 1666; married at Bishop's Stortford, July 1, 1611, Elizabeth Brewster. Thomas Emerson was the immigrant ancestor of Ralph Waldo Emerson (See Emerson-King post). John Fuller was one of General Denison's subscribers in 1648, town surveyor of Ipswich in 1663, a Commoner in 1664, and owned land near Rocky Hill. He died at Ipswich, June 4, 1666, leaving a will which is still on record at Salem, Mass., in Essex probate registry. (See also New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vol. 53, p. 335.) The will was not dated, but was probated Sept. 25, 1666. His wife survived him and married Thomas Perrin.

In his will John Fuller mentions his children as follows: John, James, William, Thomas, Nathaniel, Joseph, Susanna, Elizabeth (afterwards wife of James King, of Suffield, Conn), Sarah and a child whose birth was expected (Mary). The will states that his "daughters Susanna and Elizabeth, their grandfather hath lately given them portions." The "grandfather" therein mentioned was their mother's father, Thomas Emerson, who mentions

Susanna and Elizabeth in a codicil (dated Jany. 4, 1660), to his will, dated May 31, 1653, and proved May 10, 1666. The portion of the codicil to the will of Thomas Emerson referring to Susanna and Elizabeth is as follows: "Also in refrens to the twenty-fifth lin of this my wil it is to be understod that what ther is mentioned as to my daughter ffulor is my intent that it shall be holy and fuly devided between hur tow daughter at ye age of twenty yers or at ye day of mariadg Susanna and Elizabeth." The twenty-fifth line of his will alluded to in this codicil is as follows: "Item I give vnto my daughter Elisabeth ffullor the best fether bed and boulster with a paire of blanketts and the best couerlett and the bedsted to Injoy for hir use untill hir daughter Susana atayne the age of Twenty yeares or day of hir mariage if shall happen sooner and then she to injoy them alsoe. I giue vnto my sayd daughter the great carued chest & the carued box with a little Trunck with all yt is in it and a small carued chest with what is in it."

John Fuller also mentions in his will his sons, John and William, to whom he "bequeaths no more because their uncle hath undertaken to give them sufficient portions." This very clause in the will, when taken in connection with other facts, seems to constitute strong evidence that the testator, John Fuller, was the son of Roger Fuller, of Topcroft, County Norfolk, England, 1572-1644. Mr. Edward F. Everett, of Charleston, Mass., in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (Vol. 53, p. 335) very truly says: "No town entries at Ipswich, Mass., record the marriage or death of these two sons, John and William, nor do their names appear on the church record there, therefore indicating they were not residents of Ipswich, yet we know they were living in 1680, as their names appear on the probate records in that year when the estate of their brother Thomas was divided. All other brothers and sisters, and their families, are on the Ipswich town records. It is thus necessary to look elsewhere for John and William. We find a deposition of a William Fuller, of Hampton, N. H., who states that he was seventy-three (73) years of age in 1681, and that he came from Ipswich to Hampton, that he had a brother and son John, the last thirty-eight (38) years old in 1681. We have seen that a William Fuller left England in May, 1635, accompanied by John Fuller (supposed to be a brother) in the ship Abigail, William's age being stated on the passenger list as twenty-five years and John's at fifteen years, which would make that William's age in 1681 possibly between seventy-two and seventy-three years, or in his seventy-third year. We have seen also that the William who was twenty-five years in 1635 settled at Ipswich, removed from there, sold his lands there in 1639, bought lands in Hampton in 1647, was a Representative in 1667 and died at Hampton May 26, 1693." "In Hampton also," says Mr. Everett, "we have a John and a William, Jr., whose parentage has never been decided, only supposed, who will fill the requirements of our John and William (sons of John of Ipswich) with an uncle William (Sr.) able to "undertake to give them sufficient portions." It has been conceded that William Fuller, Sr., of Hampton, was the son of Roger Fuller, of Topcroft, County Norfolk, England, and the Topcroft Parish Register of Baptisms (see New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vol. 48, p. 345) contains the following entry: "1611—William, son of Roger, baptized Dec. 14." If this be the same William Fuller who in May, 1635, sailed with John Fuller from England on the ship Abigail, his age would be about twenty-five years, as set forth on the passenger list of that ship. In addition to this Roger Fuller, of Topcroft, in his will proved in the Archdeaconry of Norwich, August 1644, mentions his son William. It is true that the will of Roger Fuller does not mention any son named John nor does the parish register disclose the baptism of any child of Roger bearing the name John, but neither did the will of Roger nor the parish registers mention Giles Fuller as a son of Roger, and yet in the probate court at Hampton, N. H., it was shown by indisputable evidence that Giles Fuller, who died at Hampton in 1673, was a son of this Roger Fuller of Topcroft. I am inclined to think, from all the evidence now at hand, that John Fuller of Ipswich, Mass., was the son of Roger Fuller, of Topcroft, County Norfolk, England. It is possible, however, that he may be the son of some other member of this English family of Fuller, whose descendants were very numerous in the parishes of Redenhall, Harleston, Wortwell and Topcroft, County Norfolk, England.

Mr. Francis H. Fuller, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., furnished to the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (Vol. 55, p. 192, and Vol. 48, p. 345) the record of baptisms, marriages and burials from the parish registers of Redenhall, Harleston, Wortwell and Topcroft, County Norfolk, England. These registers shows (among others) the following baptisms:

1609—Wyllm Fuller, son of John Fuller, deceased, and Margaret, bapt. 30 June.

1609—William Fuller, son of Rafe Fuller and Elizabeth, his wife, bapt. 15 Aug.

1611—William Fuller, son of William and Elizabeth Fuller, bapt. 5 March.

1611—William Fuller, son of Roger Fuller (of Topcroft), bapt. 14 Dec.

Any one of these Williams would closely answer the description of the William Fuller who embarked on the Abigail, 1635, then aged twenty-five years, and also be sufficiently close to the William Fuller of Hampton who was about seventy-three years of age in 1681. There are also several of the name of John Fuller whose baptisms are mentioned in these parish registers and whose ages would closely correspond to that of our John Fuller of Ipswich, Mass. There were in this very large family of Fuller at Redenhall, Wortwell, Topcroft, Mendham and vicinity—all closely related—very many named John and William, so that it is hard to distinguish them and easy to mistake one for the other, but no matter which we take or what their relationship to each other may have been the ancestry of each and all of them leads us directly back to one and the same ancestor who was a still older John Fuller, who died at Redenhall May 3, 1558. I will therefore proceed with a brief synopsis of the English ancestry of the Fuller family, embracing to some extent all the principal branches, from which it will also be seen that Dr. Samuel Fuller and Edward Fuller, his brother, the Mayflower Pilgrims; Surgeon-General Mathew Fuller, Thomas Fuller of Dedham, Giles Fuller of Hampton, William Fuller of Hampton, and our John Fuller of Ipswich, Mass., whose daughter Elizabeth married James King of Suffield, Conn., were all closely related. In following out the several lines, however, I shall proceed upon the theory, which I think is the best supported by the evidence, that John Fuller of Ipswich was the son of Roger Fuller of Topcroft, County Norfolk, England. For this English ancestry I am indebted to an article in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (Vol. 55, p. 192) written by Mr. Francis H. Fuller of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

There were living in Redenhall, County Norfolk, England, in 1482 and 1488, John and William Fuller, both freeholders, as they were serving on a jury. In 1508 William Fuller and John Fuller, Jr., were named as grantees in a deed of land in Redenhall. This land was bounded on one side by the "Free land of John Fuller." A copy of this deed may be seen in the Egerton MSS. 2713, fol. 7, British Museum. These Fullers, who lived at Redenhall and owned estates there prior to 1482, were the progenitors of those whose names are given below, but as there were no parish records in England before 1538 no record of baptisms, marriages or burials prior to that time can be given. I shall therefore begin the English ancestry of the family with John and William Fuller, A. D. 1482, and continue it down to 1635, when a John and William Fuller emigrated from England to America. In giving the issue of the several ancestors below named I have omitted the great majority of their children to save space and because they are unnecessary to my purpose, which is simply to show the direct lineage of John Fuller of Ipswich, Mass., in 1635, whose daughter Elizabeth married James King of Suffield, Conn., March 23, 1674.

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN¹ FULLER and WILLIAM FULLER were freeholders in Redenhall, County Norfolk, England, in 1482, 1488, 1508, etc. They are the first ancestors of our Fuller family of whom at present we have a definite record. The child of one of these—probably of John, since John, Jr., is mentioned in the deed above referred to made A. D. 1508—was.

ISSUE:

- 2 i. JOHN,² b. ——; died in Redenhall, May 3, 1559.

SECOND GENERATION.

2

JOHN² FULLER, (John¹), born ——; died in Redenhall, May 3, 1559; married ——. He left a will. Register, Coleman, fol. 325. "Will of John Fuller, the elder, dated 4 Feb., 1558-9, proved 12 May, 1559. Gives to son, John Fuller, all lands and tenements, both bound and free, in Redenhall, Wortwell or elleswyer," he paying my son Robert Fuller £10. To Ales, my daughter, £6 8s. 4d. (Several small bequests.) Son John, executor; witnesses, Thomas Fuller, Thomas Warde, John Barne, William Norton."

ISSUE:

- 3 i. JOHN,³ born ——; died May 15, 1599; married Ann ——, who survived him and married Giles Chalker.
 ii. Robert, born ——; died May 23, 1614; married Frances ——. His will, dated May 19, 1614, was proved May 31, 1614. He left several children, among whom were the following, who emigrated to New England and were conspicuous in the history of the Plymouth Colony.

ISSUE:

- 1 Edward, born Sept. 4, 1575; died in New England 1621. Was a passenger on the Mayflower to New England, 1620.
- 2 Samuel (Dr.), born Jany. 20, 1580; died in New England, 1633. Was a passenger on the Mayflower to New England, 1620.
- 3 Mathew, of Barnstable (1640) Surgeon-General of Plymouth Colony, 1673.

THIRD GENERATION.

3

JOHN³ FULLER, (John² John¹), born ——; died May 15, 1599; married Ann Collinge, who survived him and married Giles Chalker. I suppose this John Fuller to have been the grandfather of our John Fuller, of Ipswich, Mass., in 1635. He left a will dated Jany. 28, 1598-9, proved May 8, 1599, in which he names among his sons "Thomas, the younger" and "Thomas, the elder;" "Younge William my sonne" and "Ould William, my sonne," also names other children. The following are some of his children, the names of several being omitted here.

ISSUE:

- i. William,⁴ called in his father's will "Ould William," died in 1643; married Elizabeth —— and had a son William, baptized March 5, 1611, who may possibly be the William who accompanied John Fuller to America on the ship Abigail in 1635.
- ii. William, called in his father's will "Younge William;" died in 1611; married Nov. 25, 1581, Alice Linge. Among other children he had a son named Ralph (Rafe), born Nov. 8, 1584; died July 12, 1649; married Nov. 3, 1608, Elizabeth Eliot, and they had a child named John, baptized April 6, 1617, and another child named William, baptized Aug. 15, 1609. It is barely possible that these were the William Fuller, aged twenty-five years, and John Fuller, aged fifteen years, who embarked on the ship Abigail in 1635 and went to Ipswich, Mass. Another child of Ralph and Elizabeth (Eliot) Fuller was Thomas Fuller, who emigrated to New England and settled in Dedham, Mass.
- 4 iii. ROGER, born Oct. 19, 1572; died April 30, 1644; married April 24, 1600, Jane Gowan.

FOURTH GENERATION.

ROGER⁴ FULLER, (John,³ John,² John¹), born Oct. 19, 1572; died April 30, 1644; married April 24, 1600, Jane Gowan. Roger Fuller lived and died in Topcroft, County Norfolk, England. He left a will, proved Aug., 1644. His will omits to mention some of his chidren. Even the parish registers do not show the baptism of some of his children. His son Giles Fuller was not mentioned in his father's will, nor does his name appear on the parish registers, yet when Giles died in Hampton, N. H., in 1673, he was clearly shown in the probate court to be a son of Roger Fuller of Topcroft by the testimony of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thurston. "It is a remarkable fact," says Mr. Francis H. Fuller of Jamaica Plain, Mass., "that the death of this unregistered and, in the will of his father, unmentioned man Giles Fuller, was the sole means of accidentally disclosing the birthplace and ancestry of the Fuller family, which included in it so many persons prominent in the affairs of early New England and to which family belonged the historic Dr. Samuel Fuller." The children of Roger Fuller were (among others) as follows, some being here omitted:

ISSUE:

- i. Elizabeth⁵, who married her cousin, a John Fuller, son perhaps of Ralph Fuller.
- ii. Giles, who died at Hampton, N. H., 1673. His name does not appear in the parish registers, nor is he mentioned in his father's will.
- iii. Susanna, married Mr. Thurston.
- iv. William, baptized Dec. 14, 1611. Is mentioned in his father's will. Went to New England in company (as is generally believed) with John Fuller on the ship Abigail in May, 1635. He settled in Hampton, N. H., and in 1681 made an affidavit in which he stated that he came to Hampton from Ipswich, Mass., and that he had a brother John.
- 5 v. JOHN, born —; died in Ipswich, Mass., June 4, 1666; married in Ipswich Elizabeth Emerson. I place his name here as a son of Roger because of the affidavit of William Fuller made at Hampton in 1681, and also for the reason given by Mr. Edward F. Everett which I have quoted above herein on page 503. The name of John does not appear in the will of Roger Fuller, nor does the parish register show the baptism of any son of Roger named John. The same, however, was true of Roger's son, Giles.

FIFTH GENERATION.

JOHN⁵ FULLER, (Roger,⁴ John,³ John,² John¹), born ——; died in Ipswich, Mass., June 4, 1666; married in Ipswich, Mass., Elizabeth Emerson, baptized June 14, 1623, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Brewster) Emerson of Ipswich, Mass., in 1638. In his will John Fuller provided that his son James was to have a double share "if any estate were recovered in England," and it may be that the failure of Roger Fuller to mention some of his children in his will was relied upon by John Fuller as a ground for the recovery of a share of the estate which Roger Fuller left. A very complete genealogy of the several descendants of John Fuller may be found in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 53, p. 335.

ISSUE:

- i. John.⁶. Did not live in Ipswich, N. H., but probably lived in Hampton, N. H.
- ii. William. Like his brother John probably lived in Hampton.
- iii. James, born 1646; died June 21, 1725; married Oct. 20, 1672, Mary Ring.
- iv. Joseph, born 1648; died Aug. 22, 1731; married Oct. 1, 1685, Mary Wood.
- v. Susanna, b. ——; d. ——; married Oct. 25, 1671, William Stacy.
- 6 vi. ELIZABETH, born May 31, 1652; died Suffield, Conn., June 30, 1715; married March 23, 1674, James King.
- vii. Thomas, b. ——; died Sept., 1689.
- viii. Nathaniel, b. ——; died 1719; married, 1708, Mary Jackson.
- ix. Sarah, b.—; d.—; married Nov., 1679, Nathaniel Hovey.
- x. Mary (posthumous).

SIXTH GENERATION.

ELIZABETH⁶ FULLER (John,⁵ Roger,⁴ John,³ John,² John¹), born in Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652; died in Suffield, Conn., June 30, 1715; married in Ipswich, Mass., March 23, 1674, James King, born at Ugborough, Devonshire, England, Nov. 7, 1647; died in Suffield, Conn., May 13, 1722.

EMERSON-KING

ELIZABETH EMERSON, baptized June 14, 1623, at Bishop's, Stortford, County Herts, England, daughter of Thomas Emerson of Ipswich, Mass., 1638, married John Fuller, of Ipswich, and one of the children of this marriage, Elizabeth Fuller, married March 23, 1674, James King, the founder of the King family of Suffield, Conn. Elizabeth Emerson forms, therefore, the connecting link between the Emerson and King families.

The great genius of Ralph Waldo Emerson, one of the greatest thinkers and writers of America, and who was of the eighth generation of the Emerson family in this country, has shed a luster upon the name that will long endure.

"Richardus fil. Emerici," from the writs of parliament of the thirteenth century (Bardsley, English Surnames, 2d Ed., 1875, p. 29) says Professor B. K. Emerson, is perhaps the earliest and, as it were, embryonic form of the name in England, and at a time when modern surnames were in a process of formation. It was the son of Emory, a patronymic introduced into England by the Normans, according to Bardsley, from the continent where as Americ, Emeric, Almeric, Almaric, Eimeric it had a wide and early use, and whence in its Italian form Amerigo, it has given a name to the New World. Emery's son became Emmerisson, Emmerson, and most widely, Emerson." Mr. Lower in his "Patronymica Britannica" says:

"Names derived from baptismal names (in the genitive case), i. e., Emerson, genitive of Emary from Almeric, Amery, Emery, Amerigo, from Amalrich, meaning an exalted ruler (ric)."

It is asserted however in Burke's Landed Gentry that the family of D'Amery came to England with the conqueror from Tours. In 1129 Roger de Amar witnessed the charter of Oseny. About 1180 Ralph was Lord of Hamars in Normandy. In Leland's copy of the Roll of Battell Abbey (a list of the chief officers and companions of William, the Conqueror) occurs the name D'Amary. The Emersons in England seem to have sprung from that Aimeric, Archdeacon of Carlisle and Durham, 1196-1214, and high sheriff of Northumberland, 1214-1215, who was the nephew of Bishop Phillip of Poictou, Prince Bishop of Durham, 1195, and previously, clericum et familiarem of Richard Coeur-de-Leon. Both the bishop and archdeacon had married before they took orders in the church. (The pedigree is given in Surtee's History of Durham, Vol. 4, p. 137). The Archdeacon Aimeric had a son, Emeric de Lidgate, and two grandchildren, Richard fil. Emeric and Emeric fil Emeric. This descent explains the long connection of the Emersons with the bishopric of Durham, especially as parkers, foresters, and gatekeepers of the great park belonging to the bishopric. The early mention of the name in England has already been quoted—Richardus fil. Emerici (Richard Emerson) in the writs of parliament of the thirteenth century.

The arms of the Emerson family were originally granted to Ralph (Ralf, Raffe, Rafe) Emerson of Foxton, in the Bishopric of Durham, England, in 1535, and are blazoned (according to Professor Benjamin Kendall Emerson) as follows: "Per fesse indented vert and or, a bend engrailed az. charged with three lions passant arg. crest: A demi-lion rampant vert, bezante, grasping a battle axe gules, headed arg." On the walls of the library of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, Boston, Mass., hangs a blazon of the Emerson arms in water colors, under the face of which is written: "The arms and crest above depicted were granted to Ralph Emerson of Foxton, in the county palatine of Durham, by Tho: Wall, Garter, Principal King of Arms. Ano. 26, Henry VIII. Ita testor: Rob. Dale, Faecialis Titulo Suffolc. Colleg. Armor, Registrarij Deputatus. 25 Jany., 1539."

I have extracted the foregoing information from the book of Professor B. K. Emerson, "The Ipswich Emersons," which contains a very full account of the English ancestry of the family and also a most complete genealogy of the descendants of Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich, Mass. I shall also take from his book the record of the Emersons given below, beginning with their English ancestry and following down the American line to its connection with the King family.

FIRST GENERATION.

RALF¹ EMERSON, of Foxton, Bishopric of Durham, granted arms A. D. 1535.

ISSUE:

2 1. THOMAS² EMMERSON, born before 1540.

SECOND GENERATION.

THOMAS² EMMERSON, (Ralf¹), born before 1540. Birthplace not known, but he was a resident of Great Dunmow, County

Essex, England, where his three children are registered as follows:

ISSUE:

- 3 i. ROBERT,³ bapt. 25 Oct., 1561.
- ii. John, bapt. 1562.
- iii. John, bapt. 1565.

THIRD GENERATION.

3

ROBERT³ EMERSON, (Thomas,² Ralf¹), baptized at Great Dunmow, County Essex, England, Oct. 25, 1561; buried at Bishop's Stortford (seven miles from Great Dunmow) Jany. 6, 1620. His will was proved 1620 (as Robert Emberson). He married at Bishop's Stortford, County Herts, Nov. 24, 1578, Susan Crabb, who died there Nov. 20, 1626.

ISSUE:

- i. Alice,⁴ baptized Nov. 22, 1579.
- ii. Margaret, baptized Feb. 21, 1582; married T. Brown, of Southwark.
- 4 iii. THOMAS, baptized Bishop's Stortford, July 26, 1584; married Elizabeth Brewster, July 1, 1611.
- iv. Anne, not recorded as baptized; married July 1, 1611, J. Rogers.
- v. Robert, baptized April 12, 1596; not mentioned in father's will.
- vi. John, not recorded as baptized, but mentioned in father's will.

FOURTH GENERATION.

THOMAS⁴ EMERSON, (Robert,³ Thomas,² Ralf¹), baptized at Bishop's Stortford, County Herts, England, July 26, 1584; died in Ipswich, Mass., May 1, 1666; married at Bishop's Stortford, July 1, 1611, Elizabeth Brewster. Little is known of the life of Thomas Emerson before he came to Ipswich, Mass., 1636-1638. In the church warden's book of St. Michael's church, at Bishop's Stortford, he is recorded in 1636 as collector for the poor. His wife Elizabeth may have been the daughter of William Brewster, postmaster at Scrooby and the famous elder of the Pilgrims in 1620.

Thomas Emerson certainly resided at Ipswich, Mass., as early as 1638, when he had eighty acres of land granted him adjoining Goodman Muzzy. He left a will dated May 31, 1653, to which was attached a codicil, dated Jany. 4, 1660, proved May 10, 1666. An extract from the will can be seen in the "Fuller-King" Appendix ante. The will mentions his daughter Elizabeth Fuller and her daughter (his grandchild) Elizabeth afterward wife of James King of Suffield. Thomas acquired a very considerable property which he disposed of by his will, his wife surviving him and being executrix thereof. Their children, as recorded in the parish register of Baptisms of St. Michael's Church at Bishop's Stortford, County Herts, England, were as follows:

ISSUE:

- i. Robert,⁵ baptized May 24, 1612; died at Haverhill, Mass., June 25, 1694.
- ii. Benjamin, b. and d. Oct., 1614.
- iii. Ralfe, baptized October 19, 1615; buried June 8, 1626.
- iv. James, baptized Feb. 16, 1617; a lieutenant colonel; d. at Tangier, 1664; never came to America.
- v. Joseph, b. June 25, 1620; a minister; died at Concord, Mass., Jany. 3, 1680.
- 5 vi. ELIZABETH, baptized June 14, 1623; married at Ipswich, Mass., John Fuller.
- vii. John, baptized Feb. 26, 1625; died at Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 2, 1700; left large property.
- viii. Thomas, died 1653.
- ix. Nathaniel, baptized July 18, 1630; died at Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 29, 1712.
- x. Susan, baptized March 17, 1632. May have died on voyage to America.

FIFTH GENERATION.

ELIZABETH⁵ EMERSON, (Thomas,⁴ Robert,³ Thomas,² Ralf¹), baptized at Bishop's Stortford, England, June 14, 1623; d. ——; married John Fuller.

ISSUE:

- 6 i. ELIZABETH⁶ FULLER, born Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652; died Suffield, Conn., June 30, 1715; married Ipswich, Mass., March 23, 1674, James King.
Note.—There were nine other children of whom I need make no mention here. See Fuller-King, page 509 ante.

SIXTH GENERATION.

ELIZABETH⁶ FULLER, (Elizabeth⁵ Emerson, Thomas,⁴ Robert,³ Thomas,² Ralf¹), born in Ipswich, Mass., May 31, 1652; died in Suffield, Conn. (then Mass.), June 30, 1715; married in Ipswich, Mass., March 23, 1674, James King. They removed to Suffield, Conn., in 1678 and were the ancestors of our King family of Suffield. Their descendants are given in the King Genealogy preceding. (See pages 68-81 ante).

DEVOTION - de VAUTION - KING

HANNAH DEVOTION, born in Suffield, Conn., April 24, 1716; died in Suffield, March 4, 1805; married in Suffield, June 2, 1740, Captain Joseph³ King (James,² William¹) and from this union sprang many descendants, now forming an extensive branch of the King family. She descended from an ancient and noble family in France, La Barre de Vaution, de la Guessonniere, which is now said to be extinct in France. The last male of the Devotion family in the United States died recently, and with him the name here also has ceased.

Harvey J. King, Esq., of Troy, N. Y., in his Genealogy of the New York Branch of the King Family of Suffield, Conn., has published some very interesting data concerning the de Vaution and Devotion family, which I take the liberty of reproducing here.

FRENCH ANCESTRY.

"EDWARD DEVOTION, born (of French Huguenot parentage) about 1621, joined the church at Brookline, Mass., March 16, 1645. Mary, his wife, and his son Edward, were baptized Feb. 25, 1649. He settled at Roxbury, Mass., where he died in 1685. When Mr. Harvey J. King compiled his Genealogy of the King Family of Suffield he had, as he says, "long been endeavoring to discover the genesis, in its present form, of the name of the Devotion family, but without success. As Edward Devotion, its first representative in America, was of French descent, it was evident that his name, so distinctively English in its orthography, must have undergone some transformation after he came to New England either in the spelling or by a modification of some kind. Such transformations were of frequent occurrence, not only among the early Dutch settlers in America but also among the French Huguenot refugees as shown by the early histories of New England."

Governor Edward Winslow, himself a passenger on the Mayflower, afterward Governor of Plymouth Colony, and its earliest historian, tells us of the Dutch, French and Walloon members of the church, how "their non-Anglican names were corrupted into English forms such as Cuthbertson for Godbertson, Delano for De la Noye," (Truax for Du Trieux, Bovie for Beaufils), etc.

Many familiar names might be added, including Bowdoin, changed from Baudoin and Sigourney from Sigournais. "The Sigourney family bore the name of a locality in the province of Poitou, where not improbably they may have originated." (See Baird's "The Huguenot Emigration to America," Vol. 1, p. 282) Pertinent in this connection is the fact that Edward Devotion was of French Huguenot origin and came from the vicinity of La Rochelle.

Miss Emma C. King, of Xenia, Ohio, who in 1895 travelled from Paris to La Rochelle for the sole purpose of obtaining information relative to the ancestors of the Devotion family, kindly furnished to Mr. Harvey J. King as the result of her investigation, transcripts from the official records which seem to leave no room for doubt that the name of Edward Devotion, prior to his coming to New England, was written "de VAUTION," and was then changed only by Anglicizing the spelling, the pronunciation remaining unchanged. The fact is worthy of mention that the transcripts in question were obtained through Louis M. Meschinet de Richemond, who is accredited in recent literature as "The learned Rochellese historian." They are supplemented by numerous references to historical data relative to the family contained in "Archives Nationale" and "La France Protestante."

From the transcripts, which include several branches of the family, we copy only the following as sufficient for our present purpose:

DE LA BARRE, DE LA GUESSONNIERE, DE VAUTION.

This family is a native of La Beauce. It produced several branches, one of which was located in Poitou at the end of the fifteenth century; from this latter sprang several small branches, all of which seem now to be extinct in France. We take the verified filiation in volume 15 of Cherin, in the National Library at Paris, Department of Manuscripts. This family belong to the Reformed church before 1585.

"Coat of Arms: La Barre de Vaution, de la Guessonniere l'argent a une bande (alias barre) d'azure, charge de (3) trois coquilles d'or, accompagnée de 2 merlettes de sable, l'une en chef l'autre en point."

"FIRST BRANCH DE VAUTION, DE LA GUESSONNIERE"

I. JEAN DE LA BARRE, Esquire, Lord of VAUBERNARD (native of Dourdan, diocese of Chartres), was the younger son of Jean, lord de Renville, and of Marie de Mazis. He was an Archer of the Guard of the King. He married at the Venerie de Couhe, on Oct. 12, 1492, Jeanne Poispaille (or Poupaille), daughter of Peter, Esquire and of Roberta d'Amaury. (She received for her marriage portion the fief of Balut, Champagné St. Hilaire). From that marriage were born: 1st Jacques (who follows) 2d Louis, etc. (Several others are named and their marriages stated in detail).

2. JACQUES DE LA BARRE, Esquire, lord de VALENFRAY, (above named). He married April 12, 1527, Nicole, daughter of Magdelon Mallevault, Esquire, from which marriage were born: 1st Francois (who follows); 2d Louis, etc. (Several others are named and their marriages stated in detail).

3. FRANCOIS DE LA BARRE, ESQUIRE, lord de LA BARRE et de VAUTION (above named). He obtained a judicial confirmation of his nobility in 1584, and again in 1598, upon exhibiting his titles tracing back as far as 1492. He had married on Oct. 24, 1578, Marie Landry, daughter of late Esquire, lord de Sault, and of Junienne de Puyvert. By this marriage he had: 1st Pierre, etc. (several others are named).

4. PIERRE DE LA BARRE, Esquire, lord de VAUTION. Bois de Luche. (named MONSIEUR DE VAUTION.) He was twice married. First on July 4, 1607, with Louise Blanchard, daughter of Rene, lord de Bonout, and of Anne de Beaumont, and second on July 30, 1617, with Judith de Pellard, daughter of Nachor, Esquire, lord de Montigny, La Guessonnier, and of Judith du Petit Croix.

"It does not appear that any children were born of the first marriage. By the second marriage he had 1st, Jean; 2d, Anne; 3d, Catharine; 4th, Pierre, Esquire, lord de Vaution, etc."

Further transcripts exhibit the pedigree of branches of the family, located at Poitou, Anjou and La Touraine, and state that "All were of the Reformed Religion."

History informs us that more than 500,000 adherents of the "Reformed Religion" became refugees from France to escape the persecutions, or worse, to which all such were subjected during the greater part of the seventeenth century. Most of them settled in England, Holland and other European states, but we are told that many "departed for North America, and as early as 1625 several Huguenot families settled in New York City, then New Amsterdam. Others founded New Rochelle. Those who fled to Massachusetts were settled in Oxford, Worcester County, but soon after removed to Boston." (See American Cyclopaedia, title "Huguenots." Also Baird's "The Huguenot Emigration to America.")

Supplementing the foregoing data, and equally a matter of history, is the significant fact that Edward Devotion, a French Huguenot, and the founder of a New England family, settled in Brookline, which was then a part of Boston, in or prior to the year 1645, as is evidenced by the public records and also those of the Church. While the statistics thus collected do not furnish the connecting link between the pedigrees of Edward Devotion and the de Vauton families referred to, the identity of the names seems to be fairly demonstrated and that they were of one and the same lineage is certainly rendered extremely probable.

In this connection it is interesting to notice the fact that not only has the de Vauton family become extinct in France as above stated by M. Louis M. Meschinet de Richemond, but while there are now living many lineal descendants of Edward Devotion who bear the names of those who became the husbands of daughters who inherited it, not one male descendant bearing his name is now living to perpetuate it and it must soon become extinct. The late John L. Devotion of Norwich, Conn., was the last male representative of the name. His widow and daughters now (1898) reside in the City of New York.

As a well deserved tribute to the memory of six generations who inherited the name of Edward Devotion—a name which soon will only survive as a memory—it may fittingly be added that many of the sons who bore it were prominent in their day and generation in the legal profession, the judiciary and the pulpit, and of the daughters several became the wives or mothers of men distinguished as statesmen, jurists and educators. Prominent among them were two daughters of Rev. Ebenezer Devotion (1714-1771), Martha who in 1761 became the wife of Samuel Huntingdon, afterwards Governor of Connecticut and President of the Continental Congress, and Hannah, who in 1764 became the wife of Rev. Joseph Huntington and later the mother of Samuel Huntington, Governor of Ohio, and of Frances the wife of Rev. Dr. Griffin, President of Williams College.

A complete genealogy of the Devotion family would be of much interest but none has been printed. The most comprehensive of any in print is contained in "Publication No. 14" of the Brookline Publication Society, and was compiled by Mrs. Susan V. Griggs, of Brookline, Mass.

"THE OLD DEVOTION HOUSE."

[From Historical Sketches of Brookline by H. F. Woods.]

"Next west of the Sewall estate (on Harvard Street) is situated what has been in modern times known as the Babcock farm, but in Judge Sewall's day was the property of John Devotion."

John Devotion was a prominent citizen in Muddy River, holding various offices, and his name appears upon the petition for a separate township.

Ebenezer Devotion, a son of John, became a clergyman and removed to Suffield, Connecticut. After the death of John Devotion, the house was occupied by his son Edward and Mary his wife. Edward Devotion was a public spirited citizen, and reference to the old records of the town show that he held various offices of trust for many years.

The house is a curious old relic of former times and the beautiful elms which shade it were no doubt set out by the hands of the ancient owner, whose devotion to the interests of his church and town suggests the idea that a similar characteristic in his ancestry may have earned for the family its very uncommon name.

The town of Brookline has built upon adjoining land a fine primary and kindergarten school, known as "The Edward Devotion School" and it owns the old house. The town is soon to build a grammar school on the site, and "The Isaac Gardner Chapter, D. A. R." is to present a petition to the town to save the old house and to remove it to a position nearby.

AMERICAN ANCESTRY.

The following genealogical and statistical notes are also taken from the book of Mr. Harvey J. King, who compiled them from the official records at Brookline and Roxbury Mass., and Suffield, Connecticut. The portions relative to Edward and John Devotion appear in full also in Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of the First Settlers of New England, and it is there added relative to John Devotion, 1659-1733: "He left a good estate and his son Ebenezer (Harvard College 1707; ordained June 28, 1710), minister of Suffield, Conn.; born at Brookline; was father of Ebenezer⁴ Yale College 1732. Also progenitor of many other graduates of that college."

REMINGTON-KING

MARY REMINGTON, born July 12, 1743; died June 24, 1788, and Lieutenant Eliphalet King, born February 6, 1743, died August 29, 1821, my patriot great-grandsire who fought at Bunker Hill and in other battles during the war of the Revolution, were married at Suffield, Connecticut, Nov. 3, 1768. She was therefore a maternal ancestor in America of the King family of Suffield in my own direct line. Mary (Remington) King was the great, great grand-daughter of Lieutenant John Remington of Newbury, Mass., 1673. He belonged, it is said, to a younger branch of a very ancient family in County York, England. It is claimed that Beatrix de Remington, Lady Prioress of the Benedictine Convent of Clementhorpe, County York, England, in 1396, was one of the early members of the same family. The Yorkshire visitation in 1665 found that the family had at that time (1665) resided there for six continuous generations. The Remington family, consisting of several branches, still continue to reside in York and Lancaster Counties, England. The arms borne by the Remingtons of Lund, County York, and the Remingtons of Crow Trees, Melling, County Lancaster, are blazoned as follows: "Barry of twelve Arg. and Az. a bend gules. Crest: A hand erect holding a broken tilting spear all ppr." The family of Broomhead Hall, Sheffield, County York, bear a modification of these arms which consists of a "barry of ten" instead of a "barry of twelve." I have been unable however to obtain any authentic data showing the relationship between those English families and our American Remingtons.

JOHN¹ REMINGTON, the first ancestor in America, came from Yorkshire, England, with his wife Elizabeth and son Thomas, and settled at Newbury, Mass., in 1637, and became a freeman there May 22, 1638. He removed to Rowley and on May 13, 1643, was commissioned a Lieutenant of a military company at that place. He subsequently removed to Roxbury, and reconstructed its meeting house in 1658. He became a proprietor there also and is mentioned in the records of the town as "late inhabitant of Rowley now of Roxbury." He sold lands there in 1659 and 1662. His wife Elizabeth died at Rowley October 24, 1658, and he married (2d) Rhoda, widow of John Gore, who survived him and married (3d) Edward Porter. Lieut. John Remington had a son, John, who was a carpenter and a proprietor at Rowley, 1652, and had a very large family. It is sometimes difficult to separate on the records the two sets of children, and the dates of their respective births, especially as some of the Christian names are the same in each family. Lieut. John Remington died June 8, 1667, and administration on his estate was granted to his son Jonathan, who resided at Cambridge, and to John Stedman.

JONATHAN² REMINGTON, the son of Lieut. John Remington, was born at Newbury, Mass., Feb. 12, 1639; settled at Cambridge and married Martha Belcher, daughter of Andrew Belcher, July 13, 1664. He was quite prominent in public life and especially in military affairs. He was in command of a military company during the winter and spring 1675-6, and was very active in the later Indian War in 1689 at Groton, and in 1691 at Wells, and in the Eastern parts. He served with the Cambridge men under Capt. Davenport in the Narraganset Campaign, King Philip's War, and was in the great Swamp Fight where King Philip was killed. In the winter following, he was active in the command and supply of some of the garrisons in the interior towns. (See New Eng. Hist. & Gen. Register, Vol. 42, p. 96, and Vol. 8, pp. 317-320.) From 1682 until his death on April 21, 1700, he was the proprietor of the original "Blue Anchor Tavern" at Cambridge. He was Selectman, Town Clerk and Treasurer. He left a large family among whom was a son Jonathan, born July 27, 1677, graduated from Harvard 1696, and was a professor there in 1703-1707. (New Eng. Hist. & Gen. Register, Vol. 46, pp. 5-6, Vol. 8, pp. 317-320.) He was afterward Judge of the Probate Court for a period of more than forty years and was very highly esteemed for his learning, ability and high character. Up to the year 1798, there had been five of the Remington family graduated at Harvard and one at Yale.

He removed to Suffield, where he had a grant of land in 1674. He was a selectman in 1682. The "History of Suffield" by H. S. Sheldon, speaks of Thomas Remington, son of John of Newbury, as having had a grant of land of sixty acres on Feather Street, Suffield, and his son Jonathan had a grant of thirty acres next to his father's lot. Remington Street, in Suffield, once called Northampton Road, takes its name from this family.

ICHABOD⁴ KING (Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born in Suffield, Conn., May 14, 1756; died in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 18, 1834; married in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 27, 1778, Lovisa Adams, a sketch of whose pedigree will prove of interest at least to their numerous descendants now living. She was born in Suffield, Conn., Dec. 20, 1759, and died in Marlboro, Vt., Dec. 31, 1834.

Lovisa Adams King's immediate ancestors for three generations—parents, grandparents, and great grandparents—were born in New England. Many of her ancestors of the generation that immigrated to America are known to have been English, and it is highly probable that all save one were, and quite possible that even that one was also English. It is known further that all of these immigrants save four reached New England prior to 1645; and that none of them came later than 1661, more likely not that late. The preceding charts exhibit in concise form the ancestry of both the father and the mother of Lovisa Adams.

The father of Lovisa Adams King was Freegrace Adams, born in Suffield, Conn., Nov. 14, 1723; died in Marlboro, Vt., Aug., 1815; married in Suffield, Conn., April 4, 1753, Anna Kent.

"Freegrace Adams was induced against his wishes by his step-mother to sign a note for her son, his half-brother Samuel, the mother's favorite. Samuel failed, and Freegrace was obliged to give up one-half his Suffield farm. He accordingly decided to go to Marlboro, Vt., in 1774, when his daughter Lovisa was fourteen years old. Freegrace died when he was ninety-two years old. His wife, Anna (Kent) Adams, died in 1807, when she was seventy-seven years old. She could read fine print without glasses when she died."

The Marlboro manuscript history (kept in Montpelier, Vt.), states that Freegrace Adams "came to Marlboro about 1773 and settled on the well known Freegrace Adams farm, now owned by Almerin Ames."

The father of Freegrace Adams, Lieut. Abraham Adams, was born in Suffield, Conn., Nov. 10, 1687; died in Suffield Feb. 12, 1769; married in Suffield, April 7, 1713, Joanna Norton. "Lieut. Abraham" of Suffield was one of a Committee, 1745, to decide the location of the meeting house in Wilbraham, Mass., and was awarded £4 for his services. "The father of Lieut. Abraham

Adams was Hon. Jacob Adams, born in Newbury, Mass., Sept. 13, 1651; died in Boston, Mass., Nov. —, 1717; married April 7, 1677, Anna Allen and had lived at Newbury, Mass., but moved probably about 1681-2 to Suffield, where he was one of the most prominent and influential of the early settlers. Hon. Jacob Adams was often chosen to important offices, was a member of the General Court of the colony, then held in Boston, 1711 to 1714, and again in 1717. He died in Boston, suddenly, in Nov., 1717, while in attendance upon his duties as a member of the General Court from Suffield. He acquired a large property, and was greatly esteemed. His will, dated Nov. 20, 1717, is recorded both in Boston, and at Northampton, which was the county seat of Hampshire County—to which Suffield then belonged." (Robert Adams Gen.)

Jacob Adams was the son of Robert Adams. "Born in Eng. in 1602, Robert Adams came first to Ipswich in Massachusetts Bay in A. D. 1635, bringing with him his wife Eleanor (Wilmot?) and his first two children. He resided in Salem in 1638-9 and removed to Newbury in 1640, where he acquired a large farm and valuable property, and died there Oct. 12, 1682; his wife Eleanor having died there June 12, 1677.

The wife of Hon. Jacob Adams was Anna Allen, born Jan. 3, 1658. Sheldon's "History of Suffield, Conn." gives the name of Jacob Adams' wife as Anne Allyn, and states that she was the daughter of Edward Allyn, who, according to tradition, came from Scotland in 1636, had been a soldier under Cromwell, had a farm granted him at Dedham, Mass., 1649, had a farm at Ipswich, 1670, and removed with his family to Suffield about 1679. He married Mary Kimball. (Savage states that the wife of this Edward "Allen" was Sarah.) But the record of the children of this Edward Allyn or Allen gives no daughter Anne, no daughter of any name who married an Adams, and the dates of marriage of the three oldest daughters were from four to seventeen years later than the birth of Jacob Adams's oldest child. There seems therefore practically no doubt but that Savage and the Robert Adams Gen. are correct in stating that Jacob Adams's wife was the daughter of Nicholas Allen of Dorchester, Mass., born about 1616; died 1667-8. The surname of Nicholas Allen was also spelled Ellen and Ellin (perhaps usually so in his lifetime), but apparently settled into Allen with his descendants. Pope, in "Pioneers of Mass.," finds that he is mentioned in connection with court proceedings in 1639, was a Dorchester proprietor Feb. 2, 1646, deposed in 1656 when he was aged about forty years, that his first wife was Martha, who died

Sept. 17, 1660, that his daughter Ann was born in 1657, and that his will was dated 1667 and probated in 1668. The Dorchester town records also state that the daughter Ann "was Born the 3:11:1657," and the church records that she was baptized "9 (3) 58," but Savage and the Adams Gen. give the date of her birth as Jan. 3, 1658. There is nothing to prove that Martha Allen, mother of Anna (or Ann) Allen Adams, came to America prior to 1645, and hence she is one of the four ancestors of Lovisa Adams King not included among those known to have reached this country prior to that date. The birth of her daughter Ann shows of course that she was in New England by 1657 at the latest.

Joanna Norton, born in Suffield, Conn., March 17, 1693; died in Suffield, Sept. 3, 1726; the wife of Lieut. Abraham Adams and mother of Freegrace Adams, was the daughter of Captain George Norton, born in Salem, Mass., March 28, 1641; died in Suffield, Nov. 15, 1696; married June 20, 1683, Mary Barber Gillett (his second wife). He was an early Suffield, Conn., settler. "He was a freeman in 1681, innkeeper, selectman, captain and a prominent man in the town. He was the first representative to the General Court at Boston from Suffield, 1693, and was excused from attending another session on account of the poverty of the town." (Sheldon's Suffield Hist.) Captain George Norton was the son of George and Mary Norton. George Norton, Sr., Savage says, "was probably that carpenter who came in the fleet with Higginson, April, 1629, from London, freeman May 14, 1634." He removed from Salem, Mass., to Gloucester, where he was a selectman in 1642-3, and representative, 1642-44. Removed again, perhaps for a short time, to Ipswich, but soon to Wenham where he died in 1659. According to "Fifty Puritan Ancestors," by Elizabeth Todd Nash, George Norton, Sr., was born in 1606, the son of Thomas and Grace Norton, who were married in Ockley, Surrey, England, where their marriage record can still be seen; and Thomas was the son of William and Dencia (Chelmesby) Norton, of Ockley, England, and grandson of Richard and Margery (Wingar) Norton, of Sharpenhow, England. Further, according to this account, Thomas Norton was born in England in 1582, was warden of Mr. Whitfield's church at Ockley, and came with him to America, being one of the Covenanters on shipboard who signed the Covenant, June, 1639. He was the miller in Guilford, Conn., from 1646 until his death in Aug., 1648. His wife survived him.

The mother of Joanna Norton Adams was Mary (sometimes given Mercy) Barber, born in Windsor, Conn., Oct. 12, 1651; died in Suffield, Conn., Dec. 31, 1725, who first married John Gillett, and second, married June 20, 1683, Captain George Norton. Mary Barber Gillett Norton's father was Thomas Barber, of Windsor, Conn., born in England about 1614, who sailed from London for New England in the ship Christian in 1634, when he was twenty-one years old. He resided probably at Dorchester, Mass., first, but in 1635 was granted a lot eight acres and twenty-two rods wide, in Windsor, Conn. "In 1637 the name of Thomas Barber is found enrolled under Major Stoughton as Sergeant, and he participated in several battles with the Pequot tribe of Indians. Subsequently under John Mason, he greatly distinguished himself in the attack made upon the Pequot fort, which the Indians had deemed impregnable.

On Oct. 7, 1640, at Windsor, Conn., "he married Joan or Jane. Her surname does not appear in the church records of Windsor, but a number of the authorities lead to the conclusion that she was the daughter of one of the Dutch settlers at Saybrook, as some others of the Colonists married into their families. One authority says: "The wife of, or she who became the wife of Thomas Barber, was the first white woman to land in Connecticut." (Carlisle.) So far as known, this is the only suggestion of any but an English birth for any of the American immigrating ancestors of Lovisa Adams King. Thomas Barber was taught the trade of carpenter. "He was lieutenant of the first military company of Simsbury, Conn." (Howe's Gen. of the Barber-Eno Family.) Thomas Barber's descendants "have many of them been men of wealth and influence in Conn." (Hinman's Early Puritan Settlers of Conn.) According to the "Barber-Eno Family" both Thomas Barber and his wife died in 1662.

Anna Kent Adams, mother of Lovisa Adams King, like her husband Freegrace Adams, was born and reared in Suffield, Conn. She was born Oct. 2, 1730; died in Marlboro, Vt., Sept. 8, 1807; married in Suffield, Conn., April 4, 1753, Freegrace Adams.

Her brother was Capt. Elihu Kent, who when news of the battle of Lexington reached Suffield and within an hour's notice was at the head of a Suffield company of 59 men rushing for Springfield, where they took supper and pressed on at once. This Capt. Elihu Kent became a major and his son, Colonel Elihu Kent was in the Revolutionary Army with his father, and was captured by the British on Long Island and confined for a long time as a prisoner of war in the old Sugar House in New York, where he suffered greatly.

Samuel Kent, born in Suffield Dec. 14, 1698, died in Suffield Oct. 28, 1772; married in Suffield (1) Feb. 28, 1722, Abigail Dwight and was the father of Anna Kent Adams. He lived all his life in Suffield. His father, John Kent, was born in Gloucester, Mass., April 28, 1664; died in Suffield April 11, 1721; married in Suffield May 9, 1686, Abigail Dudley. "John Kent's descendants have been eminent. Chancellor Kent was a great grandson." "Sergeant Samuel Kent, the father of John Kent, was settled at Suffield in 1678. He was one of the first board of Selectmen in Suffield and was re-appointed for many years. His home lot in Suffield and his son Samuel's are now the Institute Grounds." He married Jany. 17, 1654, Frances Woodall and died in Springfield, Mass., Feb. 2, 1691. Sergeant Samuel was the son of Thomas Kent who was born in England and came to this country with his wife and older children. Thomas was a proprietor of Gloucester, Mass., in 1643. He died May 1, 1658. He was a yeoman.

Frances Woodall became the wife of Sergeant Samuel Kent in January, 1654, the earliest date at which her name is mentioned in New England so far as known. She is, therefore, one of the four ancestors of Lovisa Adams King the date of whose coming to America is not known to have been prior to 1645. She died in Suffield Aug. 10, 1683.

Abigail Dudley, born May 24, 1667, the wife of John Kent, was the daughter of Deacon William and Mary (Roe) Dudley; and the grand-daughter of William and Jane (Lutman) Dudley, who were married at Ockley, Surrey, Eng., Aug. 24, 1636, and in 1639 came to New England, "probably as friends of Rev. Henry Whitfield." William Dudley, Sr., was born at Richmond, Eng., and died in Guilford, Conn., March 16, 1684. He was a representative to the General Court for Guilford, Conn., and held other offices. His wife Jane (Lutman) Dudley died in Guilford May 1, 1674. His son, Deacon William Dudley, born at sea June 8, 1639, moved to Saybrook, Conn., in 1670, where he was a deacon, a representative to the General Court for many years, and commissioner several years. He died there May —, 1701. (Dudley Gen., 1898.) He married, Nov. 4, 1661, Mary Roe Dudley the daughter of Hugh and Abigail Roe.

Hugh Roe is first mentioned in Hartford in 1661, the year his daughter married William Dudley, but according to Savage he had first lived in Weymouth, Mass. This earlier residence in Weymouth makes it probable that he and his wife had reached America prior to 1661, but if not, they came later than any other ancestor of Lovisa Adams King,—the four not known to have come before 1645 being Frances Woodall Kent, 1654; Martha Allen, 1657; Hugh and Abigail Roe, 1661. Savage states that Hugh Roe removed from Hartford, perhaps to Salem, but in 1669, was on the freeman list of Conn., and before 1678 was at Suffield, Conn. Hugh Roe died there Aug. 5, 1689, and his wife Abigail died there Sept. 3, 1689. Pope says, under the surname "Row, Rowe, Roe, Rowes," that Edward of Gloucester was a proprietor in 1650, and that Hugh and John "(his sons?)" made agreement in 1662. And that Elenor, widow, was an administrator in Boston in 1643.

Abiah Dwight, born in Northampton, Mass., Feb. 17, 1704; died in Suffield Feb. 23, 1748, the wife of Samuel Kent and mother of Anna Kent Adams, was probably born in Northampton, Mass., where her father, Justice Nathaniel Dwight, was living at the time of her birth. Justice Nathaniel Dwight, born in Dedham, Mass., Nov. 20, 1666, "was a trader and farmer and justice of the peace and surveyor of land on a large scale. He married Dec. 9, 1693, Mehitable Partridge. He was decidedly religious, like his father and grandfather and most of his many descendants. He died at West Springfield, Mass., Nov. 7, 1711, when there on business, as is believed, and was buried there. It is the oldest grave in the old burying ground of that place. His real estate was appraised at £885.

Justice Nathaniel Dwight was the son of Captain Timothy Dwight who was born in England in 1629; died in Dedham, Mass., Jany. 31, 1718; married New England Jany. 9, 1665, Anna Flynt (his third wife). Capt. Timothy Dwight "was made free-man in 1655; for ten years town clerk; selectman from 1664 to 89; a representative of the town in the General Court 1691-2 and perhaps later. The church records describe him thus: 'Timothy Dwight, Esq., a gentleman truly serious and godly, one of an excellent spirit, peaceable, generous, charitable, and a great promoter of the true interests of the church and town.' Was cornet of a troop in his younger years, afterwards a captain of foot; went out ten times against the Indians, nine of whom he killed or took prisoner. In the cemetery at Dedham is to be found his tomb. It is a vault with an arched entrance and is covered over with turf." (Dwight Gen.)

John Dwight, the immigrant father of Capt. Timothy Dwight, "came in the latter part of 1634 or beginning of 1635, from Dedham, England, to America. He had sat under the preaching of the celebrated minister, John Rogers of Dedham, Eng. John Dwight came 'to found a church without a bishop, and a government without a king.' He first settled at Watertown, Mass., but stayed there but a short time. The Dedham, Mass., records began Sept. 1, 1635, on the day when the first town meeting was held. Of the twelve persons assembled together at the time, John Dwight was one. He was one of the twelve men to whom in 1635, the General Court granted a tract of land (Dedham) south of Charles River. John Dwight brought with him from England his wife Hannah (whose family name is unknown)," and three children. "He brought with him it is said, a valuable estate, and was a wealthy farmer in Dedham, Mass., and eminently useful as a citizen and a Christian in the town. He is described in the town records of Dedham as 'having been publicly useful' and 'a great peacemaker.' He was selectman for sixteen years. His will describes him as 'yeoman'" (Dwight Gen.). He died at Dedham, Mass., Jany. 24, 1660. Since the publishing of the Dwight Gen. (1874) it has been stated that the maiden name of Hannah Dwight, wife of John, was Close. She died at Dedham, Mass., Sept. 5, 1656. Captain Timothy Dwight married six times, but his third wife, Anna Flynt, was the only one who had grandchildren. Anna Flynt was born in Massachusetts Sept. 11, 1643; died in Dedham, Mass., Jany. 29, 1686; was the daughter of Rev. Henry Flynt, who came to America in 1635, and was ordained at Braintree (now Quincy), Mass., in 1639, where he died April 27, 1668. His brother, Rev. Thomas Flynt, went to Concord, Mass., from Matlock, Derbyshire, England, in 1637. The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register of July, 1902, states that they were probably the sons of Thomas Flynt, of Matlock, Derby, yeoman, who died in 1623, and Dorothy (Wood), his wife. "Rev. Henry in the great Antinomian controversy of those days, favored 'the new views,' agreeing warmly with Cotton and not with Wheelwright. Rev. Henry Flynt married Margery Hoar, who was born in England and died in Braintree, Mass., March 10, 1687. She was the sister of President Hoar, of Harvard College (1672-5), who married a daughter of Lord Lisle (and of Lady Alicia Lyle, noted in English history, one of the earliest victims of the infamous Chief Justice Jeffries in the time of James II.). The following is the inscription on the tombstone of Rev. Henry Flynt:—"Here Lyes interred ye Body of ye Rev'd Mr. Henry Flynt, who came to new England in ye year 1635, was Ordained ye first Teacher of ye Church of Braintree, 1639, and died April 27th, 1668. He had ye Character of a Gentleman Remarkable for his Piety, Learning, Wisdom, and Fidelity in his Office. By him on his right hand lyes the Body of Margery, his beloved consort, Died March, 1686-7, her maiden name was Hoar. She was a Gentlewoman of Piety, Prudence, peculiarly accomplished for instructing young Gentlewomen, many being sent to her from other Towns, especially from Boston. They descended from antient and good families in England."

Margery Hoar Flynt was the daughter of Charles and Joanna (Hincksman) Hoare (as then spelled), and the granddaughter of Charles and Margery Hoare. Charles Hoare, Sr., of Gloucester City, England, is mentioned in 1588. In Aug., 1608, he was about forty years of age, and somewhat short of stature. His will is dated 29th of May, 1632, and mentions "his beloved wife Margery." He was a sadler. Charles Hoare, the son, was also of Gloucester, England, where he died in the fall of 1638. He was an alderman from 1632 to 1638; a sheriff in 1634. On the Gloucester council minutes he was called "gentleman" or "generosus." He was a brewer. He married Joana Hincksman, whose "family was prosperous and highly esteemed in Gloucester." Joanna Hincksman Hoar came to New England with four or five of her children, Margery being one of them, about 1640, and died at Braintree, Mass., Dec. 21, 1661. The late United States Senator George Frisbie Hoar brought home with him from Gloucester, England, "a black oak door that had hung for 300 years on its hinges in the house on Longsmith street, Gloucester, where lived Charles Hoar, the direct ancestor of the family."

The statement that Anna Flynt Dwight was the daughter of Rev. Henry Flynt is given on the authority of "The History of the Descendants of John Dwight, of Dedham, Mass., by Benjamin W. Dwight;" of two writers to the Boston, Mass., "Transcript," January, 1907, and of Savage under the name of "Dwight," who there states that Timothy Dwight's third wife was "Ann Flint, daughter of Henry, whom he married 9 Jany., 1665, who died 29 Jany., 1685." The Dedham records give the following:—"1664—Tym. Dwight, & Ana Flint was married 9, 11, 1664." But the Braintree records state that "John Dassitt and Hanna Fflynt were married the 9th, mo. 15, 1662, by Major Willard," and there has been some confusion as to whether or no this "Hanna Fflynt" was Anna, daughter of Rev. Henry, and, if so, whether John Dassitt died and Anna then married Timothy Dwight. Savage, under the name "Dassett," states that "John, Braintree, married 15 Sept. 1662, Hannah, daughter of Thomas Flynt, of Concord, as one report is, tho. I think a better is, 15 Nov. as the town rec. to Ann, daughter of Rev. Henry Flynt," and concludes, "His widow perhaps married Timothy Dwight." This though John Dassett seems to have lived later than 1664. Pope, after recording the birth of Anna, daughter of Rev. Henry Flynt, in parenthesis notes the marriage of Hannah to John Dassett. The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register of April, 1899, p. 189, states that Anna, daughter of Rev. Henry, "married John Dassett, 1662." That the "Hanna Fflynt" who married John Dassett was not Rev. Henry's daughter Anna, but might well have been his niece, daughter of Rev. Thomas, of Concord, according to the report referred to by Savage, seems considerably confirmed not only by the differences in the names Hannah and Anna, but also by the names of the children of John and Hannah Fflynt Dassett and of Timothy and Ana Flynt Dwight. The Dassett children were John, Joseph, Mary and Sarah. By a former wife, Timothy Dwight had children, Timothy, John and Sarah. The first child by Ana Flynt was Josiah, the name of Rev. Henry Flynt's oldest son (mentioned in his will), who was less than two years younger than the daughter Anna. Josiah Dwight died soon and the fourth child was also named Josiah. Rev. Henry's only other son who lived beyond infancy and to maturity was Seth, and Anna Flynt Dwight's fifth child was named Seth, her sixth (the only daughter), Anna, and her seventh Henry. (Henry was Anna's son if Savage was correct, as there are reasons for thinking he was, in believing that the Dedham record of "Anna, deceased 15, 8; 75" referred to Timothy and Ana Flynt Dwight's two months' old daughter Anna.) It is of course possible that Rev. Henry Flynt had a daughter Hannah and a daughter Anna, as had one of Anna Flynt Dwight's descendants.

The wife of Justice Nathaniel Dwight, and mother of Abiah Dwight Kent, was Mehitable Partridge, born Aug. 26, 1675; died in Northampton, Mass., Oct. 19, 1756, who "lived in widowhood for 45 years at Northampton, where her grave may be readily seen. She did not join the church until 1736." Her father, Colonel Samuel Partridge, (born in Hartford, Conn., Oct. 15, 1645; died in Hatfield, Mass., Dec. 25, 1740), "was a merchant, and from 1692 to 1740 judge of the Court of Common Pleas, being from 1706 to 1736 its chief justice. He was also probate judge, and in 1685-6 represented the town, and was colonel of a regiment, and one of his Majesty's Council. After Colonel Pynchon's death he was 'the most important man in all the western part of the province.' He had ample wealth, and was one of 'the three Connecticut river gods,' as they were commonly denominated, the other two being John Pynchon, of Springfield, and Colonel John Stoddard, of Northampton. Colonel Partridge removed from Hadley to Hatfield in 1687." (Dwight Gen.). He married Sept. 24, 1668, Mehitable Crow. His father was William Partridge, who came from Berwick-upon-Tweed, England, and was one of the earliest settlers of Hartford, Conn., where he married, Dec. 12, 1644, Mary Smith (born about 1625; died July 20, 1680), of Hartford, sister of Christopher of Northampton, Joseph of Hartford, and Simeon and William. William and Mary (Smith) Partridge removed to Hadley, Mass., where he was a trader, in 1659. He died there June 27, 1668. He wrote his name Partrigg.

The wife of Col. Samuel Partridge was Mehitable Crow (born in New England about 1652; died Dec. 8, 1730) daughter of John and Elizabeth (Goodwin) Crow. "John Crow born in England was one of the earliest and best of the settlers of Hartford, Conn., being there as early as 1637-8. His wife, Elizabeth Goodwin, was the only child of Elder William Goodwin, one of the first settlers of Hartford, Conn., from Essex, England, and a large landholder. William Goodwin and John Crow settled, with others, in 1659, the town of Hadley. On Mr. Goodwin's death, March 11, 1673, his large estate fell into the hands of Mr. Crow, who was himself a man of great wealth for those times.

"William Goodwin was Ruling Elder of the churches of Newton, Hartford and Hadley. He came to America on the Lion, in 1632, which sailed from London. He was a very prominent and wealthy man; was plainly one of the very largest Hartford land owners." (Goodwin Gen.) The possibility of error on obscure points in genealogical data is well illustrated in the case of the (supposedly) two wives of Elder William Goodwin. The first record of his wife yet discovered in America is in Jan., 1669-70, when he sold land in Hadley, Mass., and the name of the wife who then joined in the deed was Susanna; and there is also the date of Susanna's death, 1676. It was supposed that she was the only wife. But some English records make it seem practically sure that the first wife of William Goodwin, and the mother of his only child, Elizabeth, was Elizabeth White, daughter of Robert and Bridget (Allgar) White, and granddaughter of William Allgar, Sr. The following is an extract from a 1901 number of the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register:—"The baptism of Elizabeth White, 5th of March, 1591, is recorded in the Parish Register of Shalford, as is also her marriage, 7th Nov., 1616, then a single-woman of that parish, to William Goodwin of Bocking, then a singleman. There is a bequest to her in her father's will, which is dated May 27, 1617, and she was probably present at her father's burial, 17th June, 1617. No mention of her has been found later than June, 1632. John Tallcott and William Goodwin came over in the ship "Lion," which sailed June 22, 1632, from London for Boston. A few days before she sailed John Tallcott and his wife Dorothy, and William Goodwin and his wife Elizabeth join in a conveyance of messuages, land, etc. in Braintree and Bocking." This "makes it highly probable that Goodwin's wife Elizabeth came with him to Hartford." In the list of the passengers of the "Lion" the names of only the men are given. After the name of William Goodwin (spelled Goodwynne) appears that of John White, the name of a son of Robert White. Robert White was a yeoman.

AURINGER - JANS - KING.

By the marriage of Roger⁵ King (Lt. Eliphilet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), with Christina Auringer, their descendants are also lineal descendants of Roelof and Annetje Jans, who came to Rensselaerwyck from Holland in 1630, and settled first at Beaverwyck (now Albany), but subsequently at New Amsterdam.

Although she died more than two centuries ago, the name of Annetje Jans continued to be, and still is familiar to the public, by reason of its connection with the celebrated legal contests between some of her descendants and the corporation of Trinity Church in the city of New York, extending over a period of nearly or quite fifty years for the possession of real estate which was hers at the time of her decease in 1663. A few years after her decease some, but not all, of her heirs joined in a conveyance of the land in question to Col. Lovelace, who was then Governor of the Province. Subsequently it was confiscated by Queen Anne, who, in 1703, presented it to the Church. Apart, however, from the celebrity thus conferred upon her, she and her husband, Roelof Jans, have a permanent place in the colonial history of New York State by reason of their early connection with its first settlement as a colony under the auspices of the Dutch Government. Numerous references to them are found in the history of New Netherland, and of the cities of New York and Albany. Their names also appear frequently in early colonial documents preserved in the archives of the State, and which have been compiled and published by authority of the Legislature, under official supervision, in the "Documentary History of the State of New York" (4 Vols. 1849-1851), and in "Documents Relative to the Colonial History of the State of New York" (11 Vols. 1855-6.) From the several authorities referred to, a consecutive and not uninteresting history of the family might be compiled. The scope of the present compilation, however, being limited, a mere outline sketch must suffice, and for that purpose the following extracts are selected.

Among the "Names of Settlers in Rensselaerwyck in 1630" found in O'Callaghan's "History of New Netherland" (Vol. I, page 443), are included those of "Roeloff Jans, van Masterland, wife and family; Claes Claesen, his servant." In "Collections on the History of Albany" (Vol. 2, page 422), a chapter is devoted exclusively to "Annetje Jans" and her descendants, in which it is said:

"This celebrated character came to Rensselaerwyck in 1630 with her husband, Roeloff Jans, who acted as assistant bouwmeester for the Patroon. Five or six years afterwards the family was found in New Amsterdam, where he received a patent in 1636 for thirty morgens of land, lying along the Hudson River. About this time he died, and in 1637 or 1638 his widow married Dominie Everardus Bogardus, the first settled minister of the place. He died in 1647, and she returned to Albany, where she died in 1663 and lies buried in the Middle Dutch Church-yard on Beaver Street."

Annetje is portrayed at the time of her second marriage in the "History of the City of New York," by Martha J. Lamb (Vol. 1, page 85), as follows: "She was a small, well formed, woman, with delicate features, transparent complexion, and bright beautiful dark eyes. She had a well balanced mind, a sunny disposition, winning manners, and a kind heart." Much information concerning the family is found in the "Half Moon Series of Papers on historic New York." Number three of that series, entitled "Annetje Jans Farm," traces their history from a time prior to their embarking at Amsterdam for New Netherland in 1630, until the decease of Annetje in 1663. The narrative begins with a recital of the circumstances which led to the connection of Roeloff and Annetje with the settlement of the colony of Rensselaerwyck. We select from it only such brief extracts as serve to supplement the foregoing information.

"The West India Company had great difficulty in finding settlers for the provinces entrusted to their management. Finally, however, a scheme of colonization was evolved which threw all responsibility for outlay upon the shoulders of individuals. Large tracts of land in the province, with power to regulate and govern the same, were assigned to those willing to plant colonies at their own expense. Among the founders of the West India Company was a rich Amsterdam jeweler, Kilian Van Rensselaer. Kilian received a tract stretching above and below Fort Orange, on both sides of the Hudson River. It was about twenty-four by forty-eight miles, and covers the present sites of Troy and Albany. Roelof Janssen was engaged by the patroon as bouwmeester or assistant farm superintendent. Among others who went over on the good ship Eendracht, was Roelof Jansz, of Masterland, with Annetje his wife, and their three children, Sara, Catrina and Fytjie. Jansz is the contracted form of Janssen; the contraction for the feminine omits the 'z,' so that Roelof's wife is usually known as Annetje Jans. Her mother, Tryntje Jonas, either came to America with Annetje, or followed her shortly afterwards. In 1632 Kiliaen formed a government within his colony by appointing Schout, Scheppen and Ruden. Roelof Janz was one of the latter, so that he was evidently of some weight in the little village." Apparently, however, the honors conferred upon him in "the little village" failed to satisfy his ambition, for in 1635 he removed with his family to New Amsterdam, and very soon afterward "he was evidently of some weight" in the larger village; for there, as we find stated in "Documentary History of the State of New York" (Vol. 3, page 611), "Roeloff Jansen was overseer of the Orphan's Chamber under the Dutch Government, an office similar to that of surrogate. His widow, Annetje Jans, married, in 1638, the Rev. Everhardus Bogardus."

Although he resided for so brief a period in Rensselaerwyck, Roeloff left his name permanently inscribed on the map of the locality. A stream which empties into the Hudson from the east, some distance below Albany, still bears his name. Numerous grants of land, made between 1680 and 1687, were described in the patents as situated next to it or near it. Among them one for 2,000 acres to Robert Livingston, the proprietor of Livingston Manor, describes the tract as "a certain parcel of land lying on both sides of Roeloff Janssens Kill, called by the Indians Sanckhenack, east of Hudson's River, a little below Catskill. (See Documentary History, Vol. 3, pp. 613-15.) In the maps of Columbia County, at the present day, the stream is shown as "Janssen's Creek," the Dutch word "Kill" having given place to its English equivalent "Creek." Annetje Jans, as above stated, died in 1663. Her last will, the original (written in Dutch) is preserved in the office of the County Clerk of Albany County and a translation of it is contained in "Collections on the History of Albany," Vol. 3, p. 459. In it she is described as "Annetje Janss, widow of Roeloff Janssen of Masterland, and now lastly, widow of Rev. Everhardus Bogardus, residing in the village of Beaverwyck." Each of her four children by her first husband as hereinafter named, is mentioned in it. The lineage of her descendants down to a recent date is fully exhibited in the judicial records of the Supreme Court, and of the Court of Chancery of the State of New York, as reported at much length in "Johnson's Supreme Court Reports," Vol. 10, pages 338-357, and in "Sanford's Chancery Reports," Vol. 4, pages 675 to 813.

Readers of these records who have not had occasion to become familiar with the peculiarities of Dutch nomenclature will undoubtedly be at a loss to understand why the son of Roeloff Jans was called "Jans Roeloffson" and his daughters "Sarah, Catharine and Fytie Roeloff," or "Roeloffse." The following extract from "Reminiscences of Troy," by Hon. John Woodworth (published at Albany in 1860), at page 72, partially but not fully explains this singular transposition. After commenting upon certain obscurities in the matter of Dutch nomenclature the writer adds: "There are some other peculiarities about the derivation of Dutch names. If 'Jan' and 'Evert' Vanderheyden, residing in the same vicinity, had each a son named 'Jan' one would be called 'Jan Jansen' (Jan son of John) and the other 'Jan Evertson,' (Jan, son of Evert), and in time the original name of Vanderheyden might be lost in Jansen and Evertsen. It is for this reason difficult to trace the genealogy of many Dutch families in this country."

A further explanation is found in "Collections on the History of Albany," Vol. 4, page 84, from which we quote: "The system of nomenclature in early use among the Dutch settlers consisted in prefixing the child's to the father's Christian name, terminating in 'se' or 'sen.' Thus the children of Rutger Jacobsen were respectively Margaret Rutgers, Engel Rutgers and Harmon Rutgers, and Rutgers was subsequently assumed as the family name. The first settlers, Philip and David Schuyler, were more commonly called Philip and David Pieterse, being sons of Pieter Schuyler." "The change in the spelling and pronunciation is likewise a source of considerable embarrassment. Who would recognize the ancient 'Du Trieux' in the modern 'Truax,' or 'Beaufils' in 'Bovie.' As an illustration in point we frequently find Roeloff Jans referred to as Jansz, Janse, Janssen, and in some translations of the original documents as Johnson. One of many instances of this peculiarity occurs in the patent of land to Robert Livingston, referred to in the preceding page, in which three different spellings of the name appear in as many different paragraphs."

PRESTON - KING.

MAJ. SETH⁵ KING, (Lieut. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹), born Sept. 27, 1777; died July 12, 1851; married Oct. 15, 1808, at New Ipswich, N. H., Anna Preston, daughter of Dr. John and Rebecca (Farrar) Preston. She was born at New Ipswich, Aug. 10, 1784, and died there Sept. 6, 1863. She was born, lived during her entire lifetime, married and died in the same house, which was built in 1764 by her father, Dr. John Preston. After his death, Feby. 17, 1803, this house passed into the hands of Maj. Seth King, when he married Anne Preston and thenceforth became their residence. Dr. John Preston, the father of Mrs. Seth King came to New Ipswich in 1760 at the age of 22 years. He had been a fearless young soldier in the company of his father, Capt. Samuel Preston, in the French and Indian War. Little fighting was done after the capture of Quebec by Wolfe in 1759 and John Preston laid aside his sword for the scalpel and settled down in New Ipswich as a physician. The Doctor was a fortnight younger than the new minister, Rev. Stephen Farrar, who was ordained the same year, and the two young men became fast friends. Dr. John Preston married the young minister's sister, Rebecca Farrar, Nov. 29, 1764. The Doctor was a stanch Whig during the Revolution, but his professional duties did not permit his joining the army. He succeeded his brother-in-law, Judge Timothy Farrar, as member of the convention to frame the State Constitution; was one of the founders of the Appleton Academy at New Ipswich, and for many years its secretary. He filled the various town offices of town clerk, selectman and representative, and till his death in 1803 was a leader of public opinion. His son John was also a doctor, a graduate of Dartmouth College in 1791, and succeeded to his father's practice and, like his father, was a good townsman and filled many important offices. His grandson, another John, was a graduate of Harvard, 1823, and entered upon the practice of the law; was many years in the Legislature; was Senator from District No. 9 when all other members of the Senate were Democratic; was formerly a Whig but was one of the little band known as the Liberty party in 1844; was the Free Soil candidate for Congress in 1848; and was supported by the Free Soilers in the Legislature for United States Senator in 1852. There still reside

(1903) in New Ipswich several members of the Preston family, and among them John Preston, great-great-grandson of Dr. John Preston, Sr., who is principal of the Appleton Academy at New Ipswich, and his brother, Frederic Preston, a commercial traveller for a New York wholesale firm. Their father was William Arthur Preston (John, Dr. John, Jr.; Dr. John, Sr.), who died at New Ipswich Dec. 5, 1902. In 1867 he succeeded his father as treasurer of the New Ipswich Savings Bank, the affairs of which he conducted with rare judgment and ability until 1874. He was also president of the bank from 1889 until his death. In 1874 he resigned the position of treasurer to become the principal of the Appleton Academy, at which he had prepared for college. In the meantime he served also as representative in the years 1869 and 1870, as town treasurer from 1873 to 1875, and as moderator for eleven years. The position of principal of the academy he retained during the rest of his life and this period of nearly thirty years was of most remarkable value.

His instruction was of very high order; ample in resources, of copious and apposite illustration, accurate, vivid and forceful, and above all an inspiration of self-dependence to the student. He was, himself, an example of the true scholar, and possessed a rare influence upon the minds of the young, as well as the happy art of diffusing a delightful atmosphere around each subject.

For the following pedigree of the Preston family I am indebted to the late Frank W. Preston (great grandson of Dr. Preston, Sr.), who died Sept. 1, 1905, and was at the time of his death treasurer of the New Ipswich Savings Bank and also professor of mathematics in the Appleton Academy. He was a graduate at Harvard in 1858 and a man of rare ability and learning. He left four children—Kate, residing at Columbus, O.; William A., residing at New Ipswich; Frank H., residing at Springfield, Mass., and Herbert F., a graduate of Harvard.

The first of the family who came from England was Roger Preston and with him commence the generations in America.

FIRST GENERATION.

ROGER¹ PRESTON, born in England 1614; died in Lynn, Mass., Jany. 20, 1666. At the age of twenty-one years he left England, from London, in the ship Elizabeth, on April 8, 1635, for New England, and his name appears on the passenger list of that ship. There has been a doubt as to what part of England was his birthplace. On his embarkation he took the oath of allegiance at the parish of St. Alphage, Cripplegate (Cripplegate, London, probably) and produced a certificate that he was no "subsidie" man signed by witnesses "belonging to Blackwell Hall," the location of which is not mentioned. But from whatever part of England Roger Preston came it is certain that he embarked on the Elizabeth April 8, 1635, at London for New England. He settled in Ipswich, Mass., and is first mentioned in the records there in 1639. In a deed dated March 11, 1658, he sold his house and land in Ipswich. In this deed he is called "planter," and his wife is called Martha. He was in Salem, Mass., in 1660 and was licensed to keep an ordinary, and also the following year. He seems not to have been in very good circumstances and died insolvent Jany. 20, 1666, at Lynn, Mass. His widow, Martha, married Nicholas Holt of Andover, Mass., May 21, 1666, and with three sons at least went to Andover. She died March 21, 1703, "aged upwards of eighty years." There are no records of births to be found, the ages given below being from depositions. It is said (tradition) that Nicholas Holt, who married the widow Martha, came from the same part of England as Roger Preston. Nicholas Holt came from Romsey, Hampshire, England. The children of Roger Preston and Martha, his wife, were probably all born at Ipswich, Mass.

SIXTH GENERATION.

ANNA⁶ PRESTON, (Dr. John,⁵ Samuel,⁴ Samuel,³ Samuel,² Roger¹), born Aug. 10, 1784; died Sept. 6, 1863; born, married, lived and died in the same house in New Ipswich, N. H. Married Oct. 15, 1808, Maj. Seth⁵ King. (Lieut. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹). From this point forward see King Genealogy, Maj. Seth King, pages 160-161, ante.

FARRAR - KING.

The wife of Maj. Seth⁵ King (Lieut. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹) was Anna Preston, daughter of Dr. John and Rebecca (Farrar) Preston. The maiden name of the mother of Anna (Preston) King was Rebecca Farrar and she was the daughter of Deacon Samuel⁴ Farrar (George,³ Jacob,² Jacob¹), a man very prominent in his day. The Farrar family was one of the most distinguished in New Hampshire. One brother of Rebecca (Farrar) Preston, Rev. Stephen Farrar, born Sept. 8, 1738, in that part near Concord, now called Lincoln, and a graduate of Harvard in 1755, was ordained as the first minister of New Ipswich, N. H., Oct. 22, 1760, and continued pastor of the Congregational church there for nearly fifty years and until his death, June 23, 1809. A sermon preached at his funeral by Rev. S. Payson, D. D., of Rindge, from Acts viii, 2; "Devout men carried Stephen to his burial and made great lamentation over him," contained a well merited tribute to his memory. (See also New Hampshire Hist. Coll. I., 151; V. 165-167; New Hampshire Repository I., 182, 197-8; Shattuck's Concord, p. 314.) Another brother of Rebecca (Farrar) Preston, Hon. Timothy Farrar, was born at Concord, N. H., June 28, 1747. He graduated at Harvard, 1767. He was for forty years (1775-1816) a judge of the courts of New Hampshire and was appointed chief justice of the Supreme Court of that State Feby. 22, 1802. He married Ann Bancroft Oct. 14, 1779, and lived at New Ipswich. On the memorable April 19, 1775, he seized his musket and marched with a band of his fellow townsmen for Concord to oppose the British. He died at Hollis, N. H., Feby. 21, 1849, at the remarkable age of 101 years, 7 months and 12 days. An excellent steel plate engraving of him appeared in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 6, p. 312 (October, 1852). His memory was excellent even to the last and he still frequently rode on horseback when over 101 years of age.

Timothy Farrar, Jr., LL. D., a son of the preceding Timothy and Ann (Bancroft) Farrar, born at New Ipswich March 17, 1788, graduated at Harvard, 1807. He studied law under Daniel Webster at Portsmouth, N. H., and was admitted to practice in 1810. He started to practice at New Ipswich, but almost immediately thereafter became the law partner of Daniel Webster at Portsmouth, N. H., and remained such until Mr. Webster's removal to Boston in 1816, when he still continued the practice at Portsmouth. Dartmouth conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. He married Sarah Adams, daughter of William Adams of Portsmouth. He died at Mt. Bowdoin, Boston, Oct. 27, 1874. A good likeness of him is printed in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 29, pp. 224-233.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 6, pp. 312-320, publishes the genealogy of the Farrar family, and from that volume I quote the following extracts:

"The name of Farrar is said to have been derived from the Latin and French word signifying iron, and doubtless was first used to designate a locality where that metal was found.

As a family name it was known in England from "Gualkeline" or "Walkeline" de Ferrariis, a Norman of distinction attached to William, Duke of Normandy, before the invasion of England in 1066. From him all of the name in England and America have descended.

Henry de Ferrars, his son, is on the roll of Battel Abbey (a list of the principal commanders and companions in arms of William the Conqueror) and was first of the family who settled in England, which he did immediately after the conquest (1066).

When the general survey of the realm, recorded in Domesday Book, was made by order of King William I., in the fourteenth year of his reign, this Henry de Ferrars was one of the commissioners appointed for that great service. "That he was a person of much eminency, both for knowledge and integrity there is no doubt; otherwise it is not likely he would have been entrusted in so high and weighty an employment." He bore for his arms "Argent—Six (three, two, one) horse shoes, pierced sable (See 1 Sir Wm. Dugdale's Baronage; 6 Collins' Peerage). The family afterward became quite numerous in England and different branches of it were settled in many different counties." (See Peckard's Life of Ferrar.)

The foregoing extract, which we have taken at length from the New England Historical and Genealogical Register is sufficient here as to the English ancestry. As to the American ancestry of our Farrar family we will copy also extracts from the same volume.

AMERICAN ANCESTRY.

FIRST GENERATION.

JACOB¹ FARRAR, and his elder brother, John Farrar, were among the original proprietors of Lancaster, which was incorporated May 18, 1653. All who became inhabitants signed what they called a "covenant" for the better preserving "of the purity of religion and ourselves from the infection of error, not to distribute allotments or receive into the plantation as inhabitants any excommunicant or otherwise profane and scandalous (known so to be) or anyone notoriously erring against the doctrine and discipline of the churches and the State and government of this commonwealth." This was signed by John and Jacob Farrar ("ffarrar") Sept. 24, 1653, and subsequently by those who were afterward permitted to settle there. (See Willard's History of Lancaster.)

Those who founded Lancaster were mostly from Lancashire, England, from which place also came Jacob and John Farrar. Members of the de Ferrar family were early in Lancashire, England, and the family still continue there.

John Farrar, the elder brother, died Nov. 3, 1669, leaving a widow, who was appointed administratrix Nov. 7, 1670, and children whose names or number are not mentioned on the record.

Jacob Farrar, the younger brother, was born about 1615. He married about 1640. When he came to America he left his wife and four children, and about one-half of their property, in England till their new residence was prepared at Lancaster, when they were sent for and arrived at Lancaster in 1658. The town records state that "young Jacob Farrar was appointed to assist in marking the bounds of the town" in 1659. A valuation of estates was made in 1654, for the purpose of regulating the proportion of the inhabitants in subsequent divisions of the common land. To this the following note succeeds: "The estate of several entered since 1655" and among these is "Jacob Farrar added when his wife came, £168-7-0."

During King Philip's War, in the year 1675, Jacob had two sons killed. The town was taken Feby. 10, 1675-6 and most of the property destroyed by the Indians, and Jacob with his wife, his remaining son Joseph, and his daughter, with her husband, John Haughton, went to Woburn, where he died Aug. 14, 1677.

The "Humble Petition of the Distressed People of Lancaster" to the government for assistance in this emergency, dated March 11, 1675-6 is now on record in the office of the Secretary of State. It is signed "Jacob ffarrar" and 18 others. The widow Farrar and her son-in-law, John Haughton, Jr., were appointed administrators of her husband's estate, which was divided between the widow and "two children now surviving" (who must have been Mary and Joseph) and the children of his son Jacob² deceased." John Haughton filed his administrator's bond March 27, 1682. (See "Willard's History of Lancaster," and "Whitney's History of Worcester County.")

 iii. Henry, killed by Indians Feby. 10, 1675-6.
 iv. Mary, married John Haughton, Jr., Feby. 22, 1671.
 (All the above children born in England, 1640-1650.)
 v. Joseph, born at Lancaster, Aug. 6, 1660.

SECOND GENERATION.

JACOB² FARRAR (Jacob¹), born in England 1642. Came to Lancaster 1658; married in 1668 Hannah, daughter of George Hayward, of Concord, N. H. He was killed by Indians in King Philip's War, Aug. 22, 1675. Hannah, his widow, took administration on his estate Oct. 3, 1676, and at same time returned an inventory dated "27th, 7th mo., 1675." Soon after his death his widow and children went to Concord, where her relatives resided and where the children were brought up. She married Adam Holloway, of Marlborough. On Oct. 6, 1697, the four sons below named, all having become of age, deeded to their uncle, John Haughton, all the land they inherited in Lancaster from their grandfather, Jacob¹ Farrar.

THIRD GENERATION.

GEORGE³ FARRAR (Jacob,² Jacob¹), born Aug. 16, 1670; died May 15, 1766; married Sept. 9, 1692, Mary Howe. George was carried by his mother to Concord when he was but five years old and brought up by a farmer, Mr. Goble, at the place now called Lincoln. When George arrived at 21 years of age he had only a quarter of a dollar in his pocket. He called his companions together and told them he would treat them with all he had and begin the world square. He married Sept. 9, 1692, Mary Howe, who had also lived at Mr. Goble's from her childhood, and with her he lived, including the time they spent together in childhood, more than eighty years. He early purchased a large tract of land in the neighborhood where he was brought up and where his posterity of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh generations lived and their descendants now live. He was several years selectman of Concord. His will was dated March 17, 1749.

- iv. Mary, born Oct. 12, 1706; married Nathan Brown.
- 4 v. SAMUEL, born Sept. 28, 1708; married Lydia Barrett.

FOURTH GENERATION.

SAMUEL⁴ FARRAR (George,³ Jacob,² Jacob¹), born Sept. 28, 1708; died April 17, 1783. He settled on the central or home-stead portion of his father's farm and married Jany. 13, 1732, Lydia Barrett, daughter of Captain Benjamin Barrett, born Aug. 2, 1712; died June, 1802. Samuel Farrar was a deacon of the church, an exceedingly strong character and very distinguished in his day. He was much interested in public affairs, frequently serving his town as selectman, town clerk, representative, etc., and was a patriot of great zeal, steadiness and perseverance. He was selectman of Concord, N. H., in 1754, when Lincoln was set off, and afterward for many years town clerk and representative of the new town.

In November, 1773, he was chairman of the first Committee of Correspondence and afterwards a member of the Great Middlesex Convention of August 30, 1774, which led off in the Revolulution by Resolving, among other things of similar import: "That it is our opinion these late acts (of the British Parliament) if quietly submitted to, will annihilate the last vestige of liberty in this province, and therefore we must be justified by God and the world in never submitting to them."

He was also a member of the first Provincial Congress, which met Oct. 11, 1774, and at the age of sixty-six years, took part in the first battle of the Revolution at Concord, April 19, 1775. He rallied the militia before Colonel Prescott came up. (See "History of the Fight at Concord" by Rev. Ezra Ripley, D. D., p. 14, printed and published by Allen & Atwell; also "Shattuck's History of Concord" and "Kidder's History of New Ipswich, N. H.," pp. 358-9.)

Samuel Farrar died soon after the conclusion of the war, April 17, 1783, in the seventy-fifth year of his age, having witnessed the establishment of the independence of his country and endured the hardships of its acquisition, but leaving to his posterity the enjoyment of the rich inheritance of its blessings.

HOLLIDAY-HOOVER-SCHOONOVER-KING.

WALTER⁵ KING (Ashbel,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² *William*¹), born at Suffield, Conn., Dec. 26, 1792; married Cynthia Maria Holliday, daughter of Jesse Holliday (John, Joseph, John, Jonas), of Kentucky.

It is said that this name was formerly Halliday and that the line began with Henry, of Minchin, Hampton, England. Sir Leonard Halliday, great grandson of Henry and son of William (who in 1554 was created Baron Chandes of Sudley) was at his father's decease sent to London, where he rose to be sheriff and in 1605 was Lord Mayor of that city and was knighted by King James I. The coat armour of this family was:—Arms—Sable, three helmets argent, garnished or, within a border engrailed, of the second. Crest—a demi-lion rampant or, holding an anchor azure. Motto—Quarta Saluti.

Jonas Holiday was the first whose name appears on the Virginia records. He was sheriff of Norfolk county, Virginia, 1713-14, 1717-18. He had two sons, Marshall and Anthony. The latter had a son Joseph, born about 1669; died before 1718. He had a son Joseph who left a large family. Capt. John Holladay was probably a son of the last named Joseph. He was a resident of Spottsylvania county, Virginia, and died Nov., 1742. The Virginia Assembly passed an act May, 1780, ordering the court of Spottsylvania county “to hold their sessions at the house of John Holladay until the next court house, now building, shall be completed.” His will mentions nine children, of whom Joseph was the fourth.

Joseph Halladay was born about 1724; succeeded his brother as inspector of tobacco at Fredericksburg under commission dated Nov. 30, 1761. The office was held by the Holladays for over fifty years. He married Elizabeth (Betty) Lewis, daughter of Harry Lewis, and had eleven children, of whom the eldest was John.

John Holladay, eldest son of Joseph, was born about 1749. He removed to Clark county, Kentucky, about 1795, and died there May 21, 1819, being killed by a hogshead of tobacco which was being rolled down a hill to the boat, when it caught him against a tree and crushed him. His wife's name was Martha, and they were the parents of Jesse Holliday, who was born May 15, 1776; died Aug. 18, 1853. Jesse Holliday married Sept. 21, 1801, Sarah Hover, daughter of Capt. Emanuel Hover of Walpack, N. J., an early resident of that place, who appears from the following deed to have left that place before 1797: "April 18, 1797, Manuel Hover and Mary (Schoonover) his wife, of Northampton county, Pa.," conveyed to John Smith and his wife Mary, of Walpack, certain described land in Walpack, conveyed to Hover "by Anne Brink, Nicholas Brush, Nelly Schoonover, widow of Nicholas Schoonover, Elijah Schoonover, and others."

Capt. Emanuel Hover, born March 5, 1748; died at Milton, O., Aug., 1824, served in the Revolution as captain of the Third Battalion, Second Regiment, Sussex county, N. J. He was also a member of the Committee of Safety. His company was afterward recognized as part of the regular army and he served as captain under Colonel Rosenkranz during the remainder of the war. He married Mary Schoonover, a descendant of Nicholas Schoonover (or Schoonoven). Nicholas Schoonoven was among the early settlers of Kingston, Ulster county, N. Y., where his name appears in the records (pp. 81-88) of baptism of his children as follows: "Nicholas Schoonhove and Neeltje Van de Schuyven, their daughter Auginiet baptized 28 Sept. 1707,; and Nicholas Van Schoonhoven and Neeltje Van der Schuive, Dabora and Margrita, their children, baptized 7 May, 1710." The correct spelling of his name was probably Van Schoonoven, the Van being subsequently dropped and the termination of the name being changed from time to time. The correct name of his wife was Neeltje van der Schuyven.

The History of Sussex and Warren County, N. J., contains the following reference to the Schoonoven and other families (p. 314): "The earliest settlers in the township of Walpack, as well as in the county of Sussex came in by the old Mine road. They were chiefly Hollanders and French Huguenots." The name of Schoonhoven appears among these. (Page 316): "On Nov. 6, 1718, Joseph Kirkbridge located a tract of land on the Delaware river, adjoining a branch of the same, about three miles above Pahaqualin (an Indian village) in the county of Hunterdon. Joseph Kirkbridge conveyed this tract of land by deed, dated Oct. 10, 1725, to Nicholas Schoonhoven and Thomas Brinck. By a re-survey in 1740 this land was found to contain 1,200 acres, besides allowance for highways. It is described as situated in the county of Morris, in the western division of New Jersey, at a place called Walpack, upon the Delaware river." Nicholas Schoonhoven was a resident and landowner in Walpack in 1737. Peter and James Schoonhoven (afterward spelled Schoonhover) owned land in the township as late as 1786. Hendricus Schoonhoven was a freeholder of Walpack in 1762.

BAYEUX-VANDERHEYDEN-KING.

In the following genealogical record the lineage of the descendants of Harvey J. King (1824) by his marriage with Ellen B. L. Bayeux is traced in a direct line from Jacob Tysse Van Der Heyden, who was born in Holland about A. D. 1620. (See Munsell's "Collections on the History of Albany," Vol. 4, page 181.) He came to New Netherland in 1653. Two years later he visited his birth place and there, on July 25, 1655, at Amsterdam, married Anna Hals, with whom he returned and settled at Beverwyck; which had already become a trading post of considerable importance. He died there in 1691. (See "Early Records of Albany County," page 64.)

His son, Dirk Van Der Heyden, through whom the following genealogy is traced, was born about A. D. 1660. The exact date of his birth is not known, but in "Documents Relative to the Colonial History of the State of New York," (Vol. 3, page 436), it is stated that in 1686 he went from Albany "with a party under the command of Captain Roseboom upon an expedition to the Indians. The party was set upon by a much superior force of French and Indians, robbed and taken prisoners to Quebec." Finally, with three others he made his escape and reached Albany in five days, having journeyed all but about three miles by water. The records of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Albany show that his oldest daughter was baptized in it in 1687, and that he became a member of it on December 26, 1694. His wife, who was then Rachel Keteluyn, had been a member of it since 1683. He died at Albany, Oct. 10, 1738. (See Munsell's "Annals of Albany," Vol. 1, pages 98, 101, 242, and Vol. 2, page 157.) From frequent references to him in the "Annals" he appears to have participated extensively in Albany affairs. In 1699 his name appears among those who took the oath of allegiance to King William III., and in 1701 on a petition to the king. He also held various city offices. He was a large landholder, and on June 2, 1707, became the owner, by purchase from Pieter Pieterse Van Wogelum, of the tract of land extending from the Poestenkill to Piscawen Creek, on which the City of Troy now stands, and which remained in the possession of his descendants for several generations.

In 1774 his great grandson, Jacob D. Vanderheyden, (1758-1809), since known as "The Patroon of Troy," became by devise from his father the owner of the greater portion of the tract.

For several years thereafter, although frequently urged to do so by enterprising New Englanders, who perceived the desirability of the location as a village site, he refused to dispose of any of his land for such a purpose, but after much persuasion consented to give permanent leases of a limited number of building lots near the river. Several stores and dwellings were soon after erected, and in 1787 the name of Vanderheyden was adopted by the settlers as the name of the embryo village. Finally, however, he was induced to have a tract with a frontage on the river of about a mile laid out and mapped as village lots. They were immediately in demand, and he rapidly disposed of them by leases in fee, reserving on each lot an annual ground rent, payable to himself and his heirs forever. He would not give a deed or complete title to a lot at any price. Many of those rents are still in force, but more have been extinguished by purchase from his heirs. In the leases executed at that period the lots were described as "situated in the township of Vanderheyden." Later, by a vote of the inhabitants, the name of the village was changed from Vanderheyden to Troy.

The title of "Patroon," by which he was known in his lifetime and is still referred to, was derived from the manorial rights and reservations contained in all leases executed by him.

His prominent characteristics are portrayed in "Reminiscences of Troy," by Hon. John Woodworth, who was an eminent jurist during the early part of the present century, and who knew him well, having resided and practiced law in Troy from 1791 to 1806, when he removed to Albany, being then Attorney General of the State.

Judge Woodworth, though but ten years his junior, survived him nearly half a century, and in his "Reminiscences" above referred to, written in 1853, and published at Albany by J. Munsell, after a brief biographical narrative, concludes his sketch as follows: "He was one of the pillars of the Presbyterian church; always liberal in contributions, and in Christian labors abundant. His example at that early day shed a moral influence in the community, the fruit of which is visible at the present day."

A memorial tablet, placed near the pulpit in the First Presbyterian Church of Troy, describes him as "The Father and Founder of this Church, and its first Ruling Elder." He is also commemorated by a memorial window placed over the main entrance to the church.

HAIGHT-KING.

JANET CAMERON⁸ HAIGHT, (Fletcher M.,⁷ Gen. Samuel S.,⁶ Stephen,⁵ Jonathan,⁴ John,³ John,² Simon,¹ of Charleston, Mass., 1628), born July 9, 1823, in Bath, N. Y.; died Dec. 21, 1844, in Rochester, N. Y.; married Jany. 23, 1844, at Rochester, N. Y., George Eliphalet⁶ King (Seth,⁵ Lieut. Eliphalet,⁴ Capt. Joseph,³ James,² William¹). It is supposed that the name Haight was derived from the word Hoit or Hoyte, of Dutch origin. The word hoit or hoyt is now obsolete, but in old English it sometimes meant "to leap or caper" (Webster's Dict., Hoit) or to be noisily or riotously merry. The ancestor of the family may have obtained the surname from his athletic proclivities of leaping or capering, or because he was a noisily merry fellow. We meet with the word in the old English of Beaumont & Fletcher in the "Knight of the Burning Pestle" where the words run as follows: He "sings and hoits and revels among his drunken companions." The tradition is that the family was originally Dutch—"Hoyte"—and it is said that the present Baron Von Hoyte of Germany and the Haights, Hoyts and Hights are all from the same Dutch stock. However that may be, the family was well established in Somersetshire, England, as early as the year 1400. The earliest spelling of the name in the records of England in 1417-1418-1503 is Hoyte but Hayte and Haite occur with reference to the same family in England in the years 1548-1572-1610. The first American ancestor of the Haight family, Simon Hoyte, (sometimes spelled Hait) landed in Salem, Mass., in the year 1628 and soon thereafter the family spread to Connecticut, Long Island, and several places in New York state.

One of the most singular facts in connection with the Haight family is the orthography of the name and the various ways in which members of the same family have spelled their names. No less than thirty-four different methods of spelling the name appear in the records, as follows: Hoyte, Hoyt, Hoite, Hoit, Hoytt, Hoitt, Hoyet, Hoyett, Hoyette, Hoyht, Hoitte, Hoith, Hoyat, Hawett, Hoyght, Hoight, Hight, Hite, Hoett, Hyet, Hioght, Hiot, Hyot, Houet, Hyte, Hyatt, Hayts, Haitt, Hayt, Hait, Height, Hayte, Haite and Haight. Where the English and Dutch streams of migration met in Westchester County, New York, the various forms of the name settled into Haight, and the descendants of John Hoit or Hoyt of Rye, Connecticut and Moses Hoyt of Eastchester and of Samuel Haight who was in Flushing, Long Island, as early as 1684 continued the name Haight until during the 18th century it became the commonest form of spelling it.

The Haight family has produced many distinguished members. The father of Janet Cameron Haight (King) was Fletcher Matthews Haight, born Nov. 28, 1799, at Elmira, New York, died at San Francisco, California, Feby. 23, 1866. He was a graduate of Hamilton College, N. Y. Began the practice of law in Bath N. Y. Removed to Rochester, N. Y., in 1824 and became eminent in his profession. He was elected to the legislature from Monroe County, New York, in 1833. Removed to St. Louis in 1846 and to San Francisco, California, in 1854, where he practiced law in partnership with his son, Henry H. Haight (afterwards Governor of California) until 1861 when he was appointed United States District Judge of the Southern District of California by President Abraham Lincoln, which office he held until his death in 1866.

Major General Samuel S. Haight, the father of Judge Fletcher M. Haight and the grandfather of Janet Cameron Haight (King) born at Athens, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1788, died at Cuba, N. Y., April 20, 1863, was by profession a lawyer and practiced at Newtown, now Elmira, N. Y. He was Major General of the New York State troops in the war of 1812 and was marching at the head of his troops toward the Canadian frontier when peace between the United States and England was declared. His uncle, Major Jonathan Haight, born 1736, died 1779, was a gallant officer who had a short and brilliant life with an extremely sad termination. Maj. Jonathan Haight held a commission in the English army as Captain in the 44th Regiment, of which Jonathan Le Roy was Colonel. Maj. Haight's commission as Captain was signed by Governor James De Lancey of New York March 22, 1760 and is still preserved by his descendants. He was before that in the Indian Wars of 1759. He went with the English troops to Cuba in the War of England against Spain and was promoted to Major for his bravery at the taking of Morro Castle, Havana, in 1762. When the War of the Revolution broke out, however, he resigned at once from the English service and espoused the American cause. He was denounced by the English as guilty of treason and a price was set upon his head. He was hunted from place to place and his estates confiscated. When he died in 1779 he left a son Samuel Haight, who was afterward a general in the United States army in the War of 1812. This General Samuel Haight is not the Major General Samuel S.

Haight, who was in command of the New York troops in 1812, but was his cousin. Janet Cameron Haight (King) had also a brother Henry Huntley Haight, born at Rochester, N. Y., May 20, 1825; died at San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 2, 1878; graduate of Yale, 1844. He removed from Rochester, N. Y., to St. Louis in 1846 where he began the practice of law, but left St. Louis Nov. 1849, for California and arrived at San Francisco, July 20, 1850. He was eminently successful in the practice of law in San Francisco and acquired a considerable fortune. He was elected on the Democratic ticket Sept. 5, 1867, Governor of the State of California over George C. Gorham, the Republican candidate, by a majority of 10,000 votes, being the first Democratic Governor elected after the Civil War. He held the office of Governor until December, 1871.

Elizabeth Stuart (McLachlan) Haight, the mother of Janet Cameron (Haight) King, was a descendant from the Camerons of Lochiel, consecrated in history by the pens of Campbell, Scott, Hogg, Wilson and Macauley. She was born in Scotland at Fort William, Inverness County. We will begin with the first Haight ancestor in America.

BEVERIDGE - KING.

At least four centuries of Scottish life should be sufficient to give the name "Beveridge" the character of being strictly Scottish. So much is attested for it by the "Exchequer Rolls" of Scotland, vols. VI to XI, and Beveridge's "Culross and Tulliallan." Mr. D. Beveridge mentions Friar Beverage, or Beveridge, burned to death on the Castle Hill of Edinburg along with Thomas Forret, vicar of Dollar in 1538, and suggests that he may have been a monk of Culross, where a garden adjoining the convent yard was known in after days as "Beveridge Yard." The name, he further says, is a common one in Kinross-shire and the western district of Fife. The derivation accepted by Mr. Beveridge in his interesting book is "Beverege" or Beaver Island, which he refers to as an island in the Severn, mentioned under that name by Florence of Worcester. Beverly is also instanced as a cognate name. Supposing this to be the true derivation, the islet in the Severn would not necessarily be the actual source of the Scottish family name but a Beaver Island may have existed in Scotland. The Exchequer Rolls give us James, John and Thomas Beverage as tenants of Bonehill, in Fife, as far back as 1485-7. Burke calls Beveridge Norman. There is a Beuvrages, Nord of France. Bishop Beveridge's family was of Leicestershire and it is well to note that the fine domain of Belvoir Castle, Leicestershire, pronounced "Beever" has hills of which the "edge" or "ridge" may account for the joint Beveridge. (See "Notes and Queries, 7th Series, p. 252.)

ANNA ELIZA BEVERIDGE married Cameron Haight King, April 2, 1873, at Sacramento, California. She was born at Benicia, Solano Co., Calif., June 13, 1851, and was the daughter of David Forney Beveridge, born 1827; died April 16, 1872, and Hanna Rebecca Beveridge, born 1828; died Aug. 9, 1873, daughter of Capt. Robert and Eliza (Harvey) Winn. Capt. Robert Winn was a sea captain and was from Salem, Mass., but took up his residence at Benicia, California before 1850, Eliza (Harvey) Winn survived her husband and died at San Francisco 1881. She had a brother in San Francisco, James Harvey. David Forney Beveridge, the father of Anna Eliza (Beveridge) King, was the son of Robert Beveridge who was born in Scotland, came to America before 1822 and in 1823, at Baltimore, Md., married Anna Maria Forney.

Robert Beveridge shortly after his marriage with Anna Maria Forney went with his wife to Florida which was then a wilderness and the Indians there very troublesome. He and a business partner laid out a town which they named in honor of their wives—Mary and Anna—transformed into Marianna, now the county seat of Jackson County, Florida. There Mrs. Beveridge died and was buried. The children of Robert and Anna Maria (Forney) Beveridge were Susan Louisa, David Forney and Robert Duval. The last named, who died in childhood, owed his middle name to the fact that Governor Duval of Florida was visiting at their house when he was born. Susan Louisa Beveridge b. July 21, 1824, was brought up by her grandmother, Mrs. David Forney who took her daughter's children to her home in Baltimore after their mother's death in Florida. She, Susan Louisa Beveridge, married Jeremiah Fisher, then a merchant in Baltimore. Two of their children, Jeanette and Ella, died in childhood within a few days of each other. Mrs. Fisher's health failed after this, and after a vain attempt to regain strength by a visit to Florida, among her father's (Robert Beveridge) family by his second marriage, she returned to Baltimore and died May 31, 1859. She left surviving her (1) Anna Louisa Fisher, who died Dec. 29, 1876, was married to Henry Sage Manning of Brooklyn, N. Y., and left a son Richard Fisher Manning. (2) Leila Beveridge Fisher who married William C. Howard of Brooklyn, N. Y. They have three children, Helen Louise Howard, born Jany. 31, 1878; Ruth, born April 24, 1885, and William Fisher Howard, born Dec. 14, 1887. The residence of Mrs. William C. Howard is (in 1903) No. 246 Washington Ave, Brooklyn, L. I.

David Forney Beveridge born 1827, died April 16, 1872; went to California in 1849 or 1850 in the early days of the gold fever. He soon thereafter lost his right arm by an accident while hunting. He returned with his family to Baltimore, but subsequently went back again to California. He held several county offices in Solano County, California, and while doing so resided at Suisun in that County. He was also Engrossing Clerk of the Assembly in the Legislature of 1869-70 and thereafter made Sacramento, Calif., his residence where he died April 16, 1872.

FORNEY - KING.

ANNA MARIA FORNEY, who married Robert Beveridge, was the grandmother of Anna Eliza (Beveridge) King, wife of Cameron H. King and an account of the Forney family may be of some interest.

Johann Adam Forney, the first ancestor of the family in America, came to Pennsylvania in 1721 from Wachenheim-in-the-Haardt, a small town ten miles west of Mannheim. The Haardt is a mountainous wine-growing district of the Rhenish Palatinate and it is there that the scene of Cooper's novel, The Heidenmauer, is laid.

The family name which has been spelled Fourny, Fornich, Forny, Farney, Ffarney, Furney, Forne, or Forné, Faurney and Farny is probably French; it is not uncommon in France and French Switzerland. A family tradition says that the Forneys were originally Huguenot refugees from France, who sought an asylum in Germany from religious persecution.

Christian Forney, the emigrants' father, had lived in Wachenheim long enough to become a citizen and they had relatives in the neighboring city of Duerkheim, where representatives of the family still reside.

Johann Adam Forney brought with him to this country a certificate, of which the following is a translation; the original is still in the possession of his descendants in Hanover, Pennsylvania.

"We, magistrates, burgomasters and council of the city of Wachenheim-in-the-Haardt, certify herewith that before us came the worthy Johann Adam Forney, citizen and tailor here, the legitimate son of the worthy Christian Forney, also a citizen here, and informed us that he, with his wedded wife, Elisabetha Lowisa, have firmly resolved to set out with their four children and effects, on the journey to the island of Pennsylvania and to settle there; but he stands in need of an attested certificate of how he behaved with us and why he departed, such as he can show at the place of his settlement. Which we gave him according to his reasonable desire and truthfully; moreover, because we believed it would really be required in order that no one could calumniate our citizen or citizen's children; although we have sought diligently and earnestly to dissuade him from such departure, yet he remains of his first intention; therefore after steadfast perseverance we have given the said Johann Adam Forney this certificate: That as long as we have known him he has behaved himself honorably, piously and honestly, as well becomes a good citizen and artisan, and, moreover, showed himself so neighborly that no one has had any complaint to make of him; he also is bound to no compulsory service or serfdom; he will not be unwilling to give, to show with all readiness to those of his intended residence all affection and kindness.

To this true certificate we, the authorities, have affixed our city council's great seal to this statement which is given at Wachenheim-in-the-Haardt, the 7th day of May, 1721."

In his family Bible the emigrant made this record: "In the year 1721, on Oct. 16th, I Johann Adam Farny and Lowisa Farnisin, with four children, arrived at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania."

Where they went after landing we do not know. A bond of John Digges dated Oct. 5, 1731 "to give at some future time an absolute title to the land" which he sold to the emigrant, describes him as "Adam Faurney of Philadelphia County in the Province of Pennsylvania, farmer and tailor," so that he probably spent his first years in America in that county.

He was settled in the neighborhood of what is now Hanover, York County, Pennsylvania, in 1734. It was then known as Conewago Settlements or Digges' Choice. The latter name it got from John Digges, who some years before had taken up some land there on a Maryland warrant, had it surveyed for him by a Maryland surveyor, and had sold some of it to Forney and others whose lives were "made miserable for some years by the turmoils arising out of disputes between Digges and other settlers, which were aggravated by the conflicting claims of Penn and Baltimore to the proprietorship. For many years the region was known as the "disputed land" and there was naturally much lawlessness." (The Hon. Edward McPherson in Gettysburg Star and Sentinel, 1876).

Adam Forney in a deposition dated Aug. 29, 1746 (Pennsylvania Archives, 1st series, Vol. II, p. 625, et seq.) gives an account of his dealings with Digges, showing how the latter had deceived him as to the title to the land, the amount of acres in the grant, lines of survey, etc.

Thomas Cookson, surveyor of Lancaster County, was sent by the Pennsylvania authorities to read the Royal Order to Digges in the Spring of 1746. This Royal Order was designed to settle the vexed question of the boundary between the provinces and in this case it bore upon Digges' right to take up vacant land in Pennsylvania on his Maryland warrant. But this invocation of the majesty of the law was without effect as we see from the following letter, with its quaint German idioms, from "Adam Forne to Thomas Cookson."

"Worshipful Sir:

May it please your worship we cannot but acquaint your worship what has happened here since your departure from us. Yesterday as the 24th of April, Mr. Digges sent a Deputy Sheriff out of Maryland for to arrest Matthew Ulrich and Nicholas Forne he took them two until to my house where I asked the Sheriff by what authority he rested those men, if they owed any money. If they owed any money I would be bound for their appearance at Court, but if he could not tell me no more cause than this viz: 'that those men should give their bonds to Digges for the land or depart from the land.' The two people have taken up their lands these five years ago from the Hon'r Prop'r's land office in Philadelphia and it was surveyed for the same. I ordered upon this them two men as Matthias Ulrich and Nicholas Forne to return to their Habitation, whereupon the Sheriff and Digges' son made resistance and the Sheriff drew his sword upon me and we then drew our swords and was a-going in upon them, whereupon they fled to their horses and so ran away and so was the way that we got ridden of our new guests. Now is our Humble request to you for to come up speedily and to look into the matter and settle it that we may have rest and live in peace and quietness as his Majesty's Subjects and not be troubled forever. For if this matter is not rectified and we do not get help speedily we must help ourselves and should it be with our last Drop of Blood, for I am well assured that we will not be put upon by no Digges that ever lived under the sun. So wishing that you may soon come over, I have no more to add but remain your

Humble and Ob't Servant

Adam Forne.

Little Canowako

April 25, 1746.

P. S. Sir:—Digges also troubled many more—in short all them that lives in his resurveyed additional lines and was going to have them arrested, but some sent him a-packing in the striving, and yesterday I heard that he should have said that he had made up with your worship, and if you did not come in ten days you would not come in ten years any more."

From this letter it is apparent that Adam Forney was a man of some spirit and would "not be put upon by no Digges that ever lived under the sun" even if it took his "last drop of blood."

Apparently after Diggles and the officers had been "sent a-packing in the striving" and had run off they staid away for some time and we hear nothing more of the Diggles' affair until in January 1747 the following petition from the inhabitants of Conewago was received:

"Mr. Cookson, these cooms to acquaint you of the yuseige we met with of Mr. Diggles and of the government of Maryland. Last week came an officer from Maryland to serve an writ on Adam Forney at the suite of Mr. Jno. Diggles of an Trispess on the Case, which officer came to the house of Adam Furney with two negro men and one convict servent fallo of said Jno. Diggles with Three men more of little better reputation as we are informed and as soon as the said persons intred the house they fall upon Adam Furney, draged him out like a Dog, never gave him lave to put on any close but what he had on and so hoisted him away thro a bitter cold night. When Adam Furney's wife and Daughter under a grate fright and seprise, seeing the old man so barbarously used, fell about the old man, not knowing what was the matter, lamenting and crying, when this convict fallow up with an grate club knockt down both the women and so followed up his blows and knockt the Old Woman twice more after they had the old man out as if he had been ordered to commit murder or some other outragies mischief. And that all without any Resin as none of us ever took either hand, stick or any other thing to hurt any of them or to ower defence"

It will be seen from all this that the period was indeed very strenuous.

The old pioneer's life seems to have been a troublous one even up to its close. In 1748 we find noted in the minutes of the Provincial Council that "An Indian this last Summer came in a rude manner to a substantial housekeeper of Lancaster County, one Adam Furney and demanded rum of him; he gave him some; but because he refused to give him more he withdrew a small space, and having his gun in his hand ready loaded he shot him in the breast and he lay a considerable time ill of his wounds, being expected to die every day. On this the Indian was apprehended and committed to Jail but the man recovered contrary to all expectations and the Indian was the other day released" (Colonial Records, Vol. V., p. 409).

Adam Forney died probably in the early part of 1752; family tradition says from the consequences of the wound inflicted by the Indian. His wife survived him at least a year for on July 20, 1753, she filed her account as administratrix of her husband's estate which was appraised at £1021—13s.—9d.

The Brown family, it is said, were originally from New England and descendants of the Puritan Pilgrim Peter Brown, who came to New England in 1620 in the Mayflower, or of his brother John, who came shortly thereafter, but I have not been able as yet to obtain sufficient data or genealogical records showing a connected lineage to that source.

BAKER - BRIDGWOLD - KING.

Ella Jane (Brown) King, wife of Cameron Haight King, was the grand-daughter of Elizabeth (Baker) Bridgwood, born in England May 24, 1819; died in San Francisco, California. Married in 1837 in England, John Coomer Bridgwood, an officer of the 7th Huzzars in the English army, whose regiment at the time was stationed at Birmingham. She was the daughter of Jeremiah and Mary (Ansley) Baker.

The Baker family is one of high standing in England. Their arms are blazoned as follows: "Arms—Quarterly, First and fourth gules, a goat passant argent, attired or, for Baker; second, argent, on a fess gules, between two bars wavy sable, three crescents or, for Dod; Third: per fess, sable and gules an eagle displayed or for Edge. Crest: Out of a ducal coronet or, a goat's head argent, attired or. Motto: Ars bona violentia.

The Baker family is mentioned in "Burke's Landed Gentry of England" from which book we have taken the lineage of the Baker family given below.

The arms of the Baker family which we have given above are those which were borne by both the father and grand-father of Elizabeth (Baker) Bridgwood and are also the same as those now borne by William Meath Baker, Esq., B. A., of Hasfield Court, County Gloucester, England.

Sampson¹ Baker, one of the early ancestors of the family, was a wealthy merchant of London, England, in the year 1610. He was married and left as his heir his descendant:

William Baker, of Bridgenorth, County Salop, England, who married (for his second wife) in 1736 Jane, daughter and heiress of George Dod, Esq., of High Fields, County Chester, England, descended from a scion of the Dods of Edge. His youngest son was: William Baker, born 1744, died 1785, who succeeded to the County Stafford estates of his father. He married Sarah Baker and left surviving him two sons:

First: William Baker of Fenton House; and second: Jeremiah Baker, who was the father of Elizabeth (Baker) Bridgwood, mother of Frances Sarah (Bridgwood) Brown, who was mother of Ella Jane (Brown) King, wife of Cameron H. King.

William Baker, of Fenton House, born 1770, died 1833, married 1793, Mary, daughter of James Bourne, Esq., and sister of Ralph Bourn, Esq., of Hilderstone Hall, J. P. and D. L. of County Stafford. She died in 1855. Of this marriage was born

William Baker of Fenton House and Hasfield Court, County Gloucester, England, who died unmarried in 1865 and was succeeded by his brother Rev. Ralph Bourne Baker, M. A., of Hasfield Court, Fenton House, Doveridge Wood House, County Derby, England, Rector of Hilderstone, Kural Dean of Stone, Examining Chaplain to the Bishop of Meath; J. P. for Counties of Stafford and Gloucester; married in 1845 Frances Crofton, daughter of Right Reverend Joseph Henderson Singer, D. D., Bishop of Meath by Mary, his wife, daughter of Rev. Henry Crofton and grand-daughter of Sir Morgan Crofton, First Baronet of Mohill Castle, County Leitrim.

Rev. Ralph Bourne Baker, died in 1875. He left as his heir, his son, William Meath Baker and also left daughters: Mary Frances; Sarah Adelaide, d. 1851; and Letitia Jane Dorothea, who married July 28, 1881 Richard Baxter Townshend, Esq.

William Meath Baker, Esq., of Hasfield Court, County Gloucester, England, was born Nov. 1, 1857. He was educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge, (B. A. 1880) and is J. P. for County Gloucester. He married May 24, 1884, Mary, only daughter of R. J. Corbett, Captain (Retired List) Indian Staff Corps, of La Pinedo, Hyeres, France. By this marriage he has a son:

William George Corbett Baker, born in 1885.

William⁴ Baker (William,³ William², Sampson¹) had, besides his sons William and Rev. Ralph Bourne Baker, a daughter Mary who married John Harvey and had a child Mary Harvey who married in 1860 George Ford, of Barlaston, Co. Stafford, who died in 1874. Mrs. Mary Ford is also mentioned in Burke's "Landed Gentry of England" as "Mistress Mary (Harvey) Ford of Blurton, Staffordshire, only child and daughter of John Harvey, J. P. of Blurdon, who died 1863 and daughter of Mary, third child of William Baker, Esq., of Fenton House, County Stafford. Mrs. Ford is owner of the Fenton Potteries. Children among others John Henry Ford, born 1861. Seat, Blurton House, Stoke on Trent.

WASHINGTON - LEWIS - STEELE - KING.

DAVID LEICESTER⁸ KING (Leicester,⁷ David,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ James,³ James,² William¹), born in Warren, Ohio, Dec. 24, 1825; died in Akron, Ohio, Jan. 29, 1902; married in Charleston, West Va., May 1, 1894, Bettie Washington Steele, a grand niece of our first President, George Washington.

A brief synopsis of the genealogy of the Washington family, sufficient to show this connection between the Washington and King families, will therefore undoubtedly be of interest; but it will be unnecessary for such purpose to give here more than a mere skeleton outline of the same. Indeed until quite recently, nothing was definitely known concerning the English ancestry of the Washington family. General Washington himself, with the aid also of the College of Arms in London, Eng., made considerable effort to trace the ancestry of his grandfather, John Washington, who in 1657 came from England to Va., but the result was unsatisfactory. Ever since then genealogists both in England and America have made most persistent, patient and laborious search to discover the English origin of the Washington family, and it is only within the last fifteen or twenty years that definite and reliable information concerning the same has been obtained.

Those who desire to investigate the English ancestry of the Washington family more fully are referred to Vol. 14 of the Writings of George Washington, by Worthington Chauncey Ford in an appendix to which, entitled "The Washington Family," a very complete genealogy of that family will be found, from which I have extracted much of the information below given.

Before the latter part of the fifteenth century and prior to the discovery of America, the Washington family was established in County Lancaster, England. The earliest known ancestor was John¹ Washington, of Whitfield, in that County, who left a son named Robert,² who married Miss Westfield and left a son named John.³ The three succeeding generations were of Northamptonshire. John³ Washington married Margaret Kitson and had a son named Lawrence⁴ Washington of Northampton and Grays Inn and mayor of Northampton in 1532. On the dissolution of the monasteries in 30 Henry VIII (1538-9) Lawrence⁴ Washington received a grant of a parcel of the dissolved priory of St. Andrew, the Manor of Sulgrave, with all the lands in Sulgrave and Woodford, certain lands in Stolesbury and Colton near Northampton that belonged to this priory and all the lands in Sulgrave belonging to the priories of Canons Ashby and Catesby. He died in 1584, possessed of the above and other lands and was buried in Sulgrave Church. The place of his interment is marked by a plate bearing thereon, besides his name, etc., the Arms of the Washington Family "Argent, two bars gules, in chief three mullets of the second" and in this connection I am led to remark here that it seems to me not improbable that the Coat of Arms of the Washington family with its stars (mullets) and its red (gules) bars or stripes on a white (argent or silver) field, suggested to Betsey Ross the design of the American Flag, the stars and stripes, which she so skillfully and artistically executed.

Lawrence⁴ Washington married Anne Pargiter and left a son Robert⁵ Washington, who married Elizabeth Light and left a son Lawrence⁶ Washington, who married Margaret Butler and had a son Lawrence⁷ Washington.

Lawrence⁷ Washington was born about 1602 and died 1652. He received the degree B. A. from and he was a fellow of Brasenose College, but he resigned his fellowship in 1632 to take the valuable living in Purleigh, County Essex, England. In 1643, however, he was by Parliament ejected from this living for being as was alleged "a malignant royalist, a friend of papists, a frequenter of taverns, an ale tippler and a drunkard," all of which charges were strictly denied by himself and by his friends and were undoubtedly untrue. He thereafter had a poorly paid living in another parish. He married Amphillis Roads and was the father of the immigrant ancestor of the Washington family of Virginia, John⁸ Washington.

It will be thus seen that the Washingtons of Virginia came of eminently respectable stock. The earliest of its forebears yet discovered was described as "gentlemen." The family were granted lands by King Henry VIII, held various offices of honor, married into good families, and under the Stuarts two were knighted and a third served as a page to Prince Charles. The generations in America and the connection between the Washington and King families are given below. The first generation in America begins with the eighth English generation as follows:

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN⁸ WASHINGTON, (Lawrence⁷, Lawrence⁶, Robert⁵, Lawrence⁴, John³, Robert², John¹), born 1633; died 1677. Took to the sea and in 1656 assisted "as second man in Sayleing ye Vessel to Virginia." He took up land in the colony, became a county officer, a burgess and a Colonel of Militia. In this latter function he commanded the Virginia troops during the Indian War of 1675. His first wife and her two children having died, he married for his second wife Anna (Pope) Broadhurst, daughter of Nathaniel Pope of "Appomattocks gent'n" and widow of Walter Broadhurst.

He was for some time a member of General Washington's family at Mount Vernon. He married, Sept. 26, 1795, Ellen Hackley Pollard of Richmond, Va. They lived for a time at Woodlawn, Culpepper Co., Va., but General Washington having given Howell Lewis a tract of land on the Kanawha river, which he had cultivated Mr. and Mrs. Howell Lewis moved from Eastern Virginia and took up their residence on this land.

ISSUE:

- 6 iv. ELLEN JAEL¹³ LEWIS, b. Jany. 28, 1802; d. —; m. —.

(And nine others, viz., (1) Robert Pollard; (2) Bettie W.;

(3) George; (4) Francis Fielding; (5) Virginia; (6) Howell; (7) John Edward; (8) Lawrence; (9) Henry Dangerfield Lewis. Ellen Jael Lewis was the fourth child of her parents.)

SIXTH GENERATION.

ELLEN JAEL¹³ LEWIS, (Howell,¹² Bettie,¹¹ Washington Augustine,¹⁰ Lawrence,⁹ John,⁸ Lawrence,⁷ Lawrence,⁶ Robert,⁵ Lawrence,⁴ John,³ Robert,² *John*¹), born Jany. 28, 1802; died —; married —, Robert Steele of Louisville, Ky., whose ancestor came from Scotland the latter part of the seventeenth century and settled in Pennsylvania. The Steele family subsequently moved to Kentucky. Mr. Robert Steel died in 1826, after which Mrs. Steel and her mother, Mrs. Lewis, moved to Charleston, W. Va.

ISSUE:

- 7 i. BETTY WASHINGTON¹⁴ STEELE, b. Dec. 10, 1826; m. David L. King.

SEVENTH GENERATION.

While this book was in the press three or four deaths occurred among members of the King Family, who are mentioned in the preceding pages. When possible these were inserted as the proof was read. The notices of two received too late for that are given below. There were also some paragraphs descriptive of persons which were inadvertently omitted. The following, to which my attention has been called by Miss Alice L. Priest, of Shenandoah, Iowa, who speaks from a personal acquaintance with those described, will supply some of these defects:

HARRIET LUCINDA CALDWELL BURTON (page 181), died March 25, 1908, at Corydon, Iowa, and was buried in New York, Iowa. As daughter, wife, mother, neighbor and friend she was a pillar of strength, an arm to be leaned on, a counselor to turn to, a stay in time of need. As physician's wife she was almost a second loved physician to their community.

HANNAH MARIA CALDWELL PARKER (page 182) like her brothers, was called by the second name. The natural sweetness, brightness and kindness of her spirit endured through life. A general favorite as a winning, pretty young woman, the later cares of a household did not limit her outlook and wide sympathies.

JOHN WESLEY CALDWELL (page 186) had the soul of a poet, one of Nature's poets, and the physical appearance of one of the most refined and handsome of them. He loved Nature quietly, deeply, all his life; he could have walked with Wordsworth. With those who loved him tenderly and whom he tenderly loved, he rests among the Northfield hills he longed for.

CLARA KING POWERS (page 285) was a most loving and gentle lady. She had a slender frame and soft, beautiful black eyes, with a tender winning, almost shy light in them. A sensitive face and soul, and all the graces that mark the gentlewoman of culture and refinement.

I have also to add the following:

NELSON NEWTON KING (page 370) died at Suffield, Conn., April 23, 1908, from pneumonia, after a brief illness.

HENRY JUNEAU KING (page 382) married at Chicago, Ill., May 27, 1908, Mora Saxe, daughter of Albert E. Saxe.

CAMERON HAIGHT KING JR., (page 466) married at San Francisco, California, September 5, 1908, Isabel Dunblaine Conde, born June 7, 1883, daughter of the late George Meade and Cornelia (De Groot) Conde. Mr. Conde was for many years cashier of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of San Francisco. Mrs. King, like her husband, attended Stanford University.

CORRECTION.

MARY KING (page 212). The statement that this Mary King married (1) George Parsons, (2) James Harper Bartlett, is an error. So also is the same statement regarding her on page 149. The entire paragraph No. 252, page 212, should be omitted. She died unmarried. It was another MARY KING who married (1) George Parsons (2) James Harper Bartlett. This is correctly set forth in No. 200, pages 230-232 and the issue of such marriages is there correctly given. See also page 153.
